PRINCE PAUL TO BE LEADING SPIRIT

(International News Service)

BELGRADE, Oct. 11—Losing no further time in grasping firmly the reins that King Alexander's fingers dropped, Yugoslavia's three regents today took preliminary steps toward forming a strong government of "National concentration" in the hope of whipping together the conflicting racial and political interests of the tripartite kingdom.

Power to take immediate control was given to the triumvirate, headed by Prince Paul, bother of the dead king when the regency council, took the oath of allegiance to King Peter before a joint meeting of the senate and chamber of deputies.

Prince Paul, a slim, youthful figure in the uniform of a colonel of the Royal Guard, was cheered loudly as he entered the black draped parliament hall.

The three regents—Paul, Senator Radenko Stankovitch and Governor Ivan Perovitch of Zagreb—then rose together, held up the three fingers of their right hands, and repeated after the president of the senate the following oath.

"I swear to be loyal to the reigning King, Peter II; to guard above all things the unity of the nation, the independence of the state, the integrity of the state's territories; to govern accordingly to the constitution; and to keep the good of the people ever before my eyes."

Resignation of the cabinet was expected as the next step, leaving the regency council a free hand to reorganize the government.

Britain Looms As Aid

Britain loomed large as a powerful influence in the domestic and foreign policy of the new authority in Yugo-Slavia.

Prince Paul undoubtedly will be the "strong man" of the regency.

Schnader Meets Old-Time Football Rival In Rev. Stump

Two former college football managers met in the Castleton hotel Wednesday night and laughed over their collegiate battles. One of them is the Republican candidate for the governorship of Pennsylvania, William A. Schnader and the other is Rev. A. M. Stump, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church. Rev. Stump was asked to deliver the invocation at the Republican dinner in the Castleton hotel as a courtesy to General Schnader who is a son of a Lutheran minister.

As the meeting was breaking up General Schnader said to Rev. Stump. "Were you ever connected with the football team of Muhlenburg college?"

"I was the manager of it in 1907" said Rev. Stump.

"That's what I thought" said the general. "Do you remember the battle you and I had over the date of the annual game between Franklin and Marshall and Muhlenburg? I wanted one date and you wanted another."

Rev. Stump recalled the incident and for a few moments the two ex-football managers joked with each other over the merits of the teams they managed.

General Schnader was manager of the F&M football team before the days of Phil Bridenbaugh coach of the New Castle high school team. "Phil wasn't on the team when I was in school" said General Schnader "but he was shortly after I graduated. I remember him as one of the outstanding stars for Franklin and Marshall, and knowing something of his ability as a player I can understand why you have a consistent winner in New Castle high school."

HAUPTMANN IN BATTLE AGAINST EXTRADITION

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann will be given a court hearing next Monday on a writ of habeas corpus to determine whether New Jersey can take him to that state to stand trial for the murder of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., who was kidnaped on the night of March 1, 1932.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—What promises to be one of the most desperate legal battles of all time—a fight to prevent the state of New Jersey from extraditing Bruno Richard Hauptmann to stand trial on a charge of murdering the infant son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh—was to begin today in Bronx supreme court.

At the moment the taciturn alien carpenter and his counsel, James M. Fawcett, enter the courtroom, the claim of New Jersey to the prisoner becomes active and valid.

To Force Delay.

Fawcett, however, planned to move immediately for a writ of habeas corpus and since the granting of this writ is virtually mandatory, a delay of some length is almost certain to occur.

The extradition warrant which Governor Lehman signed last night was rushed to New York from Albany by special messenger.

In addition Fawcett has announced his intention of asking Supreme

France To Pay Final Homage

Body Of Louis Barthou, Martyred Official, To Lie In State

BODY NOW RESTS IN FAMOUS ROOM

By MEYER HANDLER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Oct. 11.—Louis Barthou, France's martyred foreign minister, came home today.

A gray sky added solemnity to the occasion as crowds gathered, in the streets, increasing hourly until the funeral train finally drew into Lyons station. Barthou's train arrived just ten minutes after Queen Mother Marie of Yugo-Slavia reached here from Marseilles, where her royal husband and Barthou were shot to death Tuesday.

Barthou went back in death to the foreign office over which he presided and which he had confidently left only a few days ago for Marseilles and Rome for what was to have been a triumphant vindication of his foreign policy.

Black Crepe Flutters.

In contrast to the joyful flutter of French and Yugo-Slav flags when he departed, gloomy black crepe streamers hung from the roof of the foreign office and black hangings covered the stately facade.

His motor hearse, followed by automobiles crowded with wreaths and filled with sorrowing government officials, drove into the inner courtyard of his old domain and stopped before the door.

More than 500 police guarded the entrance as eight men lifted the casket from the hearse and carried it past burning, black-draped street lights and the creped doorway into the foreign office.

Barthou's chief secretary and other members of his staff were unashamedly in tears as the casket.

Demand Of $50,000 Is Made For Release Of Louisville Young Wife

KIDNAPING STIRS STATE OF KENTUCKY

Mrs. B. V. Stoll, Wife Of Oil Company Executive Held By Kidnapers

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 11.—"The money's ready".

This word went out today to the kidnaper of Mrs. Berry V. Stoll from her wealthy husband himself. Stoll was hopeful that a contact will be made with the abductor this afternoon.

The ransom is $50,000, Stoll confirmed. Principals in the snatch drama indicated the lengthy ransom note carried detailed instructions as to the payment of the sum.

Search Woodland

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 11.—Search for the ruthless kidnaper of Mrs. Berry V. Stoll was concentrated today in a woodland area bordering Lake Louisville, twenty miles east of here and eight miles from the Stoll home.

A farmer reported seeing a woman fighting a man in an automobile in that vicinity about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon; two girls said they passed an auto.cbile containing a woman slumped down in the seat as if ill; and search of lake cottages wielded signs that two had been entered during last night.

As the morning wore on police admitted they were without definite leads. The new State police force was called into action for the first time, being placed at the disposal of the Louisville authorities by Adj.-Gen. H. H. Denhardt.

Mysterious Phone Call

A mysterious telephone call received by Stoll at 1:35 o'clock this morning was regarded as possibly having been put through by the abductor as a feeler. The connection was poor and the caller broke off as soon as Stoll answered.

Three important points were disclosed by the kidnaper in the note he left in the Stoll home, it was revealed today.

Besides naming the amount of ransom—$50,000—it named the intermediary and the probable site for payment of the rescue fund.

The remainder of the two-page missile was kept strictly secret but was understood to contain further kidnaping and possible death threats. Federal agents under Edward Connelley, department of justice chief for the Cincinnati district, who was ordered here on the case, imposed a mild censorship.

Fear For Woman's Life

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 11.—Grave fears for the life of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, kidnaped 26-year-old society leader and wife of a wealthy oil company executive, grew today as the hours passed without word from her or her lone captor.

Recommends Steps For School Recovery

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 11.—A double-barreled recommendation involving reduction of the number of Pennsylvania school districts and abolition of hundreds of elective or appointive administrative jobs in the public school system was advanced at the citizens' conference on public school recovery today by State Treasurer Charles A. Waters.

Speaking at the second of three sessions of the conference called to awaken public interest in the state's schools, Waters recommended:

"First, a courageous step forward from the ox cart era of school control into an era of management which would disregard our arbitrary political units and lift the school problems to a plane higher than any other in our construction of government; and

"Second, a reduction in school overhead, including the cost of levying and collecting school taxes even though it contemplates abolition of hundreds of offices now made elective or appointive by existing laws."

Cut School Districts.

Waters suggested that the number of state school districts could be reduced from 2582, the present number, to about 600 "profitably and economically," explaining:

"The school district is a creature of the horse-drawn era. It is a decadent proposition. In the days of mud roads the basing of school districts on arbitrary lines such as creeks and hills was excusable. To-

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann will be given a court hearing next Monday on a writ of habeas corpus to determine whether New Jersey can take him to that state to stand trial for the murder of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., who was kidnaped on the night of March 1, 1932.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—What promises to be one of the most desperate legal battles of all time—a fight to prevent the state of New Jersey from extraditing Bruno Richard Hauptmann to stand trial on a charge of murdering the infant son of Col. At the moment the taciturn alien carpenter and his counsel, James M. Fawcett, enter the courtroom, the claim of New Jersey to the prisoner becomes active and valid.

Recommends Steps For School Recovery

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 11.—A double-barreled recommendation involving reduction of the number of Pennsylvania school districts and abolition of hundreds of elective or appointive administrative jobs in the public school system was advanced at the citizens' conference on public school recovery today by State Treasurer Charles A. Speaking at the second of three sessions of the conference called to awaken public interest in the state's schools, Waters recommended:

"First, a courageous step forward from the ox cart era of school control into an era of management which would disregard our arbitrary political units and lift the school problems to a plane higher than any other in our construction of government; and

"Second, a reduction in school overhead, including the cost of levying and collecting school taxes even though it contemplates abolition of hundreds of offices now made elective or appointive by existing laws."

KIDNAPING STIRS STATE OF KENTUCKY

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 11.—"The money's ready".

This word went out today to the kidnaper of Mrs. Berry V. Stoll from her wealthy husband himself. Stoll was hopeful that a contact will be made with the abductor this afternoon.

The ransom is $50,000, Stoll confirmed. Principals in the snatch drama indicated the lengthy ransom note carried detailed instructions as to the payment of the sum.

Search Woodland

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 11.—Search for the ruthless kidnaper of Mrs. Berry V. Stoll was concentrated today in a woodland area bordering Lake Louisville, twenty miles east of here and eight miles from the Stoll home.

A farmer reported seeing a woman fighting a man in an automobile in that vicinity about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon; two girls said they passed an automobile containing a woman slumped down in the seat as if ill; and search of lake cottages wielded signs that two had been entered during last night.

As the morning wore on police admitted they were without definite leads. The new State police force was called into action for the first time, being placed at the disposal of the Louisville authorities by Adj.-Gen. H. H. Denhardt.

Mysterious Phone Call

A mysterious telephone call received by Stoll at 1:15 o'clock this morning was regarded as possibly having been put through by the abductor as a feeler. The connection was poor and the caller broke off as soon as Stoll answered.

Three important points were disclosed by the kidnaper in the note he left in the Stoll home, it was revealed today.

Besides naming the amount of ransom—$50,000—it named the intermediary and the probable site for payment of the rescue fund.

The remainder of the two-page missile was kept strictly secret but was understood to contain further kidnaping and possible death threats. Federal agents under Edward Connelley, department of justice chief for the Cincinnati district, who was ordered here on the case, imposed a rigid censorship.

PARIS, Oct. 11.—Louis Barthou, France's martyred foreign minister, came home today.

A gray sky added solemnity to the occasion as crowds gathered, in the streets, increasing hourly until the funeral train finally drew into Lyons station. Barthou's train arrived just ten minutes after Queen Mother Marie of Yugo-Slavia reached here from Marseilles, where her royal husband and Barthou were shot to death Tuesday.

Barthou went back in death to the foreign office over which he presided and which he had confidently left only a few days ago for Marseilles and Rome for what was to have been a triumphant vindication of his foreign policy.

Black Crepe Flutters.

In contrast to the joyful flutter of French and Yugo-Slav flags when he departed, gloomy black crepe streamers hung from the roof of the foreign office and black hangings covered the stately facade.

His motor hearse, followed by automobiles crowded with wreaths and filled with sorrowing government officials, drove into the inner courtyard of his old domain and stopped before the door.

More than 500 police guarded the entrance as eight men lifted the casket from the hearse and carried it past burning, black-draped street lights and the creped doorway into the foreign office.

Barthou's chief secretary and other members of his staff were unashamedly in tears as the casket.

A short while previously, a man believed to be Sylvestre Chalny, who registered at a hotel near Marseilles with Kalemen a short while before the double shooting, escaped into the forest of Fontainebleau.

New Castle school board is again facing the problem of exoneration of personal tax delinquents. At the meeting last night it was stated that a considerable number of well known persons are on this delinquent list. Pa Newc has noted in some states that publicity on lists of this kind gets some amazing results. It might work in New Castle.

Lawrence county is going to be almost without school football on Saturday, an unusual fall situation. New Castle plays at Washington, Pa., and all other school teams with the exception of Ellwood City have games away from home this weekend. Ellwood plays Braddock at Ellwood, Saturday afternoon.

An estimated number of 2,317 adults and children used the public library reading rooms last month. No wonder the place always looks crowded when Pa Newc stops in there. The number of adults using the rooms totaled 1,845; children, 472.

King Peter II, A New Picture

This schoolboy, 11-year-old son of the assassinated King Alexander, will ascend the throne of Yugo-slavia as King Peter II. This new picture of Crown Prince Peter Karageorge shows him as he appeared recently as a student at the Sandroyt school in Cobham, Surrey, England. The throne he ascends is none too steady.

Regents Forming New Government

Yugo-Slavia's Three Regents Take Steps To Rule Nation

PRINCE PAUL TO BE LEADING SPIRIT

(International News Service)

BELGRADE, Oct. 11—Losing no further time in grasping firmly the reins that King Alexander's fingers dropped, Yugoslavia's three regents today took preliminary steps toward forming a strong government of "National concentration" in the hope of whipping together the conflicting racial and political interests of the tripartite kingdom.

Power to take immediate control was given to the triumvirate, headed by Prince Paul, bother of the dead king when the regency council, took the oath of allegiance to King Peter before a joint meeting of the senate and chamber of deputies.

Prince Paul, a slim, youthful figure in the uniform of a colonel of the Royal Guard, was cheered loudly as he entered the black draped parliament hall.

The three regents—Paul, Senator Radenko Stankovitch and Governor Ivan Perovitch of Zagreb—then rose together, held up the three fingers of their right hands, and repeated after the president of the senate the following oath.

"I swear to be loyal to the reigning King, Peter II: to guard above all things the unity of the nation, the independence of the state, the integrity of the state's territories: to govern accordingly to the constitution: and to keep the good of the people ever before my eyes."

Resignation of the cabinet was expected as the next step, leaving the regency council a free hand to reorganize the government.

Britain Looms As Aid

Britain loomed large as a powerful influence in the domestic and foreign policy of the new authority in Yugo-Slavia.

Prince Paul undoubtedly will be the "strong man" of the regency.

PARIS, Oct. 11.—Fearful the terrorists who assassinated her husband may now threaten the life of her son, the sorrowing Queen Marie of Yugoslavia came to Paris today and clasped the eleven-year-old King Peter II. in her arms.

Grief-stricken by the tragedy at Marseilles which cost the life of King Alexander and Foreign Minister Louis Barthou of France, the queen mother arrived at the Gare De Lyon and went immediately to meet her son.

The meeting took place in deep secrecy at the private residence of Dr. Miroslav Spalaikovitch, Yugoslavian minister to Paris.

A heavy cordon of plain clothes and uniformed police kept all persons out of the Cul-De-Sac in which the home is located. The Queen and her son went into virtual hiding because of her fears of an attempt upon his life.

"Will They Kill Son?"

The thought uppermost in her mind, International News Service was informed by the French foreign office, is: "Will they kill my son?"

She asked French officials to withhold all information of her whereabouts because of her fears that the Comitadji band which assassinated King Alexander will not be satisfied with the murder of her husband alone.

Queen Marie came to Paris after seeing her late husband embark on his last journey toward his home-

Other Party Candidates Are Heard During Evening's Program

Smaller relief rolls and larger pay rolls was the theme around which Attorney-General William A. In size, in interest and in enthusiasm the meeting surpassed the expectations of the county committee officers and is taken to mean an interest in the campaign which will result in a heavy vote in November.

Scheduled as a single meeting in the court house, it turned out to be two large meetings. The crowd overflowed court room number one, overflowed court room number two and the corridors were jammed with citizens endeavoring to hear the candidates. BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 11.—See a ball game in Detroit, and home for early breakfast. Felt plum lost Wednesday afternoon without the Deans to watch.

Every sport is looking for outstanding players with "color." Well, Old "Diz" is a rainbow. Rainbow Deans! Brother Paul, while quiet and timid, is a great teammate for "Dizzy" and ball players say there is darn little difference in their pitching. They both got the old long free-arm Walter Johnson swing.

By the way, I saw Walter up there—looks great. And Tris Speaker, the one man that has never been approached in his playing of center field, and "Rabbit." Maranville looks great and says he will be in there next year.

With the Deans' success, and these little soda fountain colleges beating the big ones in football, it looks like a country boy's year.

Schnader Meets Old-Time Football Rival In Rev. Stump

Two former college football managers met in the Castleton hotel Wednesday night and laughed over their collegiate battles. One of them is the Republican candidate for the governorship of Pennsylvania, William A. Schnader and the other is Rev. A. M. Stump, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church. Rev. Clair K. Rambler In Hospital At Braddock Probably Fatally Shot

ANONYMOUS TIP IS GIVEN POLICE

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 11.—Clair K. Rambler, escaped murder and bank robbery suspect, fought for his life in Braddock General hospital here today following his being shot as he attempted to flee from a police trap in the suburb last night.

Having escaped from the Point Look Out barracks of the constabulary Tuesday night with John Gorich, Rambler was located on an anonymous tip from a woman. The tip said he would keep a rendezvous with a friend of Gorich in the suburb.

Wait In Ambush

While a dozen state police and county detectives waited in ambush, a boy placed a package of clothing on the ground and disappeared. Rambler emerged from the underbrush and walked toward the package. As the police surged forward, Rambler turned and fled, disregarding orders to stop.

H. fell in a fusillade of eight shots.

Rambler also escaped from the Swissvale police station last June following his arrest there.

At the time of his escape from the Greensburg barracks of the state police, Rambler was being held for questioning in connection with the theft of stamps from a Bolivar bank and murder of a negro whose body was found along the Pennsylvania railroad tracks recently.

Physicians at the hospital held little hope for Rambler's life. A bullet is lodged in his spine, they said.

be the governor. It was intelligent, it was constructive, it was concise. Lacking any of the old time political tricks, it was a plain statement of facts from a man who knows the state government from actual experience.

Opening his address he cited the record of legislation passed under Republican administrations in favor of labor and social reforms. Workmen's Compensation. Child Labor abolition, safety laws, anti-injunction and anti-yellow dog contract laws, pensions for the blind, old age assistance, mothers' assistance, welfare laws, laws designed to aid the farmer, a splendid highway system, these and many others he cited as proof that the Republican administrations had kept faith with the common people.

Seek To Manage State's Own Affairs

"We Republicans have an honest platform," said General Schnader. "Promises should be judged by past records. We are fighting for the right of Pennsylvanians to manage their own affairs and not make the state an adjunct of the national Democratic party. We are fighting for home rule, for the reduction of the all too heavy real estate taxes that burden the property holders of the commonwealth. When I am elected governor I want to make Pennsylvania a better place in which to live, a place where confidence will return, a place where relief rolls will decrease and pay rolls will increase.

"The little group of Democrats that have grabbed the control of that party now want to grab control of Pennsylvania in order to make it an adjunct of the national administration. What is the record of the Democrats in state matters? I have asked that question a number of times and we have no answer as yet. In the states they do control the record of labor or social legislation runs far behind that of Pennsylvania, which has been governed well by the Republican party for forty years."

Other Speakers

Senator Harry B. Scott was the first speaker of the evening introduced by County Chairman Roy W. Hazen. He spoke for the entire ticket rather than for himself and urged the voters to support the ticket from top to bottom. "We need Republican legislators in the general assembly who will hold up the hands of the governor and help him in his program of legislation," said Scott. "We need Republican congressmen in Washington to aid Senator David A. Reed in his fight for the rights of Pennsylvania."

Ben G. Eynon, former Registrar of Motor Vehicles, and a candidate for the nomination for the governorship in May, was present and he spoke briefly. He expressed his appreciation of the support he received here in May but said that it was now the duty of every Republican to support General Schnader and the balance of the ticket. His address was warmly received.

Shows Discrimination

Congressman J. Howard Swick was the last speaker on the program. His address Wednesday night was the best he has ever delivered in Lawrence county. He cited figures showing the unfair discrimination against Pennsylvania in the matter of distribution of federal funds. "For example," said Congressman Swick. "In the processing tax the state of Arkansas paid in $500,000 and received in federal funds $10,750,000. Texas received $47,000,000 and paid in less than $800,000. Pennsylvania paid in $8,029,000 and received back less than $620,000. Your money is being sent into the South and West and Pennsylvanians are being discriminated against."

Dinner In Hotel

Prior to the meeting in the court house the County Committee tendered a dinner to the candidates in the Castleton hotel. The dinner was well attended, the dining room, the auxiliary dining room and the lobby of the hotel being filled with tables. Rev. A. M. Stump invoked a blessing upon the gathering.

A short speaking program was held following the dinner. County Chairman Roy W. Hazen introduced Attorney Joseph Leta, candidate for the general assembly from the first district, who spoke briefly. He urged support of the entire ticket and promised his best efforts if elected.

Paul W. Cartwright of Ellwood City was next introduced and said that if elected he expected to carry the principles that have guided him as a business man in his work as a legislator. Congressman Swick and Senator Scott and finally General William A. Schnader were introduced and all of them spoke briefly.

Taking the evening as a whole it was a tremendous success. There was an outpouring of Republican sentiment that augurs well for the success of the ticket in this county in November. There was every indication of an unanimity of purpose in the minds of all Republicans to work towards one objective and that objective the election of William A. Schnader as governor and with him the balance of the ticket.

could be decided that the shots fired by Petrus Kalemen, the assassin of Alexander, were inspired by Italy.

Whipped to a frenzy by these inflammatory speeches, the rioters rushed to the Italain consulate and stormed the building, dragging the Fascist diplomat to the street.

Anti-Italian riots also were reported at Esseg.

The important Croatian city of Ljubljana lies less than 50 miles from the northeastern frontier of Italy. It was this frontier to which Mussolini called attention as a grave danger spot in his speech a few weeks ago at Bologna, when he told the world that "war is in the air and may break at any minute."

RANSOM MONEY REAY IN EFFORT TO FREE WOMAN

was learned that blood streamed from a deep gash in her forehead as her abductor, who struck her twice with an iron pipe, carried her from her suburban home to his automobile late yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Stoll was ill with a severe cold and her temperature shortly before the abduction was 103, her frantic husband, Berry V. Stoll, revealed today.

"All I want is my wife back alive" cried Stoll: and his brother, William A. Stoll, president of the Louisville Board of Trade, echoed: "We are eager to negotiate."

The latter was himself marked for "the next" victim in a note the kidnapers left demanding $50,000 ransom, it was learned. The $50,000 is understood to be ready for delivery but an attempt to contact the snatcher today failed.

Cold-Blooded Crime

The cold-blooded horror of the kidnaping of Mrs. Stoll was described today by Mrs. Fowler Woolett, 24, year old maid, who with Mrs. Stoll was bound and gagged.

Posing as having come to repair a telephone, a man entered the Stoll resident overlooking the Ohio river north of here at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the maid related. The phone was in the upstairs bedroom of the Stolls.

Clad only in a negligee, Mrs. Stoll retired to the guest bedroom while the man tinkered with the wires in her own room and made several trips to the basement.

The maid stepped into the room just as she overheard the man on phone what sounded like: "Well, I'll have to have help. Maybe the maid will do.

Tossing a tool onto the floor to distract her attention, he whirled, poked a pistol into her back and whispered, "Don't squawk." Then he pushed her into the room where Mrs. Stoll lay in bed.

"What's this?" she inquired when she saw the revolver.

"Come To Kidnap You"

"I've come to kidnap you" calmly announced the man.

Mrs. Stoll attempted to engage him in conversation.

"I'll write you a check," she offered, adding a remark about his amateurish holdup tactics.

In a flash he whipped out what appeared to be a pipe covered with cloth and hit Mrs. Stoll on the forehead, cutting a deep gash. As she reeled, stunned, he struck her again on the back of the head.

He drew a roll of two inch adhesive tape from his pocket and forced the maid to bind Mrs. Stoll's hand. Then he tied the servant to a chair with some wire, taped her mouth, ripped the wires from the telephone and ordered:

"Hurry up!"

"Where are we going?" asked Mrs. Stoll as she recovered slowly from the numbing blow.

"Out in a field," replied the kidnaper.

"If Berry comes back here, I'll kill him" he added.

"Let's go. I don't want any one to be killed," responded the captive: and asking the kidnaper to throw her blue and white checkered coat about her. They walked downstairs. As bood flowed from her wound she struggled to resist the kidnaper but he picked her up and carried her to his car.

Two splotches of blood stained the floors of the richly furnished home.

The maid placed the departure of the abductor and his pretty brunette captive at 4:20 p. m. It was not until after 5 p. m. that the tragedy was discovered. Berry himself made the find when he returned home. He said the maid tied to a chair, loosed her and heard the story of his wife's disappearance. He rushed to a neighbor's to phone the alarm but by that time the snatcher had a good hour's lead over any possible pursuit.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR VOTERS LISTS

Contract for printing the street lists of voters was let by the county commissioners this morning to Miller, Pyle and Street, at their bid of $477.50, which was the lowest of three bids submitted, the others being by the Brindle Printing company and the New Castle Printing company. Under the act of assembly relating to street lists of voters, no less than one hundred lists must be printed for each voting precinct in the city. The lists will contain the names and addresses of voters.

day such an arbitrary unit is a nuisance."

The conference sessions were opened last night by Gov. Gifford Pinchot who sounded the keynote by declaring:

"This great meeting, called to consider public school recovery, is part of our face-the-facts centennial of free schools. From it we hope will grow a frank realization throughout the state of the critical problems that face us—problems that have to be met. We've backed and filled as long as we can.

"The last regular session of the general assembly failed to meet the situation. The next session simply must act."

Seeks Income Tax.

After giving an account of his stewardship as related to education, the executive renewed his plea for enactment of a state income tax to help relieve real estate of school taxes, adding:

"Real estate now bears 85 per cent of the total school burden, although it represents less than 40 per cent of our wealth. That is wrong. A state income tax would cut at least $10,000,000 a year from real estate's heavy burden."

Pointing to the fact that 2,303 districts out of 2,582 in the state have less than 5,000 population, Governor Pinchot said that consolidation would cut more than $3,000,000 from the annual school bill.

Concluding, the governor said:

"You people, when you go home, can crystallize sentiment in favor of the reforms that must be brought about to such an extent that no legislature can possibly refuse to do the things that must be done. I hope you will do just that."

land yesterday from Marseilles, scene of the dual assassination.

It was her task to tell the full story of the tragedy to her son, and inform him that he is now the boy king of Yugoslavia, tenant of a throne that has been bathed in blood for more than a century.

Scores of plainclothesmen mingled with the throng as President Albert Lebrun's special train drew in with the sorrowing queen aboard. Members of the cabinet in silk hats and morning coats, and high ranking officers of the army greeted her on the platform.

From the moment she reached the station, the queen's movements were shrouded in mystery. She left by a back door, in the presence of President Lebrun and a few picked officials, and the automobile that carried her to the tragic meeting with her son dodged all followers.

Meanwhile, the dowager Queen Marie of Rumania, who has been staying with King Peter, proceeded to an unannounced destination, believed to be the Yugoslavian legation.

A few uniformed police and plainclothesmen patrolled the sidewalk in front of the legation but there was no other sign of activity. The windows were shuttered and from the second story a Yugoslavian flag hung at half-staff.

Flags were also flown at half-mast and tied with black crepe at the station platform, but there were no decorations or flowers.

HAUPTMANN TO FIGHT AGAINST EXTRADITION

Court Justice Hammer for a week's postponement to prepare his argument on the writ, and if, in the end, the writ is denied, the court's ruling can be appealed and another delay result.

Just what plans New Jersey had to prevent a delay remained shrouded in mystery. But the impression prevailed that it would be at least a week before Hauptmann could be taken to the Hunterdon county jail in Flemington, N. J.

Meanwhile new light was shed on the plans of both prosecution and defense by two significant developments.

Witness In Reserve.

One of these was an apparently well grounded report that New Jersey is holding in reserve a youthful reserve witness whose testimony at the murder trial is expected to be all important.

This young man—Hartley B. Phillips, 17—is said to have told state police that Hauptmann and two accomplices—another man and a frightened woman—bought gas from a filling station ten miles from the Lindbergh home in Hopewell a few hours before the kidnaping.

Phillips, it was reported, has not yet identified Hauptmann in person although he has seen his picture. The youth is due to confront the suspect after he is taken to New Jersey, according to unofficial information.

Development No. 2 arose out of the activities of 15 private detectives employed by William A. Martin, who is being retained by the defense. Martin issued the following statement:

"Hauptmann undoubtedly is guilty of having ransom money in his possession and ultimately will have to pay for that offense. We will prove where and how he got that money. He is merely a 'fall guy' for those who perpetrated the crime.

"The baby was murdered by a fiend who hated Lindbergh. Collecting ransom was not the original plan. It was an afterthought."

Fawcett, however, hastened to explain that Martin's statement was merely a private opinion and had nothing to do with present defense strategy. He denied he intended to argue the crime was committed by a fiend.

ASSOCIATES OF ASSASSIN ARE BEING HUNTED

as Ladislas Benes and said he came from Czechoslovakia lived with Kalemen in a small hotel in Paris for some time at the beginning of this month.

A third man, whose name was believed to correspond with Novak, visited the Paris hotel during this period.

Police found 1,700 francs (about $120) in the pockets of Benech, while the other man carried 1,000 francs. The authorities stated Benech was carrying a pocketbook which had been bought in the same department store where Kalemen bought a new suit of clothes a few days before the assassination.

Makes Escape.

The man police believe to be Chalmy was stopped for questioning when he stepped off a train at Fontainbleau.

Two gendarmes guarding the station platform approached and searched him, finding a revolver in his possession.

When they had taken his passport, he suddenly attacked the gendarmes, knocking one down with a blow and kicking the other in the stomach.

Stunned by the sudden attack, they were unable to draw their pistols and fire until he had climbed over a hedge alongside the railroad track and ducked into the woods.

Examination of the passport showed it clearly had been forged.

Meanwhile, the Surete Nationale announced that 12 Jugoslavian suspects who had been arrested and jailed in the Sante prison will be expelled as undesirables.

London, Oct. 11.—New mystery shrouded the identity of Petrus Kalemen, the assassin of Marseilles, today when Yugoslavian authorities recanted their previous announcement and declared the man was not a native of Zagreb, it was stated in a Reuter dispatch from Belgrade.

The dispatch said police had failed to find any trace of a man of that name or answering his description.

REGENTS FORMING NEW GOVERNMENT

The fact that King Peter, too, is due to return to his school in England after a brief visit to Belgrade as called for in his father's testament, may have some influence in the country's foreign policy.

It cannot be denied that there is a powerful anti-French feeling manifest in Yugo-Slavia today. The populace is convinced that the inefficency of the French police was partly responsible for the success of the assassin.

A decline of French hegemony, which the murdered foreign minister Louis Barthou had been manoeuvering to avert, will probably result, this factor, coupled with the country's enmity for Italy, is expected to result in closer friendship between Nazi Germany and Yugo-Slavia.

Calm, but grief-striken, a majority of the people of his country mourned Alexander today. In Montenegro, weeping women passed to and fro outside the king's birthplace.

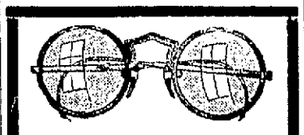

Day and night, churches, mosques and synagogues were filled to overflowing by worshippers. Jews in particular mourned the king, for he had been responsible for many reforms benefitting them. Special memorial services were ordered at all synagogues.

covered with a gold-bordered French tri-color, was carried into the famous clock room.

In this room, where Barthou's greatest work was done, he came to his last rest before the grave. It was in the clock room that the Kellogg-Briand peace pact was signed, and there the council of the League of Nations was convened to discuss the Sino-Japanese conflict.

To Lie In State.

While high government ministers, all dressed in formal morning clothes except Premier Doumergue, who wore a short black jacket, stood in silence, the casket was placed on a high catafalque in the center of the room. Large flowered wreaths were laid at the base; lighted candles surrounded it, casting dim reflections in the draped mirrors that reached to the ceiling.

There on a slanting bier, flanked by a military guard of honor, and illuminated only by the candles, Barthou will lie for a day or two while thousands file by in tribute.

Premier Doumergue and former Premiers Herriott and Tardieu paid their homage privately before the thousands of Parisians who had waited outside were permitted to the clock room.

JAIL FUGITIVE SHOT IN PITTSBURGH AMBUSH

Officers Fire As Fugitive Flees

Clair K. Rambler In Hospital At Braddock Probably Fatally Shot

ANONYMOUS TIP IS GIVEN POLICE

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 11.—Clair K. Rambler, escaped murder and bank robbery suspect, fought for his life in Braddock General hospital here today following his being shot as he attempted to flee from a police trap in the suburb last night.

Having escaped from the Point Look Out barracks of the constabulary Tuesday night with John Gorich, Rambler was located on an anonymous tip from a woman. The tip said he would keep a rendezvous with a friend of Gorich in the suburb.

Wait In Ambush

While a dozen state police and county detectives waited in ambush, a boy placed a package of clothing on the ground and disappeared. Rambler emerged from the underbrush and walked toward the package. As the police surged forward, Rambler turned and fled, disregarding orders to stop.

He fell in a fusillade of eight shots.

Rambler also escaped from the Swissvale police station last June following his arrest there.

At the time of his escape from the Greensburg barracks of the state police, Rambler was being held for questioning in connection with the theft of stamps from a Bolivar bank and murder of a negro whose body was found along the Pennsylvania railroad tracks recently.

Physicians at the hospital held little hope for Rambler's life. A bullet is lodged in his spine, they said.

LARGE CROWD HEAR SCHNADER

be the governor. It was intelligent, it was constructive, it was concise. Lacking any of the old time political tricks, it was a plain statement of facts from a man who knows the state government from actual experience.

Opening his address he cited the record of legislation passed under Republican administrations in favor of labor and social reforms. Workmen's Compensation. Child Labor abolition, safety laws, anti-injunction and anti-yellow dog contract laws, pensions for the blind, old age assistance, mothers' assistance, welfare laws, laws designed to aid the farmer, a splendid highway system, these and many others he cited as proof that the Republican administrations had kept faith with the common people.

Seek To Manage State's Own Affairs

"We Republicans have an honest platform," said General Schnader. "Promises should be judged by past records. We are fighting for the right of Pennsylvanians to manage their own affairs and not make the state an adjunct of the national Democratic party. We are fighting for home rule, for the reduction of the all too heavy real estate taxes that burden the property holders of the commonwealth. When I am elected governor I want to make Pennsylvania a better place in which to live, a place where confidence will return, a place where relief rolls will decrease and pay rolls will increase.

"The little group of Democrats that have grabbed the control of that party now want to grab control of Pennsylvania in order to make it an adjunct of the national administration. What is the record of the Democrats in state matters? I have asked that question a number of times and we have no answer as yet. In the states they do control the record of labor or social legislation runs far behind that of Pennsylvania, which has been governed well by the Republican party for forty years."

Other Speakers

Senator Harry B. Scott was the first speaker of the evening introduced by County Chairman Roy W. Hazen. He spoke for the entire ticket rather than for himself and urged the voters to support the ticket from top to bottom. "We need Republican legislators in the general assembly who will hold up the hands of the governor and help him in his program of legislation," said Scott. "We need Republican congressmen in Washington to aid Senator David A. Reed in his fight for the rights of Pennsylvania."

Ben G. Eynon, former Registrar of Motor Vehicles, and a candidate for the nomination for the governorship in May, was present and he spoke briefly. He expressed his appreciation of the support he received here in May but said that it was now the duty of every Republican to support General Schnader and the balance of the ticket. His address was warmly received.

Shows Discrimination

Congressman J. Howard Swick was the last speaker on the program. His address Wednesday night was the best he has ever delivered in Lawrence county. He cited figures showing the unfair discrimination against Pennsylvania in the matter of distribution of federal funds. "For example," said Congressman Swick. "In the processing tax the state of Arkansas paid in $500,000 and received in federal funds $10,750,000. Texas received $47,000,000 and paid in less than $800,000. Pennsylvania paid in $8,029,000 and received back less than $620,000. Your money is being sent into the South and West and Pennsylvanians are being discriminated against."

Dinner In Hotel

Prior to the meeting in the court house the County Committee tendered a dinner to the candidates in the Castleton hotel. The dinner was well attended, the dining room, the auxiliary dining room and the lobby of the hotel being filled with tables. Rev. A. M. Stump invoked a blessing upon the gathering.

A short speaking program was held following the dinner. County Chairman Roy W. Hazen introduced Attorney Joseph Leta, candidate for the general assembly from the first district, who spoke briefly. He urged support of the entire ticket and promised his best efforts if elected.

Paul W. Cartwright of Ellwood City was next introduced and said that if elected he expected to carry the principles that have guided him as a business man in his work as a legislator. Congressman Swick and Senator Scott and finally General William A. Schnader were introduced and all of them spoke briefly.

Taking the evening as a whole it was a tremendous success. There was an outpouring of Republican sentiment that augurs well for the success of the ticket in this county in November. There was every indication of an unanimity of purpose in the minds of all Republicans to work towards one objective and that objective the election of William A. The latter was himself marked for "the next" victim in a note the kidnapers left demanding $50,000 ransom, it was learned. The $50,000 is understood to be ready for delivery but an attempt to contact the snatcher today failed.

Cold-Blooded Crime

The cold-blooded horror of the kidnaping of Mrs. Stoll was described today by Mrs. Fowler Woolett, 24, year old maid, who with Mrs. Stoll was bound and gagged.

Posing as having come to repair a telephone, a man entered the Stoll resident overlooking the Ohio river north of here at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the maid related. The phone was in the upstairs bedroom of the Stolls.

Clad only in a negligee, Mrs. Stoll retired to the guest bedroom while the man tinkered with the wires in her own room and made several trips to the basement.

The maid stepped into the room just as she overheard the man on phone what sounded like: "Well, I'll have to have help. Maybe the maid will do.

Tossing a tool onto the floor to distract her attention, he whirled, poked a pistol into her back and whispered, "Don't squawk." Then he pushed her into the room where Mrs. Stoll lay in bed.

"What's this?" she inquired when she saw the revolver.

"Come To Kidnap You"

"I've come to kidnap you" calmly announced the man.

Mrs. Stoll attempted to engage him in conversation.

"I'll write you a check," she offered, adding a remark about his amateurish holdup tactics.

In a flash he whipped out what appeared to be a pipe covered with cloth and hit Mrs. Stoll on the forehead, cutting a deep gash. As she reeled, stunned, he struck her again on the back of the head.

He drew a roll of two inch adhesive tape from his pocket and forced the maid to bind Mrs. Stoll's hand. Then he tied the servant to a chair with some wire, taped her mouth, ripped the wires from the telephone and ordered:

"Hurry up!"

"Where are we going?" asked Mrs. Stoll as she recovered slowly from the numbing blow.

"Out in a field," replied the kidnaper.

"If Berry comes back here, I'll kill him" he added.

"Let's go. I don't want any one to be killed," responded the captive: and asking the kidnaper to throw her blue and white checkered coat about her. They walked downstairs. As bood flowed from her wound she struggled to resist the kidnaper but he picked her up and carried her to his car.

Two splotches of blood stained the floors of the richly furnished home.

The maid placed the departure of the abductor and his pretty brunette captive at 4:20 p. m. It was not until after 5 p. m. that the tragedy was discovered. Berry himself made the find when he returned home. He said the maid tied to a chair, loosed her and heard the story of his wife's disappearance. He rushed to a neighbor's to phone the alarm but by that time the snatcher had a good hour's lead over any possible pursuit.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR VOTERS LISTS

Contract for printing the street lists of voters was let by the county commissioners this morning to Miller, Fyle and Street, at their bid of $477.50, which was the lowest of three bids submitted, the others being by the Brindle Printing company and the New Castle Printing company. Under the act of assembly relating to street lists of voters, no less than one hundred lists must be printed for each voting precinct in the city. The lists will contain the names and addresses of voters.

day such an arbitrary unit is a nuisance."

The conference sessions were opened last night by Gov. Gifford Pinchot who sounded the keynote by declaring:

"This great meeting, called to consider public school recovery, is part of our face-the-facts centennial of free schools. From it we hope will grow a frank realization throughout the state of the critical problems that face us—problems that have to be met. We've backed and filled as long as we can.

"The last regular session of the general assembly failed to meet the situation. The next session simply must act."

Seeks Income Tax.

After giving an account of his stewardship as related to education, the executive renewed his plea for enactment of a state income tax to help relieve real estate of school taxes, adding:

"Real estate now bears 85 per cent of the total school burden, although it represents less than 40 per cent of our wealth. That is wrong. A state income tax would cut at least $10,000,000 a year from real estate's heavy burden."

Pointing to the fact that 2,303 districts out of 2,582 in the state have less than 5,000 population, Governor Pinchot said that consolidation would cut more than $3,000,000 from the annual school bill.

Concluding, the governor said:

"You people, when you go home, can crystallize sentiment in favor of the reforms that must be brought about to such an extent that no legislature can possibly refuse to do the things that must be done. I hope you will do just that."

QUEEN MARIE FEARS FOR LIFE OF SON

land yesterday from Marseilles, scene of the dual assassination.

It was her task to tell the full story of the tragedy to her son, and inform him that he is now the boy king of Yugoslavia, tenant of a throne that has been bathed in blood for more than a century.

Scores of plainclothesmen mingled with the throng as President Albert Lebrun's special train drew in with the sorrowing queen aboard. Members of the cabinet in silk hats and morning coats, and high ranking officers of the army greeted her on the platform.

From the moment she reached the station, the queen's movements were shrouded in mystery. She left by a back door, in the presence of President Lebrun and a few picked officials, and the automobile that carried her to the tragic meeting with her son dodged all followers.

Meanwhile, the dowager Queen Marie of Rumania, who has been staying with King Peter, proceeded to an unannounced destination, believed to be the Yugoslavian legation.

A few uniformed police and plainclothesmen patrolled the sidewalk in front of the legation but there was no other sign of activity. The windows were shuttered and from the second story a Yugoslavian flag hung at half-staff.

Flags were also flown at half-mast and tied with black crepe at the station platform, but there were no decorations or flowers.

HAUPTMANN TO FIGHT AGAINST EXTRADITION

Court Justice Hammer for a week's postponement to prepare his argument on the writ, and if, in the end, the writ is denied, the court's ruling can be appealed and another delay result.

Just what plans New Jersey had to prevent a delay remained shrouded in mystery. But the impression prevailed that it would be at least a week before Hauptmann could be taken to the Hunterdon county jail in Flemington, N. J.

Meanwhile new light was shed on the plans of both prosecution and defense by two significant developments.

Witness In Reserve.

One of these was an apparently well grounded report that New Jersey is holding in reserve a youthful reserve witness whose testimony at the murder trial is expected to be all important.

This young man—Hartley B. Phillips, 17—is said to have told state police that Hauptmann and two accomplices—another man and a frightened woman—bought gas from a filling station ten miles from the Lindbergh home in Hopewell a few hours before the kidnaping.

Phillips, it was reported, has not yet identified Hauptmann in person although he has seen his picture. The youth is due to confront the suspect after he is taken to New Jersey, according to unofficial information.

Development No. 2 arose out of the activities of 15 private detectives employed by William A. Martin, who is being retained by the defense. Martin issued the following statement:

"Hauptmann undoubtedly is guilty of having ransom money in his possession and ultimately will have to pay for that offense. We will prove where and how he got that money. He is merely a 'fall guy' for those who perpetrated the crime.

"The baby was murdered by a fiend who hated Lindbergh. Collecting ransom was not the original plan. It was an afterthought."

Fawcett, however, hastened to explain that Martin's statement was merely a private opinion and had nothing to do with present defense strategy. He denied he intended to argue the crime was committed by a fiend.

ASSOCIATES OF ASSASSIN ARE BEING HUNTED

as Ladislas Benes and said he came from Czechoslovakia lived with Kalemen in a small hotel in Paris for some time at the beginning of this month.

A third man, whose name was believed to correspond with Novak, visited the Paris hotel during this period.

Police found 1,700 francs (about $120) in the pockets of Benech, while the other man carried 1,000 francs. The authorities stated Benech was carrying a pocketbook which had been bought in the same department store where Kalemen bought a new suit of clothes a few days before the assassination.

Makes Escape.

The man police believe to be Chalny was stopped for questioning when he stepped off a train at Fontainbleau.

Two gendarmes guarding the station platform approached and searched him, finding a revolver in his possession.

When they had taken his passport, he suddenly attacked the gendarmes, knocking one down with a blow and kicking the other in the stomach.

Stunned by the sudden attack, they were unable to draw their pistols and fire until he had climbed over a hedge alongside the railroad track and ducked into the woods.

Examination of the passport showed it clearly had been forged.

Meanwhile, the Surete Nationale announced that 12 Jugoslavian suspects who had been arrested and jailed in the Sante prison will be expelled as undesirables.

London, Oct. 11.—New mystery shrouded the identity of Petrus Kalemen, the assassin of Marseilles, today when Yugoslavian authorities recanted their previous announcement and declared the man was not a native of Zagreb, it was stated in a Reuter dispatch from Belgrade.

The dispatch said police had failed to find any trace of a man of that name or answering his description.

REGENTS FORMING NEW GOVERNMENT

The fact that King Peter, too, is due to return to his school in England after a brief visit to Belgrade as called for in his father's testament, may have some influence in the country's foreign policy.

It cannot be denied that there is a powerful anti-French feeling manifest in Yugo-Slavia today. The populace is convinced that the inefficency of the French police was partly responsible for the success of the assassin.

A decline of French hegemony, which the murdered foreign minister Louis Barthou had been maneuvering to avert, will probably result, this factor, coupled with the country's enmity for Italy, is expected to result in closer friendship between Nazi Germany and Yugo-Slavia.

Calm, but grief-striken, a majority of the people of his country mourned Alexander today. In Montenegro, weeping women passed to and fro outside the king's birthplace.

Day and night, churches, mosques and synagogues were filled to overflowing by worshippers. Jews in particular mourned the king, for he had been responsible for many reforms benefitting them. Special memorial services were ordered at all synagogues.

covered with a gold-bordered French tri-color, was carried into the famous clock room.

In this room, where Barthou's greatest work was done, he came to his last rest before the grave. It was in the clock room that the Kellogg-Briand peace pact was signed, and there the council of the League of Nations was convened to discuss the Sino-Japanese conflict.

To Lie In State.

While high government ministers, all dressed in formal morning clothes except Premier Doumergue, who wore a short black jacket, stood in silence, the casket was placed on a high catafalque in the center of the room. Large flowered wreaths were laid at the base; lighted candles surrounded it, casting dim reflections in the draped mirrors that reached to the ceiling.

There on a slanting bier, flanked by a military guard of honor, and illuminated only by the candles, Barthou will lie for a day or two while thousands file by in tribute.

Premier Doumergue and former Premiers Herriott and Tardieu paid their homage privately before the thousands of Parisians who had waited outside were permitted to the clock room.

JAIL FUGITIVE SHOT IN PITTSBURGH AMBUSH

ANONYMOUS TIP IS GIVEN POLICE

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 11.—Clair K. Rambler, escaped murder and bank robbery suspect, fought for his life in Braddock General hospital here today following his being shot as he attempted to flee from a police trap in the suburb last night.

Having escaped from the Point Look Out barracks of the constabulary Tuesday night with John Gorich, Rambler was located on an anonymous tip from a woman. The tip said he would keep a rendezvous with a friend of Gorich in the suburb.

Wait In Ambush

While a dozen state police and county detectives waited in ambush, a boy placed a package of clothing on the ground and disappeared. Rambler emerged from the underbrush and walked toward the package. As the police surged forward, Rambler turned and fled, disregarding orders to stop.

H fell in a fusillade of eight shots.

Rambler also escaped from the Swissvale police station last June following his arrest there.

At the time of his escape from the Greensburg barracks of the state police, Rambler was being held for questioning in connection with the theft of stamps from a Bolivar bank and murder of a negro whose body was found along the Pennsylvania railroad tracks recently.

Physicians at the hospital held little hope for Rambler's life. A bullet is lodged in his spine, they said.

be the governor. It was intelligent, it was constructive, it was concise. Lacking any of the old time political tricks, it was a plain statement of facts from a man who knows the state government from actual experience.

Opening his address he cited the record of legislation passed under Republican administrations in favor of labor and social reforms. Workmen's Compensation. Child Labor abolition, safety laws, anti-injunction and anti-yellow dog contract laws, pensions for the blind, old age assistance, mothers' assistance, welfare laws, laws designed to aid the farmer, a splendid highway system, these and many others he cited as proof that the Republican administrations had kept faith with the common people.

Seek To Manage State's Own Affairs

"We Republicans have an honest platform," said General Schnader. "Promises should be judged by past records. We are fighting for the right of Pennsylvanians to manage thejr own affairs and not make the state an adjunct of the national Democratic party. We are fighting for home rule, for the reduction of the all too heavy real estate taxes that burden the property holders of the commonwealth. When I am elected governor I want to make Pennsylvania a better place in which to live, a place where confidence will return, a place where relief rolls will decrease and pay rolls will increase.

"The little group of Democrats that have grabbed the control of that party now want to grab control of Pennsylvania in order to make it an adjunct of the national administration. What is the record of the Democrats in state matters? I have asked that question a number of times and we have no answer as yet. In the states they do control the record of labor or social legislation runs far behind that of Pennsylvania, which has been governed well by the Republican party for forty years."

Other Speakers

Senator Harry B. Scott was the first speaker of the evening introduced by County Chairman Roy W. Hazen. He spoke for the entire ticket rather than for himself and urged the voters to support the ticket from top to bottom. "We need Republican legislators in the general assembly who will hold up the hands of the governor and help him in his program of legislation," said Scott. "We need Republican congressmen in Washington to aid Senator David A. Reed in his fight for the rights of Pennsylvania."

Ben G. Eynon, former Registrar of Motor Vehicles, and a candidate for the nomination for the governorship in May, was present and he spoke briefly. He expressed his appreciation of the support he received here in May but said that it was now the duty of every Republican to support General Schnader and the balance of the ticket. His address was warmly received.

Shows Discrimination

Congressman J. Howard Swick was the last speaker on the program. His address Wednesday night was the best he has ever delivered in Lawrence county. He cited figures showing the unfair discrimination against Pennsylvania in the matter of distribution of federal funds. "For example," said Congressman Swick. "In the processing tax the state of Arkansas paid in $500,000 and received in federal funds $10,750,000. Texas received $47,000,000 and paid in less than $800,000. Pennsylvania paid in $8,029,000 and received back less than $620,000. Your money is being sent into the South and West and Pennsylvanians are being discriminated against."

Dinner In Hotel

Prior to the meeting in the court house the County Committee tendered a dinner to the candidates in the Castleton hotel. The dinner was well attended, the dining room, the auxiliary dining room and the lobby of the hotel being filled with tables. Rev. A. M. Stump invoked a blessing upon the gathering.

A short speaking program was held following the dinner. County Chairman Roy W. Hazen introduced Attorney Joseph Leta, candidate for the general assembly from the first district, who spoke briefly. He urged support of the entire ticket and promised his best efforts if elected.

Paul W. Cartwright of Ellwood City was next introduced and said that if elected he expected to carry the principles that have guided him as a business man in his work as a legislator. Congressman Swick and Senator Scott and finally General William A. Schnader were introduced and all of them spoke briefly.

Taking the evening as a whole it was a tremendous success. There was an outpouring of Republican sentiment that augurs well for the success of the ticket in this county in November. There was every indication of an unanimity of purpose in the minds of all Republicans to work towards one objective and that objective the election of William A. Schnader as governor and with him the balance of the ticket.

ITALIAN CONSUL BEATEN BY MOB

could be decided that the shots fired by Petrus Kalemen, the assassin of Alexander, were inspired by Italy.

Whipped to a frenzy by these inflammatory speeches, the rioters rushed to the Italain consulate and stormed the building, dragging the Fascist diplomat to the street.

Anti-Italian riots also were reported at Esseg.

The important Croatian city of Ljubljana lies less than 50 miles from the northeastern frontier of Italy. It was this frontier to which Mussolini called attention as a grave danger spot in his speech a few weeks ago at Bologna, when he told the world that "war is in the air and may break at any minute."

But why are armament makers "merchants of death" if governments are doing a patriotic duty when they make their own?

RANSOM MONEY READY IN EFFORT TO FREE WOMAN

was learned that blood streamed from a deep gash in her forehead as her abductor, who struck her twice with an iron pipe, carried her from her suburban home to his automobile late yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Stoll was ill with a severe cold and her temperature shortly before the abduction was 103, her frantic husband, Berry V. Stoll, revealed today.

"All I want is my wife back alive" cried Stoll: and his brother, William A. Stoll, president of the Louisville Board of Trade, echoed: "We are eager to negotiate."

The latter was himself marked for "the next" victim in a note the kidnapers left demanding $50,000 ransom, it was learned. The $50,000 is understood to be ready for delivery but an attempt to contact the snatcher today failed.

Cold-Blooded Crime

The cold-blooded horror of the kidnaping of Mrs. Stoll was described today by Mrs. Fowler Woolett, 24, year old maid, who with Mrs. Stoll was bound and gagged.

Posing as having come to repair a telephone, a man entered the Stoll resident overlooking the Ohio river north of here at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the maid related. The phone was in the upstairs bedroom of the Stolls.

Clad only in a negligee, Mrs. Stoll retired to the guest bedroom while the man tinkered with the wires in her own room and made several trips to the basement.

The maid stepped into the room just as she overheard the man on phone what sounded like: "Well, I'll have to have help. Maybe the maid will do.

Tossing a tool onto the floor to distract her attention, he whirled, poked a pistol into her back and whispered, "Don't squawk." Then he pushed her into the room where Mrs. Stoll lay in bed.

"What's this?" she inquired when she saw the revolver.

"Come To Kidnap You"

"I've come to kidnap you" calmly announced the man.

Mrs. Stoll attempted to engage him in conversation.

"I'll write you a check," she offered, adding a remark about his amateurish holdup tactics.

In a flash he whipped out what appeared to be a pipe covered with cloth and hit Mrs. Stoll on the forehead, cutting a deep gash. As she reeled, stunned, he struck her again on the back of the head.

He drew a roll of two inch adhesive tape from his pocket and forced the maid to bind Mrs. Stoll's hand. Then he tied the servant to a chair with some wire, taped her mouth, ripped the wires from the telephone and ordered:

"Hurry up!"

"Where are we going?" asked Mrs. Stoll as she recovered slowly from the numbing blow.

"Out in a field," replied the kidnaper.

"If Berry comes back here, I'll kill him" he added.

"Let's go. I don't want any one to be killed," responded the captive: and asking the kidnaper to throw her blue and white checkered coat about her. They walked downstairs. As bood flowed from her wound she struggled to resist the kidnaper but he picked her up and carried her to his car.

Two splotches of blood stained the floors of the richly furnished home.

The maid placed the departure of the abductor and his pretty brunette captive at 4:20 p. m. It was not until after 5 p. m. that the tragedy was discovered. Berry himself made the find when he returned home. He said the maid tied to a chair, loosed her and heard the story of his wife's disappearance. He rushed to a neighbor's to phone the alarm but by that time the snatcher had a good hour's lead over any possible pursuit.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR VOTERS LISTS

Contract for printing the street lists of voters was let by the county commissioners this morning to Miller, Pyle and Street, at their bid of $477.50, which was the lowest of three bids submitted, the others being by the Brindle Printing company and the New Castle Printing company. Under the act of assembly relating to street lists of voters, no less than one hundred lists must be printed for each voting precinct in the city. The lists will contain the names and addresses of voters.

Seeks Income Tax.

After giving an account of his stewardship as related to education, the executive renewed his plea for enactment of a state income tax to help relieve real estate of school taxes, adding:

"Real estate now bears 85 per cent of the total school burden, although it represents less than 40 per cent of our wealth. That is wrong. A state income tax would cut at least $10,000,000 a year from real estate's heavy burden."

Pointing to the fact that 2,303 districts out of 2,582 in the state have less than 5,000 population, Governor Pinchot said that consolidation would cut more than $3,000,000 from the annual school bill.

Concluding, the governor said:

"You people, when you go home, can crystallize sentiment in favor of the reforms that must be brought about to such an extent that no legislature can possibly refuse to do the things that must be done. I hope you will do just that."

QUEEN MARIE FEARS FOR LIFE OF SON

land yesterday from Marseilles, scene of the dual assassination.

It was her task to tell the full story of the tragedy to her son, and inform him that he is now the boy king of Yugoslavia, tenant of a throne that has been bathed in blood for more than a century.

Scores of plainclothesmen mingled with the throng as President Albert Lebrun's special train drew in with the sorrowing queen aboard. Members of the cabinet in silk hats and morning coats, and high ranking officers of the army greeted her on the platform.

From the moment she reached the station, the queen's movements were shrouded in mystery. She left by a back door, in the presence of President Lebrun and a few picked officials, and the automobile that carried her to the tragic meeting with her son dodged all followers.

Meanwhile, the dowager Queen Marie of Rumania, who has been staying with King Peter, proceeded to an unannounced destination, believed to be the Yugoslavian legation.

A few uniformed police and plainclothesmen patrolled the sidewalk in front of the legation but there was no other sign of activity. The windows were shuttered and from the second story a Yugoslavian flag hung at half-staff.

Flags were also flown at half-mast and tied with black crepe at the station platform, but there were no decorations or flowers.

HAUPTMANN TO FIGHT AGAINST EXTRADITION

Court Justice Hammer for a week's postponement to prepare his argument on the writ, and if, in the end, the writ is denied, the court's ruling can be appealed and another delay result.

Just what plans New Jersey had to prevent a delay remained shrouded in mystery. But the impression prevailed that it would be at least a week before Hauptmann could be taken to the Hunterdon county jail in Flemington, N. J.

Meanwhile new light was shed on the plans of both prosecution and defense by two significant developments.

Witness In Reserve.

One of these was an apparently well grounded report that New Jersey is holding in reserve a youthful reserve witness whose testimony at the murder trial is expected to be all important.

This young man—Hartley B. Phillips, 17—is said to have told state police that Hauptmann and two accomplices—another man and a frightened woman—bought gas from a filling station ten miles from the Lindbergh home in Hopewell a few hours before the kidnaping.

Phillips, it was reported, has not yet identified Hauptmann in person although he has seen his picture. The youth is due to confront the suspect after he is taken to New Jersey, according to unofficial information.

Development No. 2 arose out of the activities of 15 private detectives employed by William A. Martin, who is being retained by the defense. Martin issued the following statement:

"Hauptmann undoubtedly is guilty of having ransom money in his possession and ultimately will have to pay for that offense. We will prove where and how he got that money. He is merely a 'fall guy' for those who perpetrated the crime.

"The baby was murdered by a fiend who hated Lindbergh. Collecting ransom was not the original plan. It was an afterthought."

Fawcett, however, hastened to explain that Martin's statement was merely a private opinion and had nothing to do with present defense strategy. He denied he intended to argue the crime was committed by a fiend.

ASSOCIATES OF ASSASSIN ARE BEING HUNTED

as Ladislas Benes and said he came from Czechoslovakia lived with Kalemen in a small hotel in Paris for some time at the beginning of this month.

A third man, whose name was believed to correspond with Novak, visited the Paris hotel during this period.

Police found 1,700 francs (about $120) in the pockets of Benech, while the other man carried 1,000 francs. The authorities stated Benech was carrying a pocketbook which had been bought in the same department store where Kalemen bought a new suit of clothes a few days before the assassination.

Makes Escape.

The man police believe to be Chalny was stopped for questioning when he stepped off a train at Fontainbleau.

Two gendarmes guarding the station platform approached and searched him, finding a revolver in his possession.

When they had taken his passport, he suddenly attacked the gendarmes, knocking one down with a blow and kicking the other in the stomach.

Stunned by the sudden attack, they were unable to draw their pistols and fire until he had climbed over a hedge alongside the railroad track and ducked into the woods.

Examination of the passport showed it clearly had been forged.

Meanwhile, the Surete Nationale announced that 12 Jugoslavian suspects who had been arrested and jailed in the Sante prison will be expelled as undesirables.

London, Oct. 11.—New mystery shrouded the identity of Petrus Kalemen, the assassin of Marseilles, today when Yugoslavian authorities recanted their previous announcement and declared the man was not a native of Zagreb, it was stated in a Reuter dispatch from Belgrade.

The dispatch said police had failed to find any trace of a man of that name or answering his description.

REGENTS FORMING NEW GOVERNMENT

The fact that King Peter, too, is due to return to his school in England after a brief visit to Belgrade as called for in his father's testament, may have some influence in the country's foreign policy.

It cannot be denied that there is a powerful anti-French feeling manifest in Yugo-Slavia today. The populace is convinced that the inefficency of the French police was partly responsible for the success of the assassin.

A decline of French hegemony, which the murdered foreign minister Louis Barthou had been manoeuvering to avert, will probably result, this factor, coupled with the country's enmity for Italy, is expected to result in closer friendship between Nazi Germany and Yugo-Slavia.

Calm, but grief-striken, a majority of the people of his country mourned Alexander today. In Montenegro, weeping women passed to and fro outside the king's birthplace.

Day and night, churches, mosques and synagogues were filled to overflowing by worshippers. Jews in particular mourned the king, for he had been responsible for many reforms benefitting them. Special memorial services were ordered at all synagogues.

covered with a gold-bordered French tri-color, was carried into the famous clock room.

In this room, where Barthou's greatest work was done, he came to his last rest before the grave. It was in the clock room that the Kellogg-Briand peace pact was signed, and there the council of the League of Nations was convened to discuss the Sino-Japanese conflict.

To Lie In State.

While high government ministers, all dressed in formal morning clothes except Premier Doumergue, who wore a short black jacket, stood in silence, the casket was placed on a high catafalque in the center of the room. Large flowered wreaths were laid at the base; lighted candles surrounded it, casting dim reflections in the draped mirrors that reached to the ceiling.

There on a slanting bier, flanked by a military guard of honor, and illuminated only by the candles, Barthou will lie for a day or two while thousands file by in tribute.

Premier Doumergue and former Premiers Herriott and Tardieu paid their homage privately before the thousands of Parisians who had waited outside were permitted to the clock room.

Double Wedding Of Unusual Character

Double weddings in one family are unusual in themselves, but when a daughter in a family becomes a bride in the east, and a son becomes a groom in the west, the occurrence is particularly noteworthy of mention.

This morning at 10:30 in the First Christian church of this city, Catherine Olive Johnston, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Johnston of 406 Fairmont avenue, became the bride of Raymond G. Bennett, elder son of Rev. and Mrs. G. S. Bennett, of 322 Park avenue, while at the same hour in Yuma, Arizona, the bride's brother, Earl E. Johnston, was united in marriage to Charlotte Brawn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Miller, of Cleveland.

For the wedding in New Castle, the church was a beautiful setting for the bridal party, the exchange of vows being heard by the groom's father, Rev. Bennett, pastor of the First Christian, before a lovely background of ferns, palms and autumn foliage, in combination with large baskets of delicate pink dahlias.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Dr. C. S. Shields, of Beaver, was most attractive in a gown of royal blue chiffon velvet, styled on princess lines, floor length, with high cowl neckline, and long full sleeves. Her small velvet turban harmonized, and her slippers were gold color. She carried an arm bouquet of Briarcliff roses and lilies of the valley, showered with pink satin streamers.

Her maid of honor, Miss Frances Grist, of Pittsburgh was costumed in wine colored chiffon velvet made similarly to the bride's. Her hat and accessories matched and she carried an arm bouquet of yellow tea roses.

Miss Pauline Myers of this city, was bridesmaid, appearing in a brown chiffon velvet trimmed with white fur. Accessories were white, and she carried Talisman roses.

The groom's attendants included Chester Green, of Battle Creek, Mich. best man, a fraternity brother of Mr. Bennett in Phi Kappa Tau, and Seth Morrow of Wampum, another close friend.

Preceding, and during the ceremony, Mrs. Mary Virginia Patterson organist, played a delightful program of nuptial melodies. Her numbers included "Nuptial Song" by Faulkes," "Orange Blossoms," by Friml: Cadman's "At Dawning" and "I Love You Truly," by Carrie Jacobs Bond. The Prelude to the Third Act of "Lohengrin," led into the Bridal Chorus as the bridal party approached the altar. During the ceremony, the soft strains of Liszt's "Liebestraum" were heard, the program concluding with Mendelssohn's Wedding March" for the recessional.

For the wedding breakfast, downtown, covers were laid for 25 guests. The floral centerpiece was an effective arrangement of the season's flowers around the bride's cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom. Bridal white was carried out in artistic appointments.

Leaving on a trip later, the destination unknown, the young couple, upon their return will be "at home" to scores of friends at 406 Fairmont avenue.

The new Mrs. Bennett was graduated from New Castle high school and for some time past, has been connected with the Thrift Shoppe. Mr. Bennett is also a New Castle high school graduate, and is now a Senior at Geneva College in the School of Business Administration. Many guests attended the wedding from Pittsburgh, Beaver, Chardon, O., and Bethany, W. Va.

The wedding of Mr. Johnson to Miss Brawn, in Yuma, was a very quiet affair. The bride came by plane from Los Angeles, Cal. where she has been visiting, and the groom came from El Paso, Texas, where he has been located with the American Tobacco Company. Among the guests were Dr. Johnston, the groom's father, who has been in Yuma, for some time past.

The happy couple will reside in El Paso.

Games and music featured the program of entertainment.

EAST SIDE GARDEN CLUB PLANS PROJECTS

An artistic centerpiece arranged of a variety of garden flowers in a low bowl held the eyes of the East Side Garden club members Wednesday as they sat down to a luncheon at one o'clock in the home of Mrs. Earl McKnight, Adams street, with places arranged for 15.

Mrs. Sylvia Sturdevant called a business session at the close of the luncheon and the hostess read the club creed, followed by reports of the various committees.

Mrs. Fred Remley spoke of the project soon to be put under way in the Thaddeus Stevens school; Mrs. J. Elder Bryan reported on the prizes that are being awarded in the East Side schools today for gardens of the past summer, made by the pupils.

Plans were discussed for the replacing of the tree at the corner of East Washington and Butler avenue, which has been used in Christmas lighting each year. Interesting plans are being developed for a tree planting program.

Mrs. Sturdevant appointed a nominating committee: Mrs. Sherman Kitson, Mrs. Arthur Martin, Mrs. Laura Wallace, to arrange a slate of officers for the coming year. The program committee named includes Mrs. Scott McEntire, Mrs. C. R. Brenner and Mrs. Leonard Kramer.

A Christmas flower exchange was planned, as well as a Hallowe'en party for the families of the members at Liberty Grange, October 23.

The November meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Sylvia Sturdevant, Morton street.

GOLDEN WEDDING TO BE CELEBRATED

On Sunday, October 14, former County Commissioner Thomas J. McCullough and his wife of Wampum will celebrate a happy event. Just 50 years ago they were married in Wampum and on Sunday will celebrate their Golden Jubilee.

On October 14, 1884, Mr. McCullough and Miss Ella Hamilton were united in marriage and have spent their entire married life as citizens of Lawrence county. For many years Mr. McCullough operated a farm. Later he was associated with the highway department and was superintendent of maintenance for Lawrence county.

Still later he was elected as county commissioner and served two terms of four years each. As county commissioner he made a record of efficiency in management and economy in expenditures. Because of his health there will be no formal celebration of the Golden Jubilee on Sunday but his thousands of friends in the county wish him and his wife well.

PRETTY WEDDING IN ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH

Before an assemblage of friends and relatives of the couple, the Rev. Fr. The single ring ceremony was used. The bride was attractively attired in a white satin gown, pleated with lace. Her veil was made of real lace and was dotted with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of calla lilies. Miss Elizabeth Stransky, of this city, matron of honor, wore a peach crepe gown with accessories to match. Her bouquet was of tea roses and Talisman roses, George Kulha, the bride's brother, served as best man.

Misses Mary Komare, Agnes Komara and Sue Zedo, bridesmaids, were lovely in gowns of green crepe with harmonizing accessories. Ushers included: Frank Kulha, Joseph Markovich and John Otchnicty. Following the ring ceremony, a delicious breakfast was served to the bridal party in the bride's home. In the evening a reception took place in the bride's home, with a large number of friends and relatives attending. The newlyweds were the recipients of many gifts.

Late Wednesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Dupal left for a honeymoon to Chicago. Upon returning, they will make their home in Salem, Ohio.

TEN CENTS A WEEK
is that a big price to be SURE of your Hair?

A simple way to keep your hair as you've arranged it — without using any sticky dressing.

That's all it costs—a dime a week at the most—to be sure of your hair every day, and all day long. To know it's clean, and looks clean. To know it will stay as you arranged it. And to know no dandruff will sift to the surface.

That's what moistening your comb with a few drops of Danderine will do. And no amount of dry-combing will ever do. Nearly all hair needs the help that Danderine gives it. A dash of Danderine morning and night makes an amazing difference in the way any hair looks all the time! And the smallest size bottle will last over a month.

After you have washed your hair, a little Danderine will keep it from going helter-skelter. When you pay a dollar for a wave, Danderine will help you keep it. It isn't a sticky dressing, or an oily tonic, and it doesn't leave any telltale odor. Its fresh fragrance is gone quickly after it's applied—but not that marvelous effect of freshness and cleanliness!

It's a pity not to know this little secret that means so much in the way any hair will look. It's no trouble. Yet you can hardly believe anything so mild and pleasant as Danderine could bring such a change in the condition and appearance of your hair and scalp. Just try it. You can buy Danderine at any drugstore for thirty-five cents; larger sizes 60c and $1.00.

Age 13
Old enough for strong drugs?
What the doctors say about giving children a medicine of adult strength.

It is not wise to give a laxative of adult strength to a child, just because you give it less often or in less amounts.

Stomach upsets and bowel troubles of growing children can often be traced to this single mistake.

What to Give a Child

There is a better way to relieve occasional sluggishness, or constipation in a child of any age:

Avoid all use of mineral drugs, whether they are salts, pills, tablets, or "candy" form. Even once a month is too often to give any child a cathartic strong enough for adults.

Use a liquid laxative containing senna (a natural laxative). California Syrup of Figs has the right amount for children's use, and this rich, fruity syrup does not harm or upset a child's system.

When you change to California Syrup of Figs instead of harsh medicines, you risk no more violence to your child's appetite, digestion, and general physical condition. You'll have a safer, more satisfactory result. Those little upsets and complaints just disappear as a rule and the child is soon normal and happy again.

Something to Think About

Doctors advise liquid laxatives, and hospitals use the liquid form. And a child who has been convalescing in the hospital usually comes out with bowels working like a well-regulated watch.

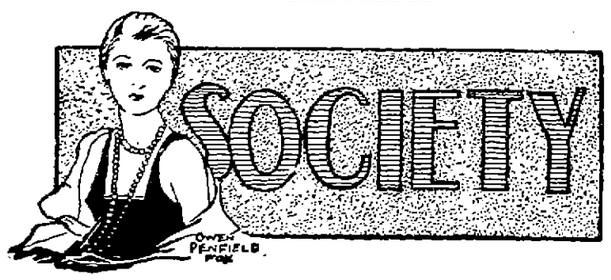

Give that headachy, bilious child California Syrup of Figs when constipated, and a little less each time until bowels seem to be moving regularly and thoroughly without need of help.

THE "LIQUID TEST"

Constipation in children can be relieved, in this manner:

First: select a liquid laxative of the proper strength for children. Second: give the dose suited to the child's age, and condition. Third: reduce the dose if repeated, until the bowels are moving without any help at all.

An ideal laxative for this purpose is California Syrup of Figs which every druggist keeps in stock. Be certain that it is the genuine product, with "California" blown in the bottle.

Double Wedding Of Unusual Character

Double weddings in one family are unusual in themselves, but when a daughter in a family becomes a bride in the east, and a son becomes a groom in the west, the occurrence is particularly noteworthy of mention.

This morning at 10:30 in the First Christian church of this city, Catherine Olive Johnston, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Johnston of 405 Fairmont avenue, became the bride of Raymond G. Bennett, elder son of Rev. and Mrs. G. S. Bennett, of 322 Park avenue, while at the same hour in Yuma, Arizona, the bride's brother, Earl E. Johnston, was united in marriage to Charlotte Brawn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Miller, of Cleveland.

For the wedding in New Castle, the church was a beautiful setting for the bridal party, the exchange of vows being heard by the groom's father, Rev. Bennett, pastor of the First Christian, before a lovely background of ferns, palms and autumn foliage, in combination with large baskets of delicate pink dahlias.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Dr. C. S. Shields, of Beaver, was most attractive in a gown of royal blue chiffon velvet, styled on princess lines, floor length, with high cowl neckline, and long full sleeves. Her small velvet turban harmonized, and her slippers were gold color. She carried an arm bouquet of Briarcliff roses and lilies of the valley, showered with pink satin streamers.

Her maid of honor, Miss Frances Grist, of Pittsburgh was costumed in wine colored chiffon velvet made similarly to the bride's. Her hat and accessories matched and she carried an arm bouquet of yellow tea roses.

Miss Pauline Myers of this city, was bridesmaid, appearing in a brown chiffon velvet trimmed with white fur. Accessories were white, and she carried Talisman roses.

The groom's attendants included Chester Green, of Battle Creek, Mich. best man, a fraternity brother of Mr. Bennett in Phi Kappa Tau, and Seth Morrow of Wampum, another close friend.

Preceding, and during the ceremony, Mrs. Mary Virginia Patterson organist, played a delightful program of nuptial melodies. Her numbers included "Nuptial Song" by Faulkes." "Orange Blossoms," by Friml: Cadman's "At Dawning" and "I Love You Truly," by Carrie Jacobs Bond. The Prelude to the Third Act of "Lohengrin," led into the Bridal Chorus as the bridal party approached the altar. During the ceremony, the soft strains of Liszt's "Liebestraum" were heard, the program concluding with Mendelssohn's Wedding March" for the recessional.

For the wedding breakfast, downtown, covers were laid for 25 guests. The floral centerpiece was an effective arrangement of the season's flowers around the bride's cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom. Bridal white was carried out in artistic appointments.

Leaving on a trip later, the destination unknown, the young couple, upon their return will be "at home" to scores of friends at 406 Fairmont avenue.

The new Mrs. Bennett was graduated from New Castle high school and for some time past, has been connected with the Thrift Shoppe. Mr. Bennett is also a New Castle high school graduate, and is now a Senior at Geneva College in the School of Business Administration. Many guests attended the wedding from Pittsburgh, Beaver, Chardon, O., and Bethany, W. Va.

The wedding of Mr. Johnson to Miss Brawn, in Yuma, was a very quiet affair. The bride came by plane from Los Angeles, Cal. where she has been visiting, and the groom came from El Paso, Texas, where he has been located with the American Tobacco Company. Among the guests were Dr. Johnston, the groom's father, who has been in Yuma, for some time past.

The happy couple will reside in El Paso.

EAST SIDE GARDEN CLUB PLANS PROJECTS

An artistic centerpiece arranged of a variety of garden flowers in a low bowl held the eyes of the East Side Garden club members Wednesday as they sat down to a luncheon at one o'clock in the home of Mrs. Earl McKnight, Adams street, with places arranged for 15.

Mrs. Sylvia Sturdevant called a business session at the close of the luncheon and the hostess read the club creed, followed by reports of the various committees.

Mrs. Fred Remley spoke of the project soon to be put under way in the Thaddeus Stevens school; Mrs. J. Elder Bryan reported on the prizes that are being awarded in the East Side schools today for gardens of the past summer, made by the pupils.

Plans were discussed for the replacing of the tree at the corner of East Washington and Butler avenue, which has been used in Christmas lighting each year. Interesting plans are being developed for a tree planting program.

Mrs. Sturdevant appointed a nominating committee: Mrs. Sherman Kitson, Mrs. Arthur Martin, Mrs. Laura Wallace, to arrange a slate of officers for the coming year. The program committee named includes Mrs. Scott McEntire, Mrs. C. R. Brenner and Mrs. Leonard Kramer.

A Christmas flower exchange was planned, as well as a Hallowe'en party for the families of the members at Liberty Grange, October 23.

Mrs. Sherman Kitson was in charge of the program following business and told a beautiful legend regarding "Baby Mums," with Mrs. Sturdevant reading a paper on "Baby Mums" and "Tulips."

The November meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Sylvia Sturdevant, Morton street.

GOLDEN WEDDING TO BE CELEBRATED

On Sunday, October 14, former County Commissioner Thomas J. McCullough and his wife of Wampum will celebrate a happy event. Just 50 years ago they were married in Wampum and on Sunday will celebrate their Golden Jubilee.

On October 14, 1884, Mr. McCullough and Miss Ella Hamilton were united in marriage and have spent their entire married life as citizens of Lawrence county. For many years Mr. McCullough operated a farm. Later he was associated with the highway department and was superintendent of maintenance for Lawrence county.

Still later he was elected as county commissioner and served two terms of four years each. As county commissioner he made a record of efficiency in management and economy in expenditures. Because of his health there will be no formal celebration of the Golden Jubilee on Sunday but his thousands of friends in the county wish him and his wife well.

PRETTY WEDDING IN ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH

Before an assemblage of friends and relatives of the couple, the Rev. Fr. Ambrose Capitan, performed one of the prettiest weddings of the autumn season, on Wednesday morning in St. Michael's church, when he joined together in holy wedlock, Miss Mary Kulha, daughter of George Kulha, of 1102 Summit street, and John Dupal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Dupal, of 238 Elm street, Leetonia, Ohio.

The single ring ceremony was used. The bride was attractively attired in a white satin gown, pleated with lace. Her veil was made of real lace and was dotted with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of calla lilies. Miss Elizabeth Stransky, of this city, matron of honor, wore a peach crepe gown with accessories to match. Her bouquet was of tea roses and Talisman roses. George Kulha, the bride's brother, served as best man.

Misses Mary Komarc, Agnes Komara and Sue Zedo, bridesmaids, were lovely in gowns of green crepe with harmonizing accessories. Ushers included: Frank Kulha, Joseph Markovich and John Otchnicty. Following the ring ceremony, a delicious breakfast was served to the bridal party in the bride's home. In the evening a reception took place in the bride's home, with a large number of friends and relatives attending. The newlyweds were the recipients of many gifts.

Late Wednesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Dupal left for a honeymoon to Chicago. Upon returning, they will make their home in Salem, Ohio.

At the home of Mrs. George Hurn on Galbraith avenue, Tuesday evening, eighteen members of the 500 club spent a delightful evening. Bingo was the pastime with Mrs. Andrew Watson winning the favor.

Mrs. Owen Parsons and Mrs. Clara Kemp of Warren, O., were among the guests.

EAST SIDE GARDEN CLUB PLANS PROJECTS

An artistic centerpiece arranged of a variety of garden flowers in a low bowl held the eyes of the East Side Garden club members Wednesday as they sat down to a luncheon at one o'clock in the home of Mrs. Earl McKnight, Adams street, with places arranged for 15.

Mrs. Sylvia Sturdevant called a business session at the close of the luncheon and the hostess read the club creed, followed by reports of the various committees.

Mrs. Fred Remley spoke of the project soon to be put under way in the Thaddeus Stevens school; Mrs. J. Elder Bryan reported on the prizes that are being awarded in the East Side schools today for gardens of the past summer, made by the pupils.

Plans were discussed for the replacing of the tree at the corner of East Washington and Butler avenue, which has been used in Christmas lighting each year. Interesting plans are being developed for a tree planting program.

Mrs. Sturdevant appointed a nominating committee: Mrs. Sherman Kitson, Mrs. Arthur Martin, Mrs. Laura Wallace, to arrange a slate of officers for the coming year. The program committee named includes Mrs. Scott McEntire, Mrs. C. R. Brenner and Mrs. Leonard Kramer.

A Christmas flower exchange was planned, as well as a Hallowe'en party for the families of the members at Liberty Grange, October 23.

Mrs. Sherman Kitson was in charge of the program following business and told a beautiful legend regarding "Baby Mums." with Mrs. Sturdevant reading a paper on "Baby Mums" and "Tulips."

The November meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Sylvia Sturdevant, Morton street.

GOLDEN WEDDING TO BE CELEBRATED

On Sunday, October 14, former County Commissioner Thomas J. McCullough and his wife of Wampum will celebrate a happy event. Just 50 years ago they were married in Wampum and on Sunday will celebrate their Golden Jubilee.

On October 14, 1884, Mr. McCullough and Miss Ella Hamilton were united in marriage and have spent their entire married life as citizens of Lawrence county. For many years Mr. McCullough operated a farm. Later he was associated with the highway department and was superintendent of maintenance for Lawrence county.

Still later he was elected as county commissioner and served two terms of four years each. As county commissioner he made a record of efficiency in management and economy in expenditures. Because of his health there will be no formal celebration of the Golden Jubilee on Sunday but his thousands of friends in the county wish him and his wife well.

PRETTY WEDDING IN ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH

Before an assemblage of friends and relatives of the couple, the Rev. Fr. Ambrose Capitan, performed one of the prettiest weddings of the autumn season, on Wednesday morning in St. Michael's church, when he joined together in holy wedlock, Miss Mary Kulha, daughter of George Kulha, of 1102 Summit street, and John Dupal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Dupal, of 238 Elm street, Leetonia, Ohio.

The single ring ceremony was used. The bride was attractively attired in a white satin gown, pleated with lace. Her veil was made of real lace and was dotted with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of calla lilies. Miss Elizabeth Stransky, of this city, matron of honor, wore a peach crepe gown with accessories to match. Her bouquet was of tea roses and Talisman roses. George Kulha, the bride's brother, served as best man.

Misses Mary Komarc, Agnes Komara and Sue Zedo, bridesmaids, were lovely in gowns of green crepe with harmonizing accessories. Ushers included: Frank Kulha, Joseph Markovich and John Otchnicty. Following the ring ceremony, a delicious breakfast was served to the bridal party in the bride's home. In the evening a reception took place in the bride's home, with a large number of friends and relatives attending. The newlyweds were the recipients of many gifts.

Late Wednesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Dupal left for a honeymoon to Chicago. Upon returning, they will make their home in Salem, Ohio.

Kensington Event

N. H. B. kensington members were guests of Mrs. Fred Beer, on Neshannock boulevard, Wednesday afternoon.

Special guests were Mrs. Gertrude Carpenter and Mrs. Ethel Troutman of Cleveland, house guests of the hostess, and Mrs. Louis Garber.

Plans were made for a Hallowe'en party on October 26, at the home of Mrs. Nathan Joseph on Winter avenue. Luncheon was served by Mrs. Beer, assisted by her daughter and sister.

At Hurn Home

At the home of Mrs. George Hurn on Galbraith avenue, Tuesday evening, eighteen members of the 500 club spent a delightful evening. Bingo was the pastime with Mrs. Andrew Watson winning the favor.

Mrs. Owen Parsons and Mrs. Clara Kemp of Warren, O., were among the guests.

MRS. BRAHAM HOSTESS TO SHARON BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. W. Walter Braham of Fairfield avenue entertained members of her Sharon bridge club on Tuesday at a luncheon in her home. Mrs. William Whitla and Mrs. John Wilson of Sharon won honors at bridge, which featured a happily informal afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. David Harper of East Chicago, former New Castle residents, are visiting with relatives here.

is that a big price to be SURE of your Hair?

That's all it costs—a dime a week at the most—to be sure of your hair every day, and all day long. To know it's clean, and looks clean. To know it will stay as you arranged it. And to know no dandruff will sift to the surface.

That's what moistening your comb with a few drops of Danderine will do. And no amount of dry-combing will ever do. Nearly all hair needs the help that Danderine gives it. A dash of Danderine morning and night makes an amazing difference in the way any hair looks all the time! And the smallest size bottle will last over a month.

After you have washed your hair, a little Danderine will keep it from going helter-skelter. When you pay a dollar for a wave, Danderine will help you keep it. It isn't a sticky dressing, or an oily tonic, and it doesn't leave any telltale odor. Its fresh fragrance is gone quickly after it's applied—but not that marvelous effect of freshness and cleanliness!

It's a pity not to know this little secret that means so much in the way any hair will look. It's no trouble. Yet you can hardly believe anything so mild and pleasant as Danderine could bring such a change in the condition and appearance of your hair and scalp. Just try it. You can buy Danderine at any drugstore for thirty-five cents; larger sizes 60c and $1.00.

Age 13

Old enough for strong drugs?

What the doctors say about giving children a medicine of adult strength.

It is not wise to give a laxative of adult strength to a child, just because you give it less often or in less amounts.

Stomach upsets and bowel troubles of growing children can often be traced to this single mistake.

What to Give a Child

There is a better way to relieve occasional sluggishness, or constipation in a child of any age:

Avoid all use of mineral drugs, whether they are salts, pills, tablets, or "candy" form. Even once a month is too often to give any child a cathartic strong enough for adults.

Use a liquid laxative containing senna (a natural laxative). California Syrup of Figs has the right amount for children's use, and this rich, fruity syrup does not harm or upset a child's system.

When you change to California Syrup of Figs instead of harsh medicines, you risk no more violence to your child's appetite, digestion, and general physical condition. You'll have a safer, more satisfactory result. Those little upsets and complaints just disappear as a rule and the child is soon normal and happy again.

Something to Think About

Doctors advise liquid laxatives, and hospitals use the liquid form. And a child who has been convalescing in the hospital usually comes out with bowels working like a well-regulated watch.

Give that headachy, bilious child California Syrup of Figs when constipated, and a little less each time until bowels seem to be moving regularly and thoroughly without need of help.

THE "LIQUID TEST"

Constipation in children can be relieved, in this manner:

First: select a liquid laxative of the proper strength for children. Second: give the dose suited to the child's age, and condition. Third: reduce the dose if repeated, until the bowels are moving without any help at all.

An ideal laxative for this purpose is California Syrup of Figs which every druggist keeps in stock. Be certain that it is the genuine product, with "California" blown in the bottle.

ORDERLY TRIAL FOR HAUPTMANN

GOVERNOR MOORE, to the extent that he will have anything to do with the proceedings, promises every effort will be made to have an orderly and dignified trial for Bruno Hauptmann when the State of New Jersey calls upon him to answer the charge of murdering the Lindbergh baby. He is confident that Justice Trenchard will not permit it to become a burlesque, and he particularly stresses the fact that there will be no broadcasting from the courtroom.

The Governor is to be warmly commended for his stand. A trial for murder is a serious proceeding, and to permit it to be turned into a form of entertainment would be a reflection upon the administration of justice. There could be no better opportunity to emphasize the dignity of the courtroom than in this trial, upon which world-wide attention will be focussed.

ANOTHER SERIES IN HISTORY

In many respects the World Series just ended in Detroit was the most notable in the history of the game. It was filled with surprises, not the least of which was the collapse of the Tigers in the face of the Cardinals' irresistible attack in the final game.

The series was colorful from start to finish. The Dean brothers, Dizzy and Daffy, furnished enough entertainment in themselves to satisfy the most exacting fan, but they were not the whole show. Mickey Cochrane, the fighting manager of the Detroits, made a gallant struggle but the odds were against him.

But it is all over now, and, adhering to the traditional sports formula, we must concede that the best club won. The series was, at least, the means of diverting us from politics, economics and the other routine problems of life, and for that we should be thankful.

SHOULD PAY BACK FUNDS TAKEN

The special session of the Pennsylvania Legislature, quickly called to order and even faster at finishing its business and adjourning, last month borrowed $5,500,000 from the motor vehicle license fund and $2,766,000 from the gasoline tax and turned the money over to relief. A total of $20,000,000 was taken from a list of several special taxes.

If the Legislature keeps its faith and returns these funds in full to the special sources from which they were taken, neither motorists nor the other groups effected will be harmed. However, if this loan should be cancelled or changed into a "gift" by subsequent legislative sessions, each motorist in the state will have paid a fine of $5.16 to relief for the privilege of owning an automobile in Pennsylvania during 1934.

The Legislature has a moral obligation to see that the borrowed funds are returned. Voting citizens throughout the commonwealth raised no loud opposition to this transfer of $20,000,000 to the general relief fund for emergency poor relief, chiefly because a humanitarian need was calling and because leaders at Harrisburg agreed to repay the loan as soon as possible.

The motoring public of Pennsylvania will maintain a bulldog patrol on the handling of public funds until $9,266,000 is repaid to the motor fund and liquid fuels tax. Any attempts to interpret the transfer as a diversion of highway money to relief will be vigorously protested by organizations interested in the welfare of motor car owners and drivers.

LIKING FOR GOOD BOOKS

There is something disarming to the critical spirit, even at its fiercest, in the subject of children's reading. It is closely knit up with the most precious early memories of most parents and in one to which the well-being of the child at heart must give much serious thought during formative years.

At all times of the year there unwind before teachers, librarians and others acquainted with books a constant procession of frankly bewildered parents. Vaguely they feel that their children are not reading the right books and very often they lead a vain quest for the "right" literature.

It is more than possible that the puzzled parents are reading the wrong books themselves; but, urged on by a lovely and pathetic instinct akin to that impulse which causes father and mother to slave and sacrifice for their children, they want their progeny to avoid their mistakes, read only the best books and be the better for it.

No parental persuasion is necessary to create in the child mind an interest in the fairy tale and the school boy and girl come naturally by their love for romance and adventure. It is adolescent youth that needs wise and tactful guidance in the selection of reading matter.

A kindness for good books doesn't just happen. It must be cultivated in the child, as well as in the adult who did not acquire it in his youth or lost it in the transition from youth to maturity. Homes with good libraries well-read by adult members of the family seldom are the scene of juvenile revolt against helpful reading.

JUST A THOUGHT ON OCTOBER

Ten o'clock on the dial of the year; that's October. Wonderful old clock, keeping log of the earth's journey running circles in the star fields.

In an old German tower there is a clock that once every day stages a procession of the seasons. Spring in dainty green, summer in gold, autumn in russet and winter in white, pass slowly across the dial bearing their suitable emblems. October has the works for such pageantry. Now the spring-like green is pricking through in all the meadows and coursing up the hillsides, where the summer's drouth ravaged. And here and there a flower, tardily awakened by the warmth and the soft rain furnishes the emblems for the representation of spring.

And regal summer has her part in October moments that are golden with warmth and harvest tokens, And autumn stalks by, carrying corn ears hanging by their braided husks, and having a wand topped with a dry milkweed pod. And lastly, as now when the "half hour" has chimed and October slips over into the last quarter, the hoar frost often drops down of an evening and furnishes the mantle for winter's share in the time parade.

High tide of glorious autumn, October, fulfillment of all the year's promise. Ten o'clock of the year and when her chimes strike, plenty upsets her horn and pours into a heap apples and pears and pumpkins and squashes and all the other bounties of field and garden and orchard, and decks out the display with autumnal flowers and leaves, of colors such as the richest of the Persian rugs are but imitations of.

Some men are well-to-do because they are hard-to-do.

Wouldn't it be nice if summer came every winter and winter came every summer?

I....I....I

I'll eat string beans, if you insist, but you can't make me say they are my favorite vegetable.

I haven't any favorite vegetable.

When I can't think of anything I want to eat, I usually decide on scrambled eggs and bacon.

I can type without looking at the keys of the machine. So can hundreds of thousands of little girls in offices, but the majority of newspaper men punch the typewriter with their index fingers only.

Once upon a time I saw a chance to make a pun and resisted the temptation....But I can't explain how it ever happened.

My favorite dessert is lime sherbet, but I prefer canned milk in coffee to the best of cream, and my idea of something special is to kick around in the dead leaves at the foot of an apple tree after the first frosts and find a slightly frost-bitten fruit and feel it crunch between my teeth and taste its delicious sweetness.—Mmmmm!

I like waitresses, carpenters and plumbers—but the man behind the ticket window never seems to like me.

If you want to bet that I don't know the size of the shirt I wear—I won't bet.

I'm not a good judge of human nature.

Once upon a time I had long yellow curls that came 'way down to here.

When I was about 12 years old a little girl sent another small boy around to tell me that she "loved" me....And I never went past HER home again.

I can do hard manual labor all day and not feel so terribly tired...But if I tag around after anybody that's shopping, in less than an hour my back is breaking and I want to go home.

I don't own a single stiff white collar.

I like to hear the wind howling around the house.

I wish I were about four inches taller than I am...But, on second thought, that wouldn't be so convenient, because none of my old clothes would fit me then.

I have many prejudices, but I call them convictions.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

DON'T GET OLD BEFORE YOUR TIME

To see an elderly person in a rocking chair, apparently at peace with the world, and evincing an interest in its most recent developments, is an attractive picture.

It is not so good when those in vigorous health adopt the ways of the aged and infirm, however.

The younger, healthy persons should have something active to do.

Lolling in a rocker, dosing in a hammock, reading in a cosy nook, except during a vacation time, are not admirable in a person who has a way to make in the world and who should be "up and at it".

As a general thing the active worker is just as busy along different lines during vacation, believing that a change is as good as a rest.

Athletes know better than to give up all kinds of exercises.

That is a method that stiffens muscles.

A totally different exercise, mentally stimulating, does the trick.

If you have led a busy, useful life and come to the place where you must sit in a rocker, and can be still cheerful and interested, it is a goodly sight.

But the one who merely "bottoms chairs" and wastes perfectly good time in work that was meant for the aged or physically crippled should be ashamed.

The final rest will be."
The other: "While our arms are strong

From where they stood or sat.

Some see the wrongs of life alone
And all its pains recall.
Others relate the joys they've known
And count them worth it all.

Standing in an entrance, the local stage manager said to the actor:

"Listen, Mr. Mansfield, you can hear that clock ticking 'way over there on the other side of the stage."

"Yes," replied the actor, tersely, "have it stopped."

Central Press
Cleveland Bureau
1435 East 12th Street

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

CLEVELAND, Oct. 11.—On each visit here, or to a similar city, this writer goes out to the homes.

New York's Wall street, Chicago's La Salle street, Philadelphia's Broad street, Boston's Milk street, Detroit's Fort street, Cleveland's Euclid avenue are shunted aside for a moment. Even Washington's Pennsylvania avenue is eliminated, temporarily, from the mind.

What do people in homes think, what do they desire?

Nothing else actually counts. The people in the homes are America.

The revolutions of Russia, of Germany, of Austria, of Italy, of Spain, of Cuba—the evolutions of England, of France, of Turkey cannot be compared with the changes of the United States, except in a relative manner.

Each people always has said that it is a nation apart.

In the United States, however, we do have a nation apart. We have a nation apart because here the average man has achieved, through terrific struggle, a standard of living that no average man anywhere else in the world has achieved.

Nowhere else is that better observed than in the industrial regions where a higher scale of wages has prevailed—Cleveland, Detroit, etc.

But, because that standard of living has been achieved, the evolution in the United States proceeds with more travail than elsewhere. The suffering, in many instances, to maintain that standard, to improve it, becomes more tense than in a nation undergoing an actual revolution.

ROOSEVELT'S STRENGTH

The strength of President Roosevelt in the average home is amazing to many analysists, who subject his economic policies to a sharp, penetrating test.

Yet there should be no amazement—even among politicians of the most stupid variety.

Each visit one makes to a home he can sense the dramatic struggle.

"Here is my house, here is my garden, here is my family—President Roosevelt is saving them for me," a man will tell one.

How is President Roosevelt saving them?

The response, given scores of times to this writer, is something like this:

"He is trying to make it possible for me to earn enough to live."

To live how?

To live as an average American is accustomed. To permit the children to go to college. To permit bank accounts and the purchase of house lots, to permit a trip in the car in summer and plenty of presents at Christmas time.

To permit the purchase of the best of foods and clothes of genuine material.

If anyone doubts all that, let him step into an average home.

Now, all those desires lead not to "communism", which some men who control large industries are crying, but to a strengthening of the capitalist state at its very cornerstone. Those desires lead to larger purchases, to a broadening of the purchasing base, to employment of the unemployed.

WAGES

Strange as it may seem now, the struggle in the industrial world henceforth is not likely to be over collective bargaining.

Collective bargaining, as a natural factor of our evolution, is becoming as vital an ingredient of the body politic as ballots for women and direct vote in elections. Social insurance will follow the same course.

But the Roosevelt administration may wreck itself on a problem on which the majority of governments wreck themselves—money. (Social reforms usually strengthen a government—which opponents never learn.)

If money becomes of still less value, if the standard of living thus is reduced, if a man becomes a slave to industry through lessened income and uncertain outlook, if industry itself falters when the bubble bursts, then there is real danger.

And that applies alike to a nation completely capitalistic or completely communistic. The degree of government makes no difference.

Even if every effort of a man's labor were to redound to his own credit, there still would be no catching up with the dollar or a bushel of wheat or a pound of pork or a carton of goods if the return for labor's efforts failed to keep pace with the rising price of the necessities of life.

It is not the wage that a man receives but the residue that he can put into a home that counts. And that counts more in the United States than anywhere else.

Thus, that is the problem which, for the next two years, will torment the Roosevelt administration. If the administration were left to itself, it probably would conquer that problem, but the multiplicity of interests involved and the inflationist preponderance in congress indicate no happy solution.

TODAY Is The Day

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 11

The World War Day-By-Day—October 11, 1914—Paris endured an earth-shaking, morale-sapping airplane bombardment. One man was killed, one child crippled. It was not the first visitation; the Germans had made a brief raid on August 30, by airplane and in daylight.

The Zeppelins were yet to fulfill the promises of the German high command to the German public. Directly the war was declared, the high command began to encourage the public with prophecies of the havoc the Zeppelins were to work. The experience of some of the smaller ships, in attempting to spread terror by day over Belgium and Lorraine, was not encouraging. Three were destroyed at once, and it became evident that for airships to fly low by daylight over enemy territory was disaster. Hence the first actual attacks on Paris, and England, too, was made by airplanes.

At the outbreak of war, Germany had only half as many pilots as France, but they were better trained. She had some 500 planes against the French 800; but her 500 were superior in type. Least prepared were Russia and England.

England had escaped air attacks thus far, but she was feeling day by day more and more what it meant to be at war. On the coasts, especially the east coast, houses were dynamited which might either obstruct the British line of fire or serve as landmarks for a hostile fleet; lamps were extinguished at night on the sea front and all streets leading to it; no lights were allowed to be shown from private houses; even lighthouses and lightships were extinguished temporarily.

The fall of Antwerp and the air attack on Paris brought the danger of air attack nearer home, and caused the streets of London and all towns accessible from the east to be darkened, and searchlights, special guns and an increasing number of planes to be held in readiness. Train cars had to have drawn curtains, and motoring upon main roads at night was discouraged.

Antwerp's fall brought also an accession to the large number of Belgian refugees who had already sought shelter in England. Prisoners, too, were pouring in. And ships were disgorging troops from the Dominions. There was a large contingent from Canada, and small ones from South Africa. The South Africans were flocking to the colors, but most of them were being kept near at home, reducing the German possessions.

Exactly 15 years before, the Boer war broke out. Now the Boer generals Smuts and Botha were rendering conspicuous service to the country they had fought. No finer tributes, whether in action or in word, have ever been paid by defeated leaders to their conquerors, than those Botha and Smuts paid in the world war by their efforts in behalf of the British cause.

History Day-by-Day—October 11, 1425—The mightiest warrior in the history of Protestantism, John Trocznow, known as Zizka the one-eyed, died of plague at 45 after having fought and won a hundred battles. So imbued was he with the struggle for religious freedom that his last wish was that his skin be made into a drumhead and used to rouse the followers of John Huss in battle.

But with Zizka's death, Bohemia buried the ax both figuratively and literally. His battle-ax was buried with him.

October 11, 1833—The first fatal railroad accident in America occurred on the Amboy & Bordentown line at a most inopportune time for the railroad's owners. A virulent campaign was being conducted in Philadelphia against the extension of the line into the city. Glaring posters declaring OUTRAGE! decorated every corner with the plea:

A movement in Germany has for its objective abandonment of Berlin as Capital, to be replaced by a city nearer the center of the Reich.

Berlin is only sixty miles from the Polish frontier, and in case of war it could be laid waste by bombing airplanes within a few hours after war was declared.

Should the capital be moved from Berlin, Weimar would be most favored as the new seat of government. It was in Weimar that Germany's first parliament met after the republic had been formed. The Republic's constitution was written there also.

Other cities mentioned are Cassel, important railway center; and Hanover, industrial center with many historical associations.

ORDERLY TRIAL FOR HAUPTMANN

GOVERNOR MOORE, to the extent that he will have anything to do with the proceedings, promises every effort will be made to have an orderly and dignified trial for Bruno Hauptmann when the State of New Jersey calls upon him to answer the charge of murdering the Lindbergh baby. He is confident that Justice Trenchard will not permit it to become a burlesque, and he particularly stresses the fact that there will be no broadcasting from the courtroom.

The Governor is to be warmly commended for his stand. A trial for murder is a serious proceeding, and to permit it to be turned into a form of entertainment would be a reflection upon the administration of justice. There could be no better opportunity to emphasize the dignity of the courtroom than in this trial, upon which world-wide attention will be focussed.

ANOTHER SERIES IN HISTORY

In many respects the World Series just ended in Detroit was the most notable in the history of the game. It was filled with surprises, not the least of which was the collapse of the Tigers in the face of the Cardinals' irresistible attack in the final game.

The series was colorful from start to finish. The Dean brothers, Dizzy and Daffy, furnished enough entertainment in themselves to satisfy the most exacting fan, but they were not the whole show. Mickey Cochrane, the fighting manager of the Detroits, made a gallant struggle but the odds were against him.

But it is all over now, and, adhering to the traditional sports formula, we must concede that the best club won. The series was, at least, the means of diverting us from politics, economics and the other routine problems of life, and for that we should be thankful.

SHOULD PAY BACK FUNDS TAKEN

The special session of the Pennsylvania Legislature, quickly called to order and even faster at finishing its business and adjourning, last month borrowed $5,500,000 from the motor vehicle license fund and $2,766,000 from the gasoline tax and turned the money over to relief. A total of $20,000,000 was taken from a list of several special taxes.

If the Legislature keeps its faith and returns these funds in full to the special sources from which they were taken, neither motorists nor the other groups effected will be harmed. However, if this loan should be cancelled or changed into a "gift" by subsequent legislative sessions, each motorist in the state will have paid a fine of $5.16 to relief for the privilege of owning an automobile in Pennsylvania during 1934.

The Legislature has a moral obligation to see that the borrowed funds are returned. Voting citizens throughout the commonwealth raised no loud opposition to this transfer of $20,000,000 to the general relief fund for emergency poor relief, chiefly because a humanitarian need was calling and because leaders at Harrisburg agreed to repay the loan as soon as possible.

The motoring public of Pennsylvania will maintain a bulldog patrol on the handling of public funds until $9,266,000 is repaid to the motor fund and liquid fuels tax. Any attempts to interpret the transfer as a diversion of highway money to relief will be vigorously protested by organizations interested in the welfare of motor car owners and drivers.

LIKING FOR GOOD BOOKS

There is something disarming to the critical spirit, even at its fiercest, in the subject of children's reading. It is closely knit up with the most precious early memories of most parents and in one to which the well-being of the child at heart must give much serious thought during formative years.

At all times of the year there unwind before teachers, librarians and others acquainted with books a constant procession of frankly bewildered parents. Vaguely they feel that their children are not reading the right books and very often they lead a vain quest for the "right" literature.

It is more than possible that the puzzled parents are reading the wrong books themselves; but, urged on by a lovely and pathetic instinct akin to that impulse which causes father and mother to slave and sacrifice for their children, they want their progeny to avoid their mistakes, read only the best books and be the better for it.

No parental persuasion is necessary to create in the child mind an interest in the fairy tale and the school boy and girl come naturally by their love for romance and adventure. It is adolescent youth that needs wise and tactful guidance in the selection of reading matter.

A kindness for good books doesn't just happen. It must be cultivated in the child, as well as in the adult who did not acquire it in his youth or lost it in the transition from youth to maturity. Homes with good libraries well-read by adult members of the family seldom are the scene of juvenile revolt against helpful reading.

JUST A THOUGHT ON OCTOBER

Ten o'clock on the dial of the year: that's October. Wonderful old clock, keeping log of the earth's journey running circles in the star fields.

In an old German tower there is a clock that once every day stages a procession of the seasons. Spring in dainty green, summer in gold, autumn in russet and winter in white, pass slowly across the dial bearing their suitable emblems. October has the works for such pageantry. Now the spring-like green is pricking through in all the meadows and coursing up the hillsides, where the summer's drouth ravaged. And here and there a flower, tardily awakened by the warmth and the soft rain furnishes the emblems for the representation of spring.

And regal summer has her part in October moments that are golden with warmth and harvest tokens. And autumn stalks by, carrying corn ears hanging by their braided husks, and having a wand topped with a dry milkweed pod. And lastly, as now when the "half hour" has chimed and October slips over into the last quarter, the hoar frost often drops down of an evening and furnishes the mantle for winter's share in the time parade.

High tide of glorious autumn, October, fulfillment of all the year's promise. Ten o'clock of the year and when her chimes strike, plenty upsets her horn and pours into a heap apples and pears and pumpkins and squashes and all the other bounties of field and garden and orchard, and decks out the display with autumnal flowers and leaves, of colors such as the richest of the Persian rugs are but imitations of.

Some men are well-to-do because they are hard-to-do.

Wouldn't it be nice if summer came every winter and winter came every summer?

DON'T GET OLD BEFORE YOUR TIME

To see an elderly person in a rocking chair, apparently at peace with the world, and evincing an interest in its most recent developments, is an attractive picture.

It is not so good when those in vigorous health adopt the ways of the aged and infirm, however.

The younger, healthy persons should have something active to do.

Lolling in a rocker, dosing in a hammock, reading in a cosy nook, except during a vacation time, are not admirable in a person who has a way to make in the world and who should be "up and at it".

As a general thing the active worker is just as busy along different lines during vacation, believing that a change is as good as a rest.

Athletes know better than to give up all kinds of exercises.

That is a method that stiffens muscles.

A totally different exercise, mentally stimulating, does the trick.

If you have led a busy, useful life and come to the place where you must sit in a rocker, and can be still cheerful and interested, it is a goodly sight.

But the one who merely "bottoms chairs" and wastes perfectly good time in work that was meant for the aged or physically crippled should be ashamed.

Standing in an entrance, the local stage manager said to the actor:

"Listen, Mr. Mansfield, you can hear that clock ticking 'way over there on the other side of the stage."

"Yes," replied the actor, tersely, "have it stopped."

Central Press
Cleveland Bureau
1435 East 12th Street

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

CLEVELAND, Oct. 11.—On each visit here, or to a similar city, this writer goes out to the homes.

New York's Wall street, Chicago's La Salle street, Philadelphia's Broad street, Boston's Milk street, Detroit's Fort street, Cleveland's Euclid avenue are shunted aside for a moment. Even Washington's Pennsylvania avenue is eliminated, temporarily, from the mind.

What do people in homes think, what do they desire?

Nothing else actually counts. The people in the homes are America.

The revolutions of Russia, of Germany, of Austria, of Italy, of Spain, of Cuba—the evolutions of England, of France, of Turkey cannot be compared with the changes of the United States, except in a relative manner.

Each people always has said that it is a nation apart.

In the United States, however, we do have a nation apart. We have a nation apart because here the average man has achieved, through terrific struggle, a standard of living that no average man anywhere else in the world has achieved.

Nowhere else is that better observed than in the industrial regions where a higher scale of wages has prevailed—Cleveland, Detroit, etc.

But, because that standard of living has been achieved, the evolution in the United States proceeds with more travail than elsewhere. The suffering, in many instances, to maintain that standard, to improve it, becomes more tense than in a nation undergoing an actual revolution.

ROOSEVELT'S STRENGTH

The strength of President Roosevelt in the average home is amazing to many analysists, who subject his economic policies to a sharp, penetrating test.

Yet there should be no amazement—even among politicians of the most stupid variety.

Each visit one makes to a home he can sense the dramatic struggle.

"Here is my house, here is my garden, here is my family—President Roosevelt is saving them for me," a man will tell one.

How is President Roosevelt saving them?

The response, given scores of times to this writer, is something like this:

"He is trying to make it possible for me to earn enough to live."

To live how?

To live as an average American is accustomed. To permit the children to go to college. To permit bank accounts and the purchase of house lots, to permit a trip in the car in summer and plenty of presents at Christmas time.

To permit the purchase of the best of foods and clothes of genuine material.

If anyone doubts all that, let him step into an average home.

Now, all those desires lead not to "communism", which some men who control large industries are crying, but to a strengthening of the capitalist state at its very cornerstone. Those desires lead to larger purchases, to a broadening of the purchasing base, to employment of the unemployed.

Strange as it may seem now, the struggle in the industrial world henceforth is not likely to be over collective bargaining.

Collective bargaining, as a natural factor of our evolution, is becoming as vital an ingredient of the body politic as ballots for women and direct vote in elections. Social insurance will follow the same course.

But the Roosevelt administration may wreck itself on a problem on which the majority of governments wreck themselves—money. (Social reforms usually strengthen a government—which opponents never learn.)

If money becomes of still less value, if the standard of living thus is reduced, if a man becomes a slave to industry through lessened income and uncertain outlook, if industry itself falters when the bubble bursts, then there is real danger.

And that applies alike to a nation completely capitalistic or completely communistic. The degree of government makes no difference.

Even if every effort of a man's labor were to redound to his own credit, there still would be no catching up with the dollar or a bushel of wheat or a pound of pork or a carton of goods if the return for labor's efforts failed to keep pace with the rising price of the necessities of life.

It is not the wage that a man receives but the residue that he can put into a home that counts. And that counts more in the United States than anywhere else.

Thus, that is the problem which, for the next two years, will torment the Roosevelt administration. If the administration were left to itself, it probably would conquer that problem, but the multiplicity of interests involved and the inflationist preponderance in congress indicate no happy solution.

History Day-by-Day—October 11, 1425—The mightiest warrior in the history of Protestantism, John Trocznow, known as Zizka the one-eyed, died of plague at 45 after having fought and won a hundred battles. So imbued was he with the struggle for religious freedom that his last wish was that his skin be made into a drumhead and used to rouse the followers of John Huss in battle.

But with Zizka's death, Bohemia buried the ax both figuratively and literally. His battle-ax was buried with him.

A movement in Germany has for its objective abandonment of Berlin as Capital, to be replaced by a city nearer the center of the Reich.

Berlin is only sixty miles from the Polish frontier, and in case of war it could be laid waste by bombing airplanes within a few hours after war was declared.

Should the capital be moved from Berlin, Weimar would be most favored as the new seat of government. It was in Weimar that Germany's first parliament met after the republic had been formed. The Republic's constitution was written there also.

Other cities mentioned are Cassel, important railway center; and Hanover, industrial center with many historical associations.

ORDERLY TRIAL FOR HAUPTMANN

GOVERNOR MOORE, to the extent that he will have anything to do with the proceedings, promises every effort will be made to have an orderly and dignified trial for Bruno Hauptmann when the State of New Jersey calls upon him to answer the charge of murdering the Lindbergh baby. He is confident that Justice Trenchard will not permit it to become a burlesque, and he particularly stresses the fact that there will be no broadcasting from the courtroom.

The Governor is to be warmly commended for his stand. A trial for murder is a serious proceeding, and to permit it to be turned into a form of entertainment would be a reflection upon the administration of justice. There could be no better opportunity to emphasize the dignity of the courtroom than in this trial, upon which world-wide attention will be focussed.

ANOTHER SERIES IN HISTORY

In many respects the World Series just ended in Detroit was the most notable in the history of the game. It was filled with surprises, not the least of which was the collapse of the Tigers in the face of the Cardinals' irresistible attack in the final game.

The series was colorful from start to finish. The Dean brothers, Dizzy and Daffy, furnished enough entertainment in themselves to satisfy the most exacting fan, but they were not the whole show. Mickey Cochrane, the fighting manager of the Detroits, made a gallant struggle but the odds were against him.

But it is all over now, and, adhering to the traditional sports formula, we must concede that the best club won. The series was, at least, the means of diverting us from politics, economics and the other routine problems of life, and for that we should be thankful.

SHOULD PAY BACK FUNDS TAKEN

The special session of the Pennsylvania Legislature, quickly called to order and even faster at finishing its business and adjourning, last month borrowed $5,500,000 from the motor vehicle license fund and $2,766,000 from the gasoline tax and turned the money over to relief. A total of $20,000,000 was taken from a list of several special taxes.

If the Legislature keeps its faith and returns these funds in full to the special sources from which they were taken, neither motorists nor the other groups effected will be harmed. However, if this loan should be cancelled or changed into a "gift" by subsequent legislative sessions, each motorist in the state will have paid a fine of $5.16 to relief for the privilege of owning an automobile in Pennsylvania during 1934.

The Legislature has a moral obligation to see that the borrowed funds are returned. Voting citizens throughout the commonwealth raised no loud opposition to this transfer of $20,000,000 to the general relief fund for emergency poor relief, chiefly because a humanitarian need was calling and because leaders at Harrisburg agreed to repay the loan as soon as possible.

The motoring public of Pennsylvania will maintain a bulldog patrol on the handling of public funds until $9,266,000 is repaid to the motor fund and liquid fuels tax. Any attempts to interpret the transfer as a diversion of highway money to relief will be vigorously protested by organizations interested in the welfare of motor car owners and drivers.

LIKING FOR GOOD BOOKS

There is something disarming to the critical spirit, even at its fiercest, in the subject of children's reading. It is closely knit up with the most precious early memories of most parents and in one to which the well-being of the child at heart must give much serious thought during formative years.

At all times of the year there unwind before teachers, librarians and others acquainted with books a constant procession of frankly bewildered parents. Vaguely they feel that their children are not reading the right books and very often they lead a vain quest for the "right" literature.

It is more than possible that the puzzled parents are reading the wrong books themselves; but, urged on by a lovely and pathetic instinct akin to that impulse which causes father and mother to slave and sacrifice for their children, they want their progeny to avoid their mistakes, read only the best books and be the better for it.

No parental persuasion is necessary to create in the child mind an interest in the fairy tale and the school boy and girl come naturally by their love for romance and adventure. It is adolescent youth that needs wise and tactful guidance in the selection of reading matter.

A kindness for good books doesn't just happen. It must be cultivated in the child, as well as in the adult who did not acquire it in his youth or lost it in the transition from youth to maturity. Homes with good libraries well-read by adult members of the family seldom are the scene of juvenile revolt against helpful reading.

JUST A THOUGHT ON OCTOBER

Ten o'clock on the dial of the year; that's October. Wonderful old clock, keeping log of the earth's journey running circles in the star fields.

In an old German tower there is a clock that once every day stages a procession of the seasons. Spring in dainty green, summer in gold, autumn in russet and winter in white, pass slowly across the dial bearing their suitable emblems. October has the works for such pageantry. Now the spring-like green is pricking through in all the meadows and coursing up the hillsides, where the summer's drouth ravaged. And here and there a flower, tardily awakened by the warmth and the soft rain furnishes the emblems for the representation of spring.

And regal summer has her part in October moments that are golden with warmth and harvest tokens, And autumn stalks by, carrying corn ears hanging by their braided husks, and having a wand topped with a dry milkweed pod. And lastly, as now when the "half hour" has chimed and October slips over into the last quarter, the hoar frost often drops down of an evening and furnishes the mantle for winter's share in the time parade.

High tide of glorious autumn, October, fulfillment of all the year's promise. Ten o'clock of the year and when her chimes strike, plenty upsets her horn and pours into a heap apples and pears and pumpkins and squashes and all the other bounties of field and garden and orchard, and decks out the display with autumnal flowers and leaves, of colors such as the richest of the Persian rugs are but imitations of.

Some men are well-to-do because they are hard-to-do.

Wouldn't it be nice if summer came every winter and winter came every summer?

I'll eat string beans, if you insist, but you can't make me say they are my favorite vegetable.
I haven't any favorite vegetable.

When I can't think of anything I want to eat, I usually decide on scrambled eggs and bacon.

I can type without looking at the keys of the machine. So can hundreds of thousands of little girls in offices, but the majority of newspaper men punch the typewriter with their index fingers only.

Once upon a time I saw a chance to make a pun and resisted the temptation....But I can't explain how it ever happened.

My favorite dessert is lime sherbet, but I prefer canned milk in coffee to the best of cream, and my idea of something special is to kick around in the dead leaves at the foot of an apple tree after the first frosts and find a slightly frost-bitten fruit and feel it crunch between my teeth and taste its delicious sweetness.—Mmmmm!

I like waitresses, carpenters and plumbers—but the man behind the ticket window never seems to like me.

If you want to bet that I don't know the size of the shirt I wear—I won't bet.

I'm not a good judge of human nature.

Once upon a time I had long yellow curls that came 'way down to here.

DON'T GET OLD BEFORE YOUR TIME

To see an elderly person in a rocking chair, apparently at peace with the world, and evincing an interest in its most recent developments, is an attractive picture.

It is not so good when those in vigorous health adopt the ways of the aged and infirm, however.

The younger, healthy persons should have something active to do.

Lolling in a rocker, dosing in a hammock, reading in a cosy nook, except during a vacation time, are not admirable in a person who has a way to make in the world and who should be "up and at it".

As a general thing the active worker is just as busy along different lines during vacation, believing that a change is as good as a rest.

Athletes know better than to give up all kinds of exercises.

That is a method that stiffens muscles.

A totally different exercise, mentally stimulating, does the trick.

If you have led a busy, useful life and come to the place where you must sit in a rocker, and can be still cheerful and interested, it is a goodly sight.

But the one who merely "bottoms chairs" and wastes perfectly good time in work that was meant for the aged or physically crippled should be ashamed.

And all its pains recall.
Others relate the joys they've known
And count them worth it all.

The best Richard Mansfield story we ever heard originated in Youngstown at the old Grand Opera House. Knowing the actor's reputation for temperament, the stage hands resolved to meet him more than half way. Standing in an entrance, the local stage manager said to the actor:

"Listen, Mr. Mansfield, you can hear that clock ticking 'way over there on the other side of the stage.

"Yes," replied the actor, tersely, "have it stopped."

Central Press
Cleveland Bureau
1435 East 12th Street

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

CLEVELAND, Oct. 11.—On each visit here, or to a similar city, this writer goes out to the homes.

New York's Wall street, Chicago's La Salle street, Philadelphia's Broad street, Boston's Milk street, Detroit's Fort street, Cleveland's Euclid avenue are shunted aside for a moment. Even Washington's Pennsylvania avenue is eliminated, temporarily, from the mind.

What do people in homes think, what do they desire?

Nothing else actually counts. The people in the homes are America.

The revolutions of Russia, of Germany, of Austria, of Italy, of Spain, of Cuba—the evolutions of England, of France, of Turkey cannot be compared with the changes of the United States, except in a relative manner.

Each people always has said that it is a nation apart.

In the United States, however, we do have a nation apart. We have a nation apart because here the average man has achieved, through terrific struggle, a standard of living that no average man anywhere else in the world has achieved.

Nowhere else is that better observed than in the industrial regions where a higher scale of wages has prevailed—Cleveland, Detroit, etc.

But, because that standard of living has been achieved, the evolution in the United States proceeds with more travail than elsewhere. The suffering, in many instances, to maintain that standard, to improve it, becomes more tense than in a nation undergoing an actual revolution.

ROOSEVELT'S STRENGTH

The strength of President Roosevelt in the average home is amazing to many analysists, who subject his economic policies to a sharp, penetrating test.

Yet there should be no amazement—even among politicians of the most stupid variety.

Each visit one makes to a home he can sense the dramatic struggle.

"Here is my house, here is my garden, here is my family—President Roosevelt is saving them for me," a man will tell one.

How is President Roosevelt saving them?

The response, given scores of times to this writer, is something like this:

"He is trying to make it possible for me to earn enough to live."

To live how?

To live as an average American is accustomed. To permit the children to go to college. To permit bank accounts and the purchase of house lots, to permit a trip in the car in summer and plenty of presents at Christmas time.

To permit the purchase of the best of foods and clothes of genuine material.

If anyone doubts all that, let him step into an average home.

Now, all those desires lead not to "communism", wihch some men who control large industries are crying, but to a strengthening of the capitalist state at its very cornerstone. Those desires lead to larger purchases, to a broadening of the purchasing base, to employment of the unemployed.

Strange as it may seem now, the struggle in the industrial world henceforth is not likely to be over collective bargaining.

Collective bargaining, as a natural factor of our evolution, is becoming as vital an ingredient of the body politic as ballots for women and direct vote in elections. Social insurance will follow the same course.

But the Roosevelt administration may wreck itself on a problem on which the majority of governments wreck themselves—money. (Social reforms usually strengthen a government—which opponents never learn.)

If money becomes of still less value, if the standard of living thus is reduced, if a man becomes a slave to industry through lessened income and uncertain outlook, if industry itself falters when the bubble bursts, then there is real danger.

And that applies alike to a nation completely capitalistic or completely communistic. The degree of government makes no difference.

Even if every effort of a man's labor were to redound to his own credit, there still would be no catching up with the dollar or a bushel of wheat or a pound of pork or a carton of goods if the return for labor's efforts failed to keep pace with the rising price of the necessities of life.

It is not the wage that a man receives but the residue that he can put into a home that counts. And that counts more in the United States than anywhere else.

Thus, that is the problem which, for the next two years, will torment the Roosevelt administration. If the administration were left to itself, it probably would conquer that problem, but the multiplicity of interests involved and the inflationist preponderance in congress indicate no happy solution.

TODAY Is The Day

By CLARK KINNAIRD Copyright 1934 Central Press

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 11

The World War Day-By-Day—October 11, 1914—Paris endured an earth-shaking, morale-sapping airplane bombardment. One man was killed, one child crippled. It was not the first visitation; the Germans had made a brief raid on August 30, by airplane and in daylight.

The Zeppelins were yet to fulfill the promises of the German high command to the German public. Directly the war was declared, the high command began to encourage the public with prophecies of the havoc the Zeppelins were to work. The experience of some of the smaller ships, in attempting to spread terror by day over Belgium and Lorraine, was not encouraging. Three were destroyed at once, and it became evident that for airships to fly low by daylight over enemy territory was disaster. Hence the first actual attacks on Paris, and England, too, was made by airplanes.

At the outbreak of war, Germany had only half as many pilots as France, but they were better trained. She had some 500 planes against the French 800; but her 500 were superior in type. Least prepared were Russia and England.

England had escaped air attacks thus far, but she was feeling day by day more and more what it meant to be at war. On the coasts, especially the east coast, houses were dynamited which might either obstruct the British line of fire or serve as landmarks for a hostile fleet; lamps were extinguished at night on the sea front and all streets leading to it; no lights were allowed to be shown from private houses; even lighthouses and lightships were extinguished temporarily.

The fall of Antwerp and the air attack on Paris brought the danger of air attack nearer home, and caused the streets of London and all towns accessible from the east to be darkened, and searchlights, special guns and an increasing number of planes to be held in readiness. Train cars had to have drawn curtains, and motoring upon main roads at night was discouraged.

Antwerp's fall brought also an accession to the large number of Belgian refugees who had already sought shelter in England. Prisoners, too, were pouring in. And ships were disgorging troops from the Dominions. There was a large contingent from Canada, and small ones from South Africa. The South Africans were flocking to the colors, but most of them were being kept near at home, reducing the German possessions.

Exactly 15 years before, the Boer war broke out. Now the Boer generals Smuts and Botha were rendering conspicuous service to the country they had fought. No finer tributes, whether in action or in word, have ever been paid by defeated leaders to their conquerors, than those Botha and Smuts paid in the world war by their efforts in behalf of the British cause.

ESTEEMED COUPLE MARRIED 50 YEARS

It is of interest to older residents of New Castle, to remember that back in 1884, the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Percival, now of Youngstown, took place in this city.

Recently they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary with a large reception in the home of one of their sons, E. Leonard Percival, Elm street, Youngstown. Their other sons, D. Earl and James, with their families, assisted in receiving sixty guests.

A bouquet of golden chrysanthemum, in a setting of maiden hair fern and sprays of pine, was a lovely centerpiece for the dining room table, from which a buffet lunch was served. Golden candles in brass candlelabra accentuated the gold effect.

The event also marked the fifteenth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. James Percival, the honored guests all receiving beautiful gifts.

The occasion was in the form of a bridge, prizes being won by Mrs. L. A. Pearsall and George McIntosh. At the conclusion of play. At midnight, the hostesses served a delicious repast, appointments being suggestive of the approaching season.

During the evening, Mrs. Rick was presented with a collection of lovely gifts in remembrance of the day.

October 11, 1910—Theodore Roosevelt became the first and last president to fly, while the nation shivered for his safety.

You're Wrong If You Believe—That no U. S. president ever practiced religious persecution.

Committee For Donation Days Is Appointed

City And County Group To Have Charge Of Jameson Hospital Food Ingathering

HOSPITAL AIDE IS CAMPAIGN SPONSOR

Miss Laura Stevenson, chairman of the Jameson Memorial hospital "Donation Days" October 26 and 27, has mailed copies of the following letter to women appointed to serve in this gift campaign and has received a splendid response from all New Castle and Lawrence county:

Dear Friend:

The annual birthday of the Jameson Memorial Hospital will soon be celebrated and you have been appointed on the General Committee to solicit all kinds of food for the fifth ingathering to be held in October.

The records show that our good Hospital is called upon to serve over 200,000 meals each year. I can speak from experience when I say that patients often need "appetite ticklers" and a little home-made jelly, a taste of relish or a little fresh or canned fruit is sometimes worth a gallon of medical tonic.

If you have never been sick yourself you do not realize the value of a good hospital.

Will you please accept your appointment by signing and returning the enclosed postal card at once.

Sincerely,
LAURA M. STEVENSON,
409 Pine street
Telephone—3429-R.

HIT THAT COLD

WHERE IT LIVES—

in the System!

Don't fool yourself about a cold! It's nothing to be taken lightly nor treated lightly. A cold is an internal infection that will quickly spread within the system unless promptly checked. The wise thing to take for a cold is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine.

First of all, it is distinctly a cold remedy and not a "cure-all". Secondly, it is an internal treatment. Thirdly, it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, combats the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones and fortifies the entire system. That's the treatment a cold requires and anything less is taking chances. All druggists sell Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine, 30c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and reject a substitute.

21 OUT OF 23 ST. LOUIS CARDINALS SMOKE CAMELS!

PLAYER-MANAGER — Frankie Frisch of the World Champion Cardinals.

by FRANK FRISCH

They sure made it hot for us this year, but the Cardinals came through in great style clear to the end when we needed every ounce of energy to win. We needed it—and we had it. There's the story in a nutshell. It seems as though the team line up just as well on their smoking habits as they do on the ball field. Here's our line-up on smoking: 21 out of 23 of the Cardinals prefer Camels.

The World Series is over. The Cardinals are on the top. Their astounding achievement will go down in history—a sensational charge from 7 games behind to win the pennant...and then the series!

They are champions—and popular champions. Frankie Frisch, Carleton, Rothrock, Orsatti, Leo Durocher, Bill Walker, Medwick—all America knows this Cardinal team by heart and applauds its stirring victory.

"What do the World Champions smoke?" A natural question. And above you get Frank Frisch's answer. The preference is overwhelmingly for Camels.

The Cardinals' virtually unanimous preference for Camels is worthy of every smoker's attention. Be guided by their experience. Enjoy Camel's "energizing effect" which science has studied and confirmed. Camels are milder—made from a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS. They never get on your nerves!

"PEPPER" MARTIN: (Right) "I like Camels because when I light one I can actually feel all tiredness slip away."

"RIP" COLLINS (Right) says: "A Camel has a way of 'turning on' my energy. And when I'm tired I notice they help me to snap back quickly."

"DUCKY" MEDWICK: (Left) "A Camel takes away the tired feeling as soon as I leave the field, turns on my 'pep' again."

THE DEANS!

PAUL DEAN says: "Smoking a Camel gives me the feeling of having more energy. Camels never give me jumpy nerves or leave a 'cigaretty' aftertaste!"

"DIZZY" DEAN: "A Camel sure brings back your energy after a hard game, or any time when you're tired, and Camels never frazzle the nerves."

A TIP TO THE FANS . . .

LEAF-TOBACCO EXPERTS AGREE:

"Camels are made from finer, More Expensive Tobaccos—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand."

CAMEL'S COSTLIER TOBACCOS NEVER GET ON YOUR NERVES!

On Court House Hill

Mike Jeannette, 1684 Center avenue, Ellwood City, charged with violating his parole, was brought in by Sheriff Pritchard and placed in jail yesterday. Jeannette was originally charged with breaking and entering and was paroled at December sessions of court, 1933.

Motion for a new trial has been filed by the defendant in the case of The Peoples National Bank of Ellwood City against Mrs. I. R. Burt. The case is one involving two notes given by Mrs. Burt's husband and signed by Mrs. Burt, who claims she was only an accommodation endorser. Verdicts were rendered in favor of the bank for $1,400 on one note and $436 on the other.

The school district of Ellwood City has filed scire facias sur municipal claims against Mr .and Mrs. George Jinauri for $25.73, the North Ellwood Heights Realty company for $61.95, and Salvatore Lapinta for $24.36. The claims date back to 1929.

In the estate of the late Mathilda Seiler of this city, letters of administration have been issued by Register and Recorder, William R. Hanna to Edna S. Gordon. In the estate of the late Samuel J. Rhodes, letters of administration have been issued to James P. Caldwell.

Ellis Shaffer, tax collector for Shenango township, yesterday filed 104 school tax liens for the year, 1932, and 70 road tax liens for the same year. Mr. Ellis reports that there is also considerable outstanding taxes for the year 1933, and also for this year.

H. Hempel has issued an execution against David and Fannie Garbis to collect $2,417.64, the amount of a claim against property located in the fifth ward. John R. Bovard, use of Clyde V. Alley, trustee, has issued an execution against Lloyd H. Lamm for $797.84. Mary McHenderson, assignee of W. C. Henderson, has issued an execution against Margaret Rowbottom for $1,909.73 on property in Union township.

In the case of The Pennsylvania Joint Stock Land and Bank against the Neshannock Mutual Fire Insurance Co., an answer to the rule issued on a motion for judgment for want of a sufficient affidavit of defense, has been filed. It is contended by the defendant that the statement of claim contains ten typewritten pages of matter relating to the claim, but the motion on which the rule was granted does no indicate any material matter in the statement of claim, which has not been answered by the affidavit of defense.

All angles of the relief situation were discussed at the poor directors' convention held at Johnstown this week and which was attended by the local county commissioners and poor director, M. B. Hogue. There seemed to be a strong sentiment in favor of the authorities of each county administering relief instead of state organizations. It was contended that under the present there is a great waste of public funds with political plums and connivery playing a prominent part.

It is probable that when the proposed survey of New Castle is made under the National Housing Act, that recommendations will be made for improvements on the court house, which is in need of repairs to say nothing of re-modeling and additions. A grand jury has already recommended that the basement be dug out and a vault constructed, but no attention has so far been paid to the recommendation. It is likely that recommendations will at least be made for repairing and painting the belfry, as even the bats are ashamed to roost in it any more.

FEELS LIKE A DIFFERENT MAN SINCE VENDOL BUILT HIM UP

New Castle farmer says four bottles of this wonderful root and herb medicine took the pains from his joints, ended constipation and relieved dizziness.

MR. RALPH FENTON

"I wouldn't take anything for the good I've received from four bottles of Venol, and today I feel like a different man from what I was a few weeks ago," said Mr. Ralph Fenton, the well known farmer on Route 4, New Castle.

"For years I've suffered from rheumatism, pains in my joints and limbs, and my back ached so bad sometimes I could hardly straighten up.

"I also had indigestion and heartburn. There was a sour, disagreeable taste in my mouth all the time, my tongue was coated, especially in the mornings, and I'd feel so dizzy at times I'd have to close my eyes.

"I was so badly constipated I had to take medicine for this trouble every night. I often ached all over and my nerves were pretty bad.

"Reading what so many people had to say about Vendol, I got a bottle and by the time I had finished it, I was feeling so greatly benefitted that I got three more bottles and Venol has made a wonderful change in my feelings.

"The aches and pains in my joints and back have entirely disappeared, my liver has been worked off nicely which has relieved the headaches and dizziness, and the coating on my tongue has gone. My stomach feels perfectly easy, and I eat anything I want. Vendol surely did a good job for me."

Many remedies give temporary relief, but hundreds of local people have discovered that Vendol does more than that. Vendol gets to the root of your trouble. Nine times out of ten it's the stomach, liver, bowels or the kidneys, and by removing the cause, brings permanent relief. All over this section you will find the very best people who have been restored to health and comfort by taking Vendol.

Vendol is sold by the New Castle Drug Company, 31 E. Washington street, 24 North Mill street, and all leading druggists. Get a bottle and see how quickly it will relieve your troubles.

HIT THAT COLD

WHERE IT LIVES—

in the System!

Don't fool yourself about a cold! It's nothing to be taken lightly nor treated lightly. A cold is an internal infection that will quickly spread within the system unless promptly checked. The wise thing to take for a cold is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine.

First of all, it is distinctly a cold remedy and not a "cure-all". Secondly, it is an internal treatment. Thirdly, it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, combats the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones and fortifies the entire system. That's the treatment a cold requires and anything less is taking chances. All druggists sell Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine, 30c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and reject a substitute.

21 OUT OF 23 ST. LOUIS CARDINALS SMOKE CAMELS!

PLAYER-MANAGER — Frankie Frisch of the World Champion Cardinals.

by FRANK FRISCH

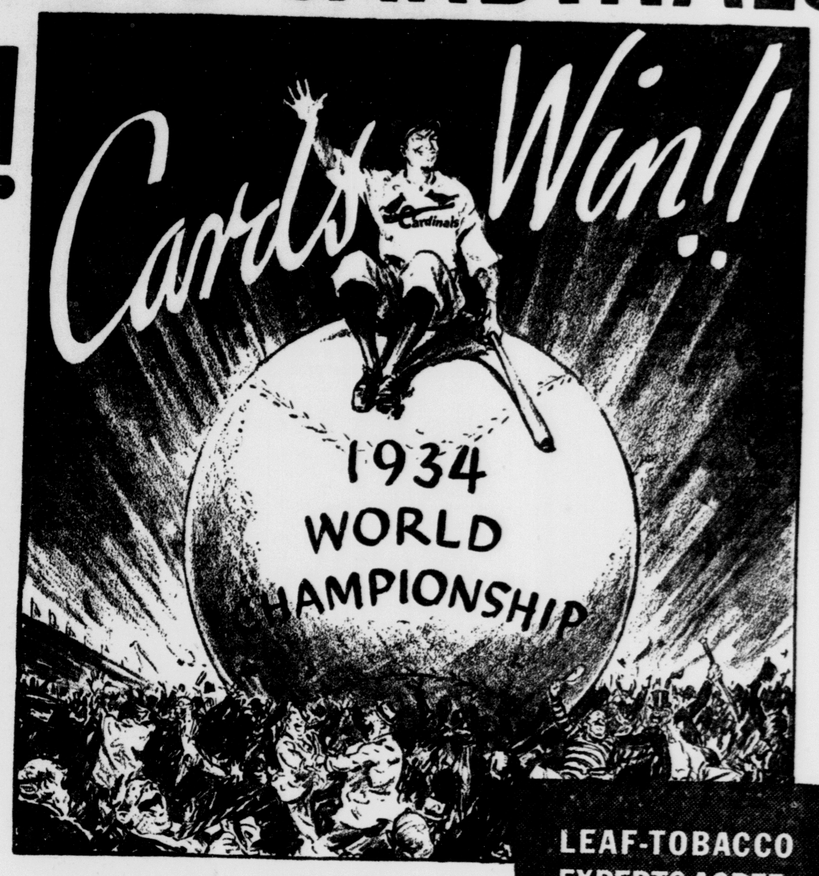

They sure made it hot for us this year, but the Cardinals came through in great style clear to the end when we needed every ounce of energy to win. We needed it—and we had it. There's the story in a nutshell. It seems as though the team line up just as well on their smoking habits as they do on the ball field. Here's our line-up on smoking: 21 out of 23 of the Cardinals prefer Camels.

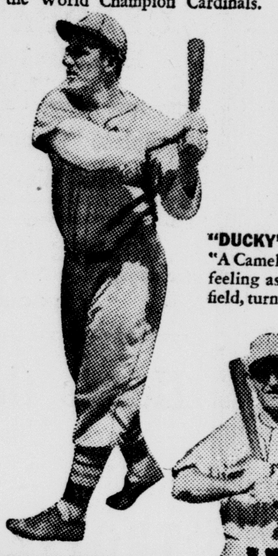

The World Series is over. The Cardinals are on the top. Their astounding achievement will go down in history—a sensational charge from 7 games behind to win the pennant...and then the series!

They are champions—and popular champions. Frankie Frisch, Carleton, Rothrock, Orsatti, Leo Durocher, Bill Walker, Medwick—all America knows this Cardinal team by heart and applauds its stirring victory.

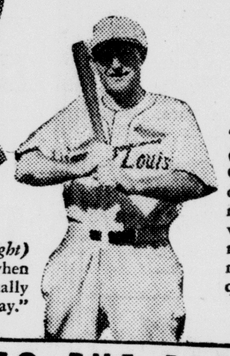

"What do the World Champions smoke?" A natural question. And above you get Frank Frisch's answer. The preference is overwhelmingly for Camels.

The Cardinals' virtually unanimous preference for Camels is worthy of every smoker's attention. Be guided by their experience. Enjoy Camel's "energizing effect" which science has studied and confirmed. Camels are milder—made from a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS. They never get on your nerves!

"PEPPER" MARTIN: (Right) "I like Camels because when I light one I can actually feel all tiredness slip away."

"DUCKY" MEDWICK: (Left) "A Camel takes away the tired feeling as soon as I leave the field, turns on my 'pep' again."

"RIP" COLLINS (Right) says: "A Camel has a way of 'turning on' my energy. And when I'm tired I notice they help me to snap back quickly."

THE DEANS!

PAUL DEAN says: "Smoking a Camel gives me the feeling of having more energy. Camels never give me jumpy nerves or leave a 'cigaretty' aftertaste!"

"DIZZY" DEAN: "A Camel sure brings back your energy after a hard game, or any time when you're tired, and Camels never frazzle the nerves."

A TIP TO THE FANS...

LEAF-TOBACCO EXPERTS AGREE:

"Camels are made from finer, More Expensive Tobaccos—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand."

CAMEL'S COSTLIER TOBACCOS NEVER GET ON YOUR NERVES!

On Court House Hill

Mike Jeannette, 1684 Center avenue, Ellwood City, charged with violating his parole, was brought in by Sheriff Pritchard and placed in jail yesterday. Jeannette was originally charged with breaking and entering and was paroled at December sessions of court, 1933.

Motion for a new trial has been filed by the defendant in the case of The Peoples National Bank of Ellwood City against Mrs. I. R. Burt. The case is one involving two notes given by Mrs. Burt's husband and signed by Mrs. Burt, who claims she was only an accommodation endorser. Verdicts were rendered in favor of the bank for $1,400 on one note and $436 on the other.

The school district of Ellwood City has filed scire facias sur municipal claims against Mr .and Mrs. George Jinauri for $25.73, the North Ellwood Heights Realty company for $61.95, and Salvatore Lapinta for $24.36. The claims date back to 1929.

In the estate of the late Mathilda Seiler of this city, letters of administration have been issued by Register and Recorder, William R. Hanna to Edna S. Gordon. In the estate of the late Samuel J. Rhodes, letters of administration have been issued to James P. Caldwell.

Ellis Shaffer, tax collector for Shenango township, yesterday filed 104 school tax liens for the year, 1932, and 70 road tax liens for the same year. Mr. Ellis reports that there is also considerable outstanding taxes for the year 1933, and also for this year.

H. Hempel has issued an execution against David and Fannie Garbis to collect $2,417.64, the amount of a claim against property located in the fifth ward. John R. Bovard, use of Clyde V. Ailey, trustee, has issued an execution against Lloyd H. Lamm for $797.84. Mary McHenderson, assignee of W. C. Henderson, has issued an execution against Margaret Rowbottom for $1,909.73 on property in Union township.

In the case of The Pennsylvania Joint Stock Land and Bank against the Neshannock Mutual Fire Insurance Co., an answer to the rule issued on a motion for judgment for want of a sufficient affidavit of defense, has been filed. It is contended by the defendant that the statement of claim contains ten typewritten pages of matter relating to the claim, but the motion on which the rule was granted does no indicate any material matter in the statement of claim, which has not been answered by the affidavit of defense.

All angles of the relief situation were discussed at the poor directors' convention held at Johnstown this week and which was attended by the local county commissioners and poor director, M. B. Hogue. There seemed to be a strong sentiment in favor of the authorities of each county administering relief instead of state organizations. It was contended that under the present there is a great waste of public funds with political plums and connivery playing a prominent part.

It is probable that when the proposed survey of New Castle is made under the National Housing Act, that recommendations will be made for improvements on the court house, which is in need of repairs to say nothing of re-modeling and additions. A grand jury has already recommended that the basement be dug out and a vault constructed, but no attention has so far been paid to the recommendation. It is likely that recommendations will at least be made for repairing and painting the belfry, as even the bats are ashamed to roost in it any more.

If you tire easily—

why not reason out the cause of this unnatural condition?

Your first thought may be, "I must eat more." That's not all. You should enjoy what you do eat. Frequently, the blood cells are low... and this, perhaps, is what makes you feel weak. If this is your trouble the stomach may not be calling for sufficient food. Zest to eat may be lacking. But what a difference S.S.S. makes when taken just before meals. Just try it and notice how your appetite and digestion improve.

S.S.S. stimulates the flow of gastric juices and also supplies the precious mineral elements so necessary in blood-cell and hemo-glo-bin up-building. Do try it. It may be the rainbow you need to brush away present discouragement over your health condition.

Do not be blinded by the efforts of a few unethical dealers who may suggest substitutes. You have a right to insist that S.S.S. be supplied you on request. Its long years of preference is your guarantee of satisfaction.

FEELS LIKE A DIFFERENT MAN SINCE VENDOL BUILT HIM UP

New Castle farmer says four bottles of this wonderful root and herb medicine took the pains from his joints, ended constipation and relieved dizziness.

MR. RALPH FENTON

"I wouldn't take anything for the good I've received from four bottles of Venol, and today I feel like a different man from what I was a few weeks ago," said Mr. Ralph Fenton, the well known farmer on Route 4, New Castle.

"For years I've suffered from rheumatism, pains in my joints and limbs, and my back ached so bad sometimes I could hardly straighten up.

"I also had indigestion and heartburn. There was a sour, disagreeable taste in my mouth all the time, my tongue was coated, especially in the mornings, and I'd feel so dizzy at times I'd have to close my eyes.

"I was so badly constipated I had to take medicine for this trouble every night. I often ached all over and my nerves were pretty bad.

"Reading what so many people had to say about Vendol, I got a bottle and by the time I had finished it, I was feeling so greatly benefitted that I got three more bottles and Venol has made a wonderful change in my feelings.

"The aches and pains in my joints and back have entirely disappeared, my liver has been worked off nicely which has relieved the headaches and dizziness, and the coating on my tongue has gone. My stomach feels perfectly easy, and I eat anything I want. Vendol surely did a good job for me."

Many remedies give temporary relief, but hundreds of local people have discovered that Vendol does more than that. Vendol gets to the root of your trouble. Nine times out of ten it's the stomach, liver, bowels or the kidneys, and by removing the cause, brings permanent relief. All over this section you will find the very best people who have been restored to health and comfort by taking Vendol.

Vendol is sold by the New Castle Drug Company, 31 E. Washington street, 24 North Mill street, and all leading druggists. Get a bottle and see how quickly it will relieve your troubles.

Committee For Donation Days Is Appointed

City And County Group To Have Charge Of Jameson Hospital Food Ingathering

HOSPITAL AIDE IS CAMPAIGN SPONSOR

Miss Laura Stevenson, chairman of the Jameson Memorial hospital "Donation Days" October 26 and 27, has mailed copies of the following letter to women appointed to serve in this gift campaign and has received a splendid response from all New Castle and Lawrence county:

Dear Friend:

The annual birthday of the Jameson Memorial Hospital will soon be celebrated and you have been appointed on the General Committee to solicit all kinds of food for the fifth ingathering to be held in October.

The records show that our good Hospital is called upon to serve over 200,000 meals each year. I can speak from experience when I say that patients often need "appetite ticklers" and a little home-made jelly, a taste of relish or a little fresh or canned fruit is sometimes worth a gallon of medical tonic.

If you have never been sick yourself you do not realize the value of a good hospital.

Will you please accept your appointment by signing and returning the enclosed postal card at once.

Sincerely,
LAURA M. STEVENSON,
409 Pine street
Telephone—3429-R.

Miss Stevenson today announces that the following persons have answered the appeal and will take charge of the soliciting of food gifts for their hospital:

New Castle—Mrs. C. W. Johnstone, Mrs. Harold McCullough, Mrs. John Lockhart, Mrs. Frank Fischer, Mrs. Edward C. Nolan, Mrs. T. J. Evans, Mrs. William Donaldson, Mrs. Katherine Engs, Mrs. Frank Woods, Mrs. Alfred C. Gardner, Mrs. Norman Ehrlich, Mrs. Julia Wilkes, Mrs. Charles F. Whetsell, Mrs. R. G. Leslie, Mrs. G. W. Johnston, Mrs. D. R. Smith, Mrs. Blanche Dillard, Mrs. Griff Thomas, Mrs. F. E. Sowersby, Miss Rosa Brown, Mrs. Norman Patton, Mrs. Bart Richards, Mrs. John Bair, Mrs. Hope Edwards, Mrs. P. P. Barbour.

Lawrence county—Mrs. Walter Mitcheltree, Pulaski: Mrs. A. T. Eckles, Harbor: Mrs. C. A. Morehouse, New Bedford, Mrs. Samuel Laughlin, Mt. Jackson, Mrs. A. B. Williams, Hillsville, Mrs. Frances Brashhear, West Pittsburg, Mrs. S. A. Black, East Brook, Mrs. Frank Scherger, Energy, Mrs. Mariam Grossman, Slippery Rock; Mrs. Henry Weinschenck, South New Castle Extension: Mrs. J. M. Walker, Plain Grove.

These general committee members will select their own helpers. Mrs. J. M. Walker in charge of the Plain Grove district has her aides selected for that district. They are: Mrs. Minnie Allen, Mrs. Jennie Blevins, Mrs. Anna McNulty, Mrs. Ruth McConahy, Mrs. Gaylord Shaw, Mrs. Lola Eppinger, Mrs. Philo Rogers, Mrs. A. Stevenson, Mrs. Bert Studebaker and Mrs. Grace Sankey.

The campaign is being sponsored, as in past years, by the Jameson Memorial Hospital Aide Society.

If you tire easily—

why not reason out the cause of this unnatural condition?

Your first thought may be, "I must eat more." That's not all. You should enjoy what you do eat. Frequently, the blood cells are low... and this, perhaps, is what makes you feel weak. If this is your trouble the stomach may not be calling for sufficient food. Zest to eat may be lacking. But what a difference S.S.S. makes when taken just before meals. Just try it and notice how your appetite and digestion improve.

S.S.S. stimulates the flow of gastric juices and also supplies the precious mineral elements so necessary in blood-cell and hemo-glo-bin up-building. Do try it. It may be the rainbow you need to brush away present discouragement over your health condition.

Do not be blinded by the efforts of a few unethical dealers who may suggest substitutes. You have a right to insist that S.S.S. be supplied you on request. Its long years of preference is your guarantee of satisfaction.

Mercer County Dogs Like Rabbit

Outlaw Pack Is Causing Serious Loss To Farmers In District

(Special To The News.)

MERCER, Oct. 11.—From a diet of lamb and mutton, stray dogs in Mercer county have turned to rabbit, according to Agent Harry Higbee of the bureau of animal husbandry.

Mr. Higbee received a report that 15 Belgian hares had been killed at the home of Harry C. Kendall in Shenango township. Raids of the pack of outlaws which committed the depredations have also been made on turkey flocks, Mr. Higbee has learned.

There are many stray dogs roaming the countryside, Mr. Higbee states, many of which have been turned loose by their owners, who are unable to keep them and pay license fees.

YIELDS 480 BUSHELS

GROVE CITY, Pa., Oct. 11.—A measured acre of potatoes yielded 480.7 bushels on the John McDowell farm, north of this city, as checked by L. T. Dennison, specialist from State College. The crop was planted April 25.

Mr. McDowell qualified for the state "400-Bushel Club" in 1928, but has not attained the distinction since that time. It is believed to be the record acre in the county, although heavy yields are reported.

Store Manager Goes To Chicago

Announcement was made today that Morris Carsman of 1810 Highland avenue will leave New Castle on Sunday morning for Chicago, Ill., where he will assume his duties as manager of one of Neisner's stores in that city.

Mr. Carsman has been at the head of the company's store here for the past four years. Of the 18 Neisner stores in Chicago, Mr. Carsman will be at the head of one of the largest ones. Mr. and Mrs. Carsman plan to leave early Sunday morning.

FEELS LIKE A DIFFERENT MAN SINCE VENDOL BUILT HIM UP

New Castle farmer says four bottles of this wonderful root and herb medicine took the pains from his joints, ended constipation and relieved dizziness.

MR. RALPH FENTON

"I wouldn't take anything for the good I've received from four bottles of Venol, and today I feel like a different man from what I was a few weeks ago," said Mr. Ralph Fenton, the well known farmer on Route 4, New Castle.

"For years I've suffered from rheumatism, pains in my joints and limbs, and my back ached so bad sometimes I could hardly straighten up.

"I also had indigestion and heartburn. There was a sour, disagreeable taste in my mouth all the time, my tongue was coated, especially in the mornings, and I'd feel so dizzy at times I'd have to close my eyes.

"I was so badly constipated I had to take medicine for this trouble every night. I often ached all over and my nerves were pretty bad.

"Reading what so many people had to say about Vendol, I got a bottle and by the time I had finished it, I was feeling so greatly benefitted that I got three more bottles and Venol has made a wonderful change in my feelings.

"The aches and pains in my joints and back have entirely disappeared, my liver has been worked off nicely which has relieved the headaches and dizziness, and the coating on my tongue has gone. My stomach feels perfectly easy, and I eat anything I want. Vendol surely did a good job for me."

Many remedies give temporary relief, but hundreds of local people have discovered that Vendol does more than that. Vendol gets to the root of your trouble. Nine times out of ten it's the stomach, liver, bowels or the kidneys, and by removing the cause, brings permanent relief. All over this section you will find the very best people who have been restored to health and comfort by taking Vendol.

Vendol is sold by the New Castle Drug Company, 31 E. Washington street, 24 North Mill street, and all leading druggists. Get a bottle and see how quickly it will relieve your troubles.

Farm Income Is Swelled By Grants From Government

Rentals And Benefits To September 1, Total 294 Millions Of Dollars

Farm incomes have been swelled by $294,809,568 during the years of 1933 and 1934, through rentals and benefit payments disbursed up to September 1, by the federal government, according to the monthly report issued by the comptroller of the agricultural adjustment administration.

These payments have been made to farmers cooperating in the adjustment programs for wheat, cotton, tobacco, corn and hogs, the report shows.

From September 1 to October 5, farmers have received checks for rental and benefit payments approximating 58 million dollars additional, bringing the total to around 352 million dollars.

Also contributing to farm incomes are expenditures totaling $101,308,068, in the purchase of surplus hogs, butter, cheese and cattle.

Phoducers participating in the cotton program have received the most, $152,903,516. Wheat producers rank next, with over 70 million; corn-hog producers, over 55 million, and tobacco producers, 15 million.

It is estimated that benefit payments from September 1 to the end of the calendar year will add approximately $300,000,000 to farm incomes, while the government's program of purchasing cattle and sheep will add an additional sum of $103,000,000.

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p. m., October 10, 20 arrests on charges as follows: speeding 6, violation of state motor laws and city ordinances 12, drunkenness and disorderly conduct 1 and drunkenness 1.

City of New Castle inhabitants enjoyed good health last month, only six cases of communicable illness having been reported according to Health Officer, Dr. W. L. Steen. They were tuberculosis 3, scarlet fever, pellagra and chickenpox. The health officer said that while the case of pellagra was reported during September the patient died from the illness some time ago. It was the first case of its kind found here so far as Dr. Steen could recall. The illness is very common in the south he declared.

Each September, garbage collection shows a big increase over preceding months, according to Howard M. Phillips who has charge of the collection and disposal of garbage. Last month 1,317 tons were collected and burned. However, there were 100 loads collected and hauled away by non-city employes, he added in his report which has been submitted to city council.

Chief of police J. F. Haven remarked today that the campaign to cut down violations of auto laws has shown results. Autoists are driving more sanely and accidents have been less numerous. In fact very few have been reported during the past week. The police have been making approximately a score of arrests each day. There has been no intimation that the police war on erring autoists will end.

Four new high powered automatic rifles purchased from the Police Boxing Show receipts have arrived here and were tested yesterday. Police claim this type of weapon is most effective in fighting bandits at long range. They claim that while bandits use machine guns on crowded streets police dare not. Bandits do not fear for pedestrians lives but police must be cautious in using weapons.

The operators of two of the cruiser cars which are kept in continuous operation from 4 p. m. until 6 a. m. are: Hilfers and Captain Elder; Detective Lynch and Thomas; Whitey Richards and Kennedy; Cooper and Hanna and Flinner and Lockhard. A radio broadcast call is sent to the cars each 15 minutes. Should two successive calls be missed the fault must be learned and remedied.

Approximately 100 yards of "detail paper" has reached the office of the city engineer. The paper is about a yard wide. It is placed on the tables in the engineer's office and a pencil sketch or drawing is first made on the "detail paper" after which tracing paper is used and the sketch redrawn. Plenty of this paper will be required as soon as the RWD starts.

Although Engineer Hoskins anticipated that operations on RWD projects in the city would get under way today he was doomed to be disappointed but he believes that plans will be completed to such a degree that men will be given work Monday. Three major projects have been approved and he estimated yesterday that approximately 900 men would be placed at work on projects here.

M. Bernstein, signalman first class who has been on U. S. Navy recruiting duty here for some time will soon leave the city. He will be accompanied by his family to Denver. He will be succeeded by Chief Electrician M. L. Nixon who has been on duty at the recruiting station at Pittsburgh. The navy recruiting station is on the second floor, city hall.

It is not known when the city will start the removal of the rails and ties in West Washington street, west of the Shenango river bridge. Some time ago council authorized the city engineer to do the work when the state highway department was ready to repave the street between Front street and Atlantic avenue. It is probably only that section of rails and ties will be removed at this time.

There are five clerks employed in the assessor's bureau at city hall. They are writing tax duplicates. Four of them were employed several weeks ago and another given employment yesterday. The work is good for several months and of a tedious type. The clerks are paid 36 cents an hour. The assessor's bureau is under the jurisdiction of Finance Director Hoyland.

Money alone won't make a family upper class. The world must have time to forget how they got it.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p. m., October 10, 20 arrests on charges as follows: speeding 6, violation of state motor laws and city ordinances 12, drunkenness and disorderly conduct 1 and drunkenness 1.

City of New Castle inhabitants enjoyed good health last month, only six cases of communicable illness having been reported according to Health Officer, Dr. W. L. Steen. They were tuberculosis 3, scarlet fever, pellagra and chickenpox. The health officer said that while the case of pellagra was reported during September the patient died from the illness some time ago. It was the first case of its kind found here so far as Dr. Steen could recall. The illness is very common in the south he declared.

Each September, garbage collection shows a big increase over preceding months, according to Howard M. Phillips who has charge of the collection and disposal of garbage. Last month 1,317 tons were collected and burned. However, there were 100 loads collected and hauled away by non-city employes, he added in his report which has been submitted to city council.

Chief of police J. F. Haven remarked today that the campaign to cut down violations of auto laws has shown results. Autoists are driving more sanely and accidents have been less numerous. In fact very few have been reported during the past week. The police have been making approximately a score of arrests each day. There has been no intimation that the police war on erring autoists will end.

Four new high powered automatic rifles purchased from the Police Boxing Show receipts have arrived here and were tested yesterday. Police claim this type of weapon is most effective in fighting bandits at long range. They claim that while bandits use machine guns on crowded streets police dare not. Bandits do not fear for pedestrians lives but police must be cautious in using weapons.

The operators of two of the cruiser cars which are kept in continuous operation from 4 p. m. until 6 a. m. are: Hillers and Captain Elder; Detective Lynch and Thomas; Whitey Richards and Kennedy; Cooper and Hanna and Flinner and Lockhard. A radio broadcast call is sent to the cars each 15 minutes. Should two successive calls be missed the fault must be learned and remedied.

Approximately 100 yards of "detail paper" has reached the office of the city engineer. The paper is about a yard wide. It is placed on the tables in the engineer's office and a pencil sketch or drawing is first made on the "detail paper" after which tracing paper is used and the sketch redrawn. Plenty of this paper will be required as soon as the RWD starts.

Although Engineer Hoskins anticipated that operations on RWD projects in the city would get under way today he was doomed to be disappointed but he believes that plans will be completed to such a degree that men will be given work Monday. Three major projects have been approved and he estimated yesterday that approximately 900 men would be placed at work on projects here.

M. Bernstein, signalman first class who has been on U. S. Navy recruiting duty here for some time will soon leave the city. He will be accompanied by his family to Denver. He will be succeeded by Chief Electrician M. L. Nixon who has been on duty at the recruiting station at Pittsburgh. The navy recruiting station is on the second floor, city hall.

It is not known when the city will start the removal of the rails and ties in West Washington street, west of the Shenango river bridge. Some time ago council authorized the city engineer to do the work when the state highway department was ready to repave the street between Front street and Atlantic avenue. It is probably only that section of rails and ties will be removed at this time.

There are five clerks employed in the assessor's bureau at city hall. They are writing tax duplicates. Four of them were employed several weeks ago and another given employment yesterday. The work is good for several months and of a tedious type. The clerks are paid 36 cents on hour. The assessor's bureau is under the jurisdiction of Finance Director Hoyland.

Money alone won't make a family upper class. The world must have time to forget how they got it.

Farm Income Is Swelled By Grants From Government

Rentals And Benefits To September 1, Total 294 Millions Of Dollars

Farm incomes have been swelled by $294,809,568 during the years of 1933 and 1934, through rentals and benefit payments disbursed up to September 1, by the federal government, according to the monthly report issued by the comptroller of the agricultural adjustment administration.

These payments have been made to farmers cooperating in the adjustment programs for wheat, cotton, tobacco, corn and hogs, the report shows.

From September 1 to October 5, farmers have received checks for rental and benefit payments approximating 58 million dollars additional, bringing the total to around 352 million dollars.

Also contributing to farm incomes are expenditures totaling $101,308,068, in the purchase of surplus hogs, butter, cheese and cattle.

Phoducers participating in the cotton program have received the most, $152,903,516. Wheat producers rank next, with over 70 million; corn-hog producers, over 55 million, and tobacco producers, 15 million.

It is estimated that benefit payments from September 1 to the end of the calendar year will add approximately $300,000,000 to farm incomes, while the government's program of purchasing cattle and sheep will add an additional sum of $103,000,000.

Good Weather Aid To Crops

Prices Paid To Farmers For Products Jump To Pre-War Levels

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 11.—While good growing weather improved late field crops during September, the index of prices paid Pennsylvania farmers for agricultural products jumped seven points to pre-war levels, according to the monthly federal-state crop report today.

Too much rain interfered with harvesting in many localities and lowered the quality of some crops, the report said, but the production prospects increased.

Most of the corn crop escaped frost damage and was cut before any of the cool spells of September arrived. Oats and barley both turned out better than had been anticipated, the report said.

While the rains delayed harvesting, they improved the potato, promising bumper yields barring heavy frosts. The rains also helped the clover, soybean and late alfalfa fields.

Both apple and grape prospects improved during the month although rains were unfavorable to the ripening of some winter apples.

A radio was hooked up for the occasion in the school... A scraper or a roller or a harvester must have traveled over part of North Cedar street within the past few days, for it left a long deep mark on the amiesite....Hallowe'en parties being planned by many organizations here....The south part of seventh ward can lay claim to having the largest colony of goats of any one part of the city....Youngsters who live in the Mahoning and Wilder avenue district and who walk to Mahoning school every day make it a practice to hail motorists for rides. This should be discouraged. ....New crossover at West Pittsburg works fine, railroadmen say. Electric switch system not completed as yet....A bird decided to take a bath last Saturday in the Liberty street park and found to its disappointment that there was no water in the bird bath. It dry cleaned itself at a little sand plot nearby.

'Be More Spartan' Is Advice When Weather Is Cool

State Medical Authority Advises Against Becoming Overheated As Fall Arrives

HARRISBURG, Oct. 11.—Citizens of Pennsylvania were advised today by Dr. J. Moore Campbell, chief of the health conservation bureau of the State Health Department, to develop a more spartan attitude toward cold weather than they have exhibited in the past. He suggests that a cold day or so sandwiched between near-summer temperatures is no justification for the adoption of heavy under-apparel. He also advised against unduly stepping up the inside temperature. Colds and more serious diseases such as bronchial difficulties, sinus complications and even pneumonia could in many instances be avoided if this advice were to be followed, he asserted.

"The attitude of the average citizen in this latitude," said Dr. Campbell, "is likely to be one of antagonism toward cold weather. Educated to the soft luxury of overheated homes, many thousands of persons upon the first indication of cold weather insulate themselves by putting on heavy underwear or overcoats. It would be better if the average person would realize that it is wiser to feel a little cool than to overdress and then become overheated. Many persons, having adopted the heavier clothing, persist in wearing it even though many days may register summer temperatures. This also results in much risk to health.

Glass of Hot Water Before Breakfast a Splendid Habit

Open sluices of the system each morning and wash away the poisonous, stagnant matter.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy whenever we arise; splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, lame back, can, instead, both look and feel as fresh as a daisy always by washing the poisons and toxins from the body with phosphated hot water each morning.

We should drink, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to flush from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract before putting more food into the stomach.

The action of limestone phosphate and hot water on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast and the roses begin to appear in the cheeks. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make anyone who is bothered with biliousness, constipation, stomach trouble or rheumatism a real enthusiast on the subject of internal sanitation. Try it and you are assured that you will look better and feel better in every way shortly.

MORE TWINS IN COLLEGE

GROVE CITY, Pa., Oct. 11.—Professors at Grove City College have been troubled in recent years, differentiating between several sets of twins enrolled in the school, but their problem has been intensified by the registration of the Misses Jean and Jane Ellis, of Rochester, Pa. The upper class twins, Harry and Charles Bream, Clair and Harold McDougall, and Sarah and Tirzah Williamson, all of Grove City, have caused no end of confusion, but the freshmen twins, as alike as two peas, have the profs in a daze.

Here comes that snappy Jones boy!

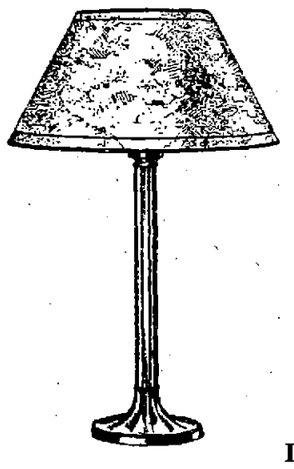

HE'S CLEAR-EYED and alert. Head of his class at school. Leader on the playground.

Every boy has a chance to be just as active—if given the breaks he deserves. And that includes proper lighting for work and play. If a child of yours is in the habit of reading on the floor, he is probably bringing on defective eyesight, which will later affect his whole nervous and muscular system. If, sitting up, he holds his book noticeably closer than 14 inches, he is straining his eyes. He probably needs the help of an eye specialist. And he certainly needs better light.

Twenty-three per cent of all young people under 20 have damaged eyesight. Prevent this for your child! Ask for our free Home Survey, with its helpful suggestions for lighting correctly every room in your home.

'Be More Spartan' Is Advice When Weather Is Cool

State Medical Authority Advises Against Becoming Overheated As Fall Arrives

HARRISBURG, Oct. 11.—Citizens of Pennsylvania were advised today by Dr. J. Moore Campbell, chief of the health conservation bureau of the State Health Department, to develop a more spartan attitude toward cold weather than they have exhibited in the past. He suggests that a cold day or so sandwiched between near-summer temperatures is no justification for the adoption of heavy under-apparel. He also advised against unduly stepping up the inside temperature. Colds and more serious diseases such as bronchial difficulties, sinus complications and even pneumonia could in many instances be avoided if this advice were to be followed, he asserted.

"The attitude of the average citizen in this latitude," said Dr. Campbell, "is likely to be one of antagonism toward cold weather. Educated to the soft luxury of overheated homes, many thousands of persons upon the first indication of cold weather insulate themselves by putting on heavy underwear or overcoats. It would be better if the average person would realize that it is wiser to feel a little cool than to overdress and then become overheated. Many persons, having adopted the heavier clothing, persist in wearing it even though many days may register summer temperatures. This also results in much risk to health.

Glass of Hot Water Before Breakfast a Splendid Habit

Open sluices of the system each morning and wash away the poisonous, stagnant matter.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy whenever we arise; splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, lame back, can, instead, both look and feel as fresh as a daisy always by washing the poisons and toxins from the body with phosphated hot water each morning.

We should drink, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to flush from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract before putting more food into the stomach.

The action of limestone phosphate and hot water on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast and the roses begin to appear in the cheeks. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make anyone who is bothered with biliousness, constipation, stomach trouble or rheumatism a real enthusiast on the subject of internal sanitation. Try it and you are assured that you will look better and feel better in every way shortly.

Light Contest Now In Progress

Lamps Are Being Presented As Prizes, Four Each Week

In order to acquaint the public with the relation of light to vision, a contest is being carried on during the month of October by electric dealers, furniture stores and department stores in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Power company.

The contest consists merely of answering nine simple questions on lighting as it affects vision and a brief 50-word essay on the value of a new type of reading and study lamp.

Each week four of the lamps are being presented as prizes in the New Castle division for the best returns on the questionnaire.

Research laboratories have recently discovered important facts concerning the reaction of the eyes to certain lighting conditions, and it is felt that by bringing these facts to the attention of the public, much can be gained thru preventing the deplorable per cent of defective vision, not only among adults but in children of school age.

It is hoped by the various national associations sponsoring sight conservation that the protection of sight will, in time, become as important a rule of conduct as dental hygiene has become in recent years.

The judges for the contest in the New Castle area are Dr. Ralph G. Campbell, eye specialist; Mrs. Carrie Joffrey Roberts, president Lawrence County Parent-Teacher association, and Mrs. R. L. Boyd, chairmon of sight conservation committee of the Federation of Women's Council.

Defendant Given Verdict In Case

Clyde Hayden, Guest In James A. Wallace Car, Fails To Get Damage

In the case of Clyde Hayden against James A. Wallace, for damages for injuries received in an automobile accident, which was tried at Lawrence county court before Judge James A. Chambers, the jury returned a verdict in favor of the defendant.

Wallace invited Hayden to go with him to Buffalo, N. Y., as a guest in his car. They left Ellwood City on Sept. 11, 1933, during a rain. On the Perry highway, near Leesburg, Wallace attempted to pass a car in front of him. His car left the road, overturned and Hayden was seriously injured.

Hayden claimed that Wallace had been driving at from 50 to 60 miles an hour and he had remonstrated. Wallace claimed that he had used ordinary caution and that the accident was caused by his car skidding. Under the verdict he will have nothing to pay.

Light Contest Now In Progress

Lamps Are Being Presented As Prizes, Four Each Week

In order to acquaint the public with the relation of light to vision, a contest is being carried on during the month of October by electric dealers, furniture stores and department stores in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Power company.

The contest consists merely of answering nine simple questions on lighting as it affects vision and a brief 50-word essay on the value of a new type of reading and study lamp.

Each week four of the lamps are being presented as prizes in the New Castle division for the best returns on the questionnaire.

Research laboratories have recently discovered important facts concerning the reaction of the eyes to certain lighting conditions, and it is felt that by bringing these facts to the attention of the public, much can be gained thru preventing the deplorable per cent of defective vision, not only among adults but in children of school age.

It is hoped by the various national associations sponsoring sight conservation that the protection of sight will, in time, become as important a rule of conduct as dental hygiene has become in recent years.

The judges for the contest in the New Castle area are Dr. Ralph G. Campbell, eye specialist; Mrs. Carrie Jeffrey Roberts, president Lawrence County Parent-Teacher association, and Mrs. R. L. Boyd, chairmon of sight conservation committee of the Federation of Women's Council.

Higher Annuity Premiums Slated

People Are Learning To Live Longer—Companies Must Avoid Ultimate Loss

CHICAGO, Oct. 11—People are learning to live so long that annuity insurance premiums are likely to be higher in the future.

Arthur B. Wood, president of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada indicated that in an address before the American Life convention today in which he warned that "if annunity premium rates are based on the assumption that recent past experiences will be repeated they will probably prove insufficient."

He suggested that "to avoid incurring an ultimate loss, additional provision should be made for anticipated increase in longevity."

Current trends toward low interest rates on new investments, as well as improvement in mortality, point toward upward revision of rates of premiums on purchase payments for annunities he said.

He said also that he was of the opinion that surrender and loan values on assurance policies had reacher too high a point.

Chest Volunteers Reopen Campaign

City-Wide "Mopping Up" For Needed $22,000 Engages Loyal Group

"NEARER $72,000" IS CAMPAIGN CRY

A Community Chest "mopping up" crew—a part of the regular campaigneers of last week's drive—had set out with renewed spirit today to write into black and white pledges as much of the needed $22,026.01 as they can to boost the 1934-1935 drive total nearer to the goal of $72,000.

What success they have in their post-campaign effort will not likely be known until early next week because no campaign report is scheduled, and leaders have asked teams to report this newly obtained pledges to the Union Trust company chest treasurer.

Rallying last night at 5 o'clock in Community Chest headquarters in the Greer building, the division leaders and team captains and workers received their final bunch of prospect cards which Chest headquarters arranged for the "clean-up" effort.

The regular campaign of last week produced close to $50,000 for the coming year's Chest. Eight leading institutions here must be supported by it.

New Castle, General Chairman W. Walter Braham hopes, will respond to the last-minutes calls of the workers—and he called attention to the fact that the solicitation is purely a voluntary job well done.

Reports reached Chest leaders today that one citizen, aware of the campaign's progress this year, went to considerable bother today to find a campaign worker so that he could give him an additional $10 check as his second subscription. Early in the campaign he had pledged a substantial sum. His name was not revealed.

"It's spirit like that," said one drive leader 'that creates" the right enthusiasm in workers. And it's spirit like that which the giver shows that makes the community all the better—that citizen recognizes to the full his community responsibilities."

And so the campaign for the missing sum went forward today, the reports of it being meagre and anything but complete. A tally of today's and Friday's canvass will likely be disclosed by the Chest authorities next week.

Asks Damages For Peculiar Accident

Case Of Lawrence M. Clark Against Robert S. Cunningham On Trial

The case of Lawrence M. Clark against Robert S. Cunningham for $25,000 injuries as the result of a peculiar accident near Cascade park is on trial at court today before Judge James A. Chambers.

Clark was employed by the state highway department, and was directing traffic near the park entrance, while other workmen were building a retaining wall over Big Run. Clark was at a point on the New Castle-Ellwood road, opposite the park dancing pavilion. He had a red flag in his hand.

Corporal Lawton of the State Highway patrol, came along on a motorcycle and stopped at the lane over which Clark was directing traffic.

Clark started to walk to the other side of the lane in front of where Lawton was sitting on his motorcycle. As he did so, Cunningham hit the motorcycle with his car, and Clark was caught and pinned between it and a car driven by a man named Powell. Clark suffered a broken leg and other injuries.

It is claimed that Cunningham failed to have his car under control and that the brakes on it were bad. It is further alleged that by reason of his age, he being 80, Mr. Cunningham could not see properly.

Farmer Wins Out In Suit Brought To Collect Wages

In the case of George Omelynk against Andrew Velma, tried at court before Judge R. L. Hildebrand, the jury returned a verdict in favor of the defendant. Omelynk sued Velma, a Neshannock township farmer, for $74, for work done on the farm, claiming he had been promised his room and board and as much as he was worth, which he thought was one dollar per day.

Velma testified that he had never made the agreement alleged, but that Omelynk, who was unemployed, had agreed to work for his room and board. Velma said Omelynk didn't know anything about farm work and wasn't worth any more than his board and room. Velma has nothing to pay under the verdict.

Pastor Explains Accident Details

Dr. William Parsons Tells How Accident Involving George Fulkman Occurred

Dr. William Parsons, pastor of the Pulaski Presbyterian church, in a communication to The News, gives an account of the distressing accident which befell George Fulkman of New Wilmington last week in Youngstown, O.

Press reports from Youngstown did not give complete details of the accident, which are reported by Dr. Parsons as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Fulkman were returning from the funeral of her sister at Tiffin, O. The accident occurred between the intersections, and not at one. Mr. Fulkman was driving slowly enough that he brought his car to a stop within two lengths of itself after the accident. The man who was hit evidently stepped from the sidewalk into the street without looking. Mr. Fulkman not only reported the matter to the Youngstown police, but was detained for more than two hours, and after investigation was released as not being guilty of any violation of law or negligence.

The explanation of Dr. Parsons was offered after he had read the account of the accident in The News, which came from a Youngstown source, and which were the opposite of what occurred, he states.

Chest Volunteers Reopen Campaign

"NEARER $72,000" IS CAMPAIGN CRY

A Community Chest "mopping up" crew—a part of the regular campaigneers of last week's drive—had set out with renewed spirit today to write into black and white pledges as much of the needed $22,026.01 as they can to boost the 1934-1935 drive total nearer to the goal of $72,000.

What success they have in their post-campaign effort will not likely be known until early next week because no campaign report is scheduled, and leaders have asked teams to report this newly obtained pledges to the Union Trust company chest treasurer.

Rallying last night at 5 o'clock in Community Chest headquarters in the Greer building, the division leaders and team captains and workers received their final bunch of prospect cards which Chest headquarters arranged for the "clean-up" effort.

The regular campaign of last week produced close to $50,000 for the coming year's Chest. Eight leading institutions here must be supported by it.

New Castle, General Chairman W. Walter Braham hopes, will respond to the last-minutes calls of the workers—and he called attention to the fact that the solicitation is purely a voluntary job well done.

Reports reached Chest leaders today that one citizen, aware of the campaign's progress this year, went to considerable bother today to find a campaign worker so that he could give him an additional $10 check as his second subscription. Early in the campaign he had pledged a substantial sum. His name was not revealed.

"It's spirit like that," said one drive leader 'that creates" the right enthusiasm in workers. And it's spirit like that which the giver shows that makes the community all the better—that citizen recognizes to the full his community responsibilities."

And so the campaign for the missing sum went forward today, the reports of it being meagre and anything but complete. A tally of today's and Friday's canvass will likely be disclosed by the Chest authorities next week.

Asks Damages For Peculiar Accident

Case Of Lawrence M. Clark Against Robert S. Cunningham On Trial

The case of Lawrence M. Clark against Robert S. Cunningham for $25,000 injuries as the result of a peculiar accident near Cascade park is on trial at court today before Judge James A. Chambers.

Clark was employed by the state highway department, and was directing traffic near the park entrance, while other workmen were building a retaining wall over Big Run. Clark was at a point on the New Castle-Ellwood road, opposite the park dancing pavilion. He had a red flag in his hand.

Corporal Lawton of the State Highway patrol, came along on a motorcycle and stopped at the lane over which Clark was directing traffic.

Clark started to walk to the other side of the lane in front of where Lawton was sitting on his motorcycle. As he did so, Cunningham hit the motorcycle with his car, and Clark was caught and pinned between it and a car driven by a man named Powell. Clark suffered a broken leg and other injuries.

It is claimed that Cunningham failed to have his car under control and that the brakes on it were bad. It is further alleged that by reason of his age, he being 80, Mr. Cunningham could not see properly.

Arrest Man For Pointing Revolver

Waiter And Customer In Restaurant Take Unloaded Weapon From Douds

Dave Douds, said by police to live in Wast Washington street, was arrested last night in that thoroughfare after he was alleged to have pointed a revolver at a man who gave the name of T. J. Streight. The act is alleged to have occurred in the Square Deal lunch.

A waiter named "Harry" and a man who said he was a truck driver from Baltimore, took the gun, it is alleged from Douds. The mayor let Douds go on his own recognizance in police court today pending a further inquirty by police. The revolver was unloaded.

Douds said he had been drinking, did not remember having a revolver and told the mayor he had been arrested after he had left the place. The waiter, "Harry", told of helping to take the gun from Douds.

Present Prizes For School Gardens

East Side Garden Club Awards Pupils Of Schools For Garden Interest In Summer

This morning the students of the East Side schools were presented with awards for the gardens they tended during the summer. Most of the pupils made flower gardens, although some raised vegetables worthy of a seasoned gardener.

The gardens entered in the contest were visited by the judges: Mrs. W. C. Eckenroad, Joe Alexander and W. H. McIlvenny, who were much impressed at the display of labor and good taste in planning out their plots.

There were 165 gardens entered in the contest, with 100 from the Rose avenue school and the others distributed between Aiken, Thaddeus Stevens and Oak street school pupils.

Mrs. Harry O. Sturdevant, president of the East Side Garden club, which sponsored the contest, made the awards.

The first prize for flower gardens was awarded Barbara Hamil, 815 Pearl street, and the first for vegetables to Americo Ferrari, 1060 Adams street, who had raised two heads of cabbage weighing 5 pounds apiece; his celery and cauliflower were above the average and his garden contained not one weed. They were presented with Austrian Pines to plant in their gardens.

Honorable mention was won by Kathryn Scalvo, 619 Union street, and Rose Lazella, 511 Pearson street, of the Aiken school; Margaret Jerry, 715 Reynolds street, and Frank Devalli, 1014 Williams street, of the Thaddeus Stevens school; Joe Ryan, 930 Arlington avenue, and Mary Soloman, 708 Arlington avenue, of the Rose avenue school.

Present Prizes For School Gardens

East Side Garden Club Awards Pupils Of Schools For Garden Interest In Summer

This morning the students of the East Side schools were presented with awards for the gardens they tended during the summer. Most of the pupils made flower gardens, although some raised vegetables worthy of a seasoned gardener.

The gardens entered in the contest were visited by the judges: Mrs. W. C. Eckenroad, Joe Alexander and W. H. McIlvenny, who were much impressed at the display of labor and good taste in planning out their plots.

There were 165 gardens entered in the contest, with 100 from the Rose avenue school and the others distributed between Aiken, Thaddeus Stevens and Oak street school pupils.

Mrs. Harry O. Sturdevant, president of the East Side Garden club, which sponsored the contest, made the awards.

The first prize for flower gardens was awarded Barbara Hamil, 815 Pearl street, and the first for vegetables to Americo Ferrari, 1060 Adams street, who had raised two heads of cabbage weighing 5 pounds apiece; his celery and cauliflower were above the average and his garden contained not one weed. They were presented with Austrian Pines to plant in their gardens.

Honorable mention was won by Kathryn Scalvo, 619 Union street, and Rose Lazella, 511 Pearson street, of the Aiken school; Margaret Jerry, 715 Reynolds street, and Frank Devalli, 1014 Williams street, of the Thaddeus Stevens school; Joe Ryan, 930 Arlington avenue, and Mary Soloman, 708 Arlington avenue, of the Rose avenue school.

Farmer Wins Out In Suit Brought To Collect Wages

In the case of George Omelynk against Andrew Velma, tried at court before Judge R. L. Hildebrand, the jury returned a verdict in favor of the defendant. Omelynk sued Velma, a Neshannock township farmer, for $74, for work done on the farm, claiming he had been promised his room and board and as much as he was worth, which he thought was one dollar per day.

Velma testified that he had never made the agreement alleged, but that Omelynk, who was unemployed, had agreed to work for his room and board. Velma said Omelynk didn't know anything about farm work and wasn't worth any more than his board and room. Velma has nothing to pay under the verdict.

Pastor Explains Accident Details

Dr. William Parsons Tells How Accident Involving George Fulkman Occurred

Dr. William Parsons, pastor of the Pulaski Presbyterian church, in a communication to The News, gives an account of the distressing accident which befell George Fulkman of New Wilmington last week in Youngstown, O.

Press reports from Youngstown did not give complete details of the accident, which are reported by Dr. Parsons as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Fulkman were returning from the funeral of her sister at Tiffin, O. The accident occurred between the intersections, and not at one. Mr. Fulkman was driving slowly enough that he brought his car to a stop within two lengths of itself after the accident. The man who was hit evidently stepped from the sidewalk into the street without looking. Mr. Fulkman not only reported the matter to the Youngstown police, but was detained for more than two hours, and after investigation was released as not being guilty of any violation of law or negligence.

The explanation of Dr. Parsons was offered after he had read the account of the accident in The News, which came from a Youngstown source, and which were the opposite of what occurred, he states.

Many Matters Before Board

School Board Has Busy Evening, Disposing Of Business On Hand

TAX PROBLEM TO BE GIVEN PEOPLE

Last night's meeting of the New Castle school board was one of the busiest held in some time, a great variety of matters coming up for discussion. The meeting lasted into the wee small hours of the morning, one of the longest in some time.

A comparison of tax payments brought up a discussion of the matter and the board was of the opinion that unless tax payments come in better that an increase in the millage will have to be made. It was proposed that a public meeting be held, when the seriousness of the situation will be presented to the citizens of New Castle.

New Castle Last

A comparison of property tax collections for 1933-34 of second-class school districts, as of June 1, 1934, showed New Castle at the bottom of the list, with 59 per cent of the school property tax collected. Easton led all second-class districts with 90 per cent of her tax collected.

When the exoneration list of School Tax Collector L. W. McClung for 1933 was presented the matter was precipitated anew. Exonerations asked for totaled $5,945. The board in scanning the list found the names of some very prominent citizens who had not paid their personal school tax, and Mr. McClung stated that there was just no way that these particular persons could be collected from.

Request of the Transylvania Saxon Junior Association for use of the Ben Franklin gym, of Mrs. Mary Guy for use of a room in the Mahoning school for Girl Scout work, and from a delegation representing the CWA for use of the schools as meeting places, were laid on the table until the next meeting.

Repairs to the floor and stage of the auditorium in the Mahoning school was ordered, and the school ground was ordered fenced in with a cyclone fence to eliminate an obnoxious condition which has become embarrassing to teachers and pupils of the Mahoning school. Other school grounds are to be similarly fenced, it was intimated.

A request which had been made to the State Department of Health for vaccine with which to vaccinate students unable to pay was refused, the state replying that they could not even buy the vaccine, and were without authority to furnish the same.

To Purchase Truck

Under the law, students are not permitted to enter school until successfully vaccinated without a doctor's certificate. Complaint has been made by the parents of many children that they are unable to pay for the vaccination, being on relief.

The school district was ordered by the city, through Solicitor White, to replace 25 feet of curbing on Grant street which was removed when the property was leased to Boyles & Milsom.

The board, in discussing the matter, recalled that this had been removed by the tenant after they had been given permission through the city engineer's office, and the matter was referred back to the tenant.

The board decided to advertise for bids for a one-and-a-half-ton truck with dump body, to be used by the school district, one of the present trucks being in need of replacement.

HILLTOP PASSING

HARRISBURG, Oct. 11.—Motorists who persist in passing other vehicles on the crest of a hill or on a turn are finding state highway patrolmen active in suppressing this dangerous practice. In August, 361 arrests were made on this charge, increasing to 2601 the total for eight months.

RECOVER AUTOS

HARRISBURG, Oct. 11.—State highway patrolmen recovered 69 motor vehicles, valued at $27,930, in August. In eight months, they have recovered 518 cars, valued at $171,756.

Award Contract For School Coal

Maxwell And Gibson Receive Award This Year, After Study Of Bids

ORDER MATERIAL FOR FIRE ALARM

Two contracts were awarded by the New Castle School Board at their meeting last evening, the one for the annual coal supply, which went to Maxwell and Gibson, and the other for supplies for the fire alarm system to be installed in the schools. This latter contract was split between the Keps Electric company of Pittsburgh for all supplies except the horns, which will be furnished by the Graybar Electric company of Youngstown, O., whose bid for this particular item was lowest.

The bid of Maxwell and Gibson was $4.02½ per ton for slack, $4.67½ for inch and an eighth lump, $4.77½ for two-inch lump, and $4.27½ for nut coal, from the Enterprise mine in the Pittsburgh district.

Recommendation that this coal be purchased from Maxwell and Gibson was made after a study and visit to some of the mines, it was stated. The coal contract amounts to approximately 3,900 tons for the year, entailing an expenditure of $17,315.50.

Protest of the coal award to Maxwell and Gibson was made by a representative of the Jefferson mine, in behalf of C. J. Streib, whose aggregate bid for a different brand of coal was lower.

The board stated that the bid had already been let, and felt that the matter was a closed incident.

Fire Alarm System Bids

The bid of the Keps Electric company for the supplies needed for the fire alarm system totaled $613.79, with a discount of two per cent for payment within ten days of invoice on some of the items, and five per cent on others. The price for the warning horns of the Graybar electric company totaled $101.16, which was the lowest price for this particular item, the bids having been presented on a per item and also lump sum basis.

There were five bidders, whose totals were as follows:

Keps Electric company, $613.79; J. P. Merrilees, $674.35; Marvin Electric company, $655.52; Graybar Electric company, $641.68, and Chambers and Cline, $629.98.

Buy RWD Supplies

Bids were also opened for cement, sand and gravel to be used in RWD projects, the contract for furnishing the cement going to Mahoning Supply company at their bid of $2.42 per barrel, less a discount of ten cents a barrel if paid within 15 days of the date of invoice. Contract for furnishing sand was given the J. Clyde Gilfillan Lumber company, at their bid of $1.75 per ton; and for gravel, to the Fombelle Coal company at their bid of $1.60 per ton.

The prices of all bidders for these materials was practically the same, some offering a little better discount than the others.

ANTI-ITALIAN OUTBREAKS IN YUGO-SLAVIA

By D. R. GELEJI
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BELGRADE, Oct. 11.—While the Yugoslavian government officially passed into the hands of a royal regency council, violent anti-Italian demonstrations broke out today in Zagreb, Sarajevo and Ljubljana.

Hostility to Italy was growing hourly at various points throughout the nation.

The capital, however, evidenced its loyalty to the new regime and to Prince Paul, who will head the regency during the minority of the boy King Peter II.

Ceremonies handing governmental power over to Prince Paul and two political appointees of the late King Alexander were held in parliament.

The parliamentary building was heavily guarded, and all persons entering were searched for arms.

A comparison of property tax collections for 1933-34 of second-class school districts, as of June 1, 1934, showed New Castle at the bottom of the list, with 59 per cent of the school property tax collected. Easton led all second-class districts with 90 per cent of her tax collected.

When the exoneration list of School Tax Collector L. W. McClung for 1933 was presented the matter was precipitated anew. Exonerations asked for totaled $5,945. The board in scanning the list found the names of some very prominent citizens who had not paid their personal school tax, and Mr. McClung stated that there was just no way that these particular persons could be collected from.

Request of the Transylvania Saxon Junior Association for use of the Ben Franklin gym, of Mrs. Mary Guy for use of a room in the Mahoning school for Girl Scout work, and from a delegation representing the CWA for use of the schools as meeting places, were laid on the table until the next meeting.

Repairs to the floor and stage of the auditorium in the Mahoning school was ordered, and the school ground was ordered fenced in with a cyclone fence to eliminate an obnoxious condition which has become embarrassing to teachers and pupils of the Mahoning school. Other school grounds are to be similarly fenced, it was intimated.

A request which had been made to the State Department of Health for vaccine with which to vaccinate students unable to pay was refused, the state replying that they could not even buy the vaccine, and were without authority to furnish the same.

To Purchase Truck

Under the law, students are not permitted to enter school until successfully vaccinated without a doctor's certificate. Complaint has been made by the parents of many children that they are unable to pay for the vaccination, being on relief.

The school district was ordered by the city, through Solicitor White, to replace 25 feet of curbing on Grant street which was removed when the property was leased to Boyles & Milsom.

The board, in discussing the matter, recalled that this had been removed by the tenant after they had been given permission through the city engineer's office, and the matter was referred back to the tenant.

The board decided to advertise for bids for a one-and-a-half-ton truck with dump body, to be used by the school district, one of the present trucks being in need of replacement.

HILLTOP PASSING

HARRISBURG, Oct. 11.—State highway patrolmen recovered 69 motor vehicles, valued at $27,930, in August. In eight months, they have recovered 518 cars, valued at $171,756.

Award Contract For School Coal

ORDER MATERIAL FOR FIRE ALARM

Two contracts were awarded by the New Castle School Board at their meeting last evening, the one for the annual coal supply, which went to Maxwell and Gibson, and the other for supplies for the fire alarm system to be installed in the schools. This latter contract was split between the Keps Electric company of Pittsburgh for all supplies except the horns, which will be furnished by the Graybar Electric company of Youngstown, O., whose bid for this particular item was lowest.

The bid of Maxwell and Gibson was $4.02½ per ton for slack, $4.67½ for inch and an eighth lump, $4.77½ for two-inch lump, and $4.27½ for nut coal, from the Enterprise mine in the Pittsburgh district.

Recommendation that this coal be purchased from Maxwell and Gibson was made after a study and visit to some of the mines, it was stated. The coal contract amounts to approximately 3,900 tons for the year, entailing an expenditure of $17,315.50.

Protest of the coal award to Maxwell and Gibson was made by a representative of the Jefferson mine, in behalf of C. J. Streib, whose aggregate bid for a different brand of coal was lower.

The board stated that the bid had already been let, and felt that the matter was a closed incident.

Fire Alarm System Bids

The bid of the Keps Electric company for the supplies needed for the fire alarm system totaled $613.79, with a discount of two per cent for payment within ten days of invoice on some of the items, and five per cent on others. The price for the warning horns of the Graybar electric company totaled $101.16, which was the lowest price for this particular item, the bids having been presented on a per item and also lump sum basis.

There were five bidders, whose totals were as follows:

Keps Electric company, $613.79; J. P. Merrilees, $674.35; Marvin Electric company, $655.52; Graybar Electric company, $641.68, and Chambers and Cline, $629.98.

Buy RWD Supplies

Bids were also opened for cement, sand and gravel to be used in RWD projects, the contract for furnishing the cement going to Mahoning Supply company at their bid of $2.42 per barrel, less a discount of ten cents a barrel if paid within 15 days of the date of invoice. Contract for furnishing sand was given the J. Clyde Gilfillan Lumber company, at their bid of $1.75 per ton; and for gravel, to the Fombelle Coal company at their bid of $1.60 per ton.

The prices of all bidders for these materials was practically the same, some offering a little better discount than the others.

ANTI-ITALIAN OUTBREAKS IN YUGO-SLAVIA

By D. R. GELEJI
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BELGRADE, Oct. 11.—While the Yugoslavian government officially passed into the hands of a royal regency council, violent anti-Italian demonstrations broke out today in Zagreb, Sarajevo and Ljubljana.

Hostility to Italy was growing hourly at various points throughout the nation.

The capital, however, evidenced its loyalty to the new regime and to Prince Paul, who will head the regency during the minority of the boy King Peter II.

Ceremonies handing governmental power over to Prince Paul and two political appointees of the late King Alexander were held in parliament.

The parliamentary building was heavily guarded, and all persons entering were searched for arms.

MRS. PINCHOT SAYS EARLE STUPID POLITICIAN

Governor's Wife Makes Statement

Says Democratic Candidate Made Offer To Appoint Pinchot To Senate

TELLS OF VISIT TO MILFORD HOME

(International News Service)
By G. EVERETT DOYING
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Oct. 11.—Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot's version of the political happenings at Milford last summer portrays George H. Earle, Democratic candidate for governor, in a role which she declared today renders him ineligible to take office if elected.

The charge was predicated upon the first lady's assertion that Earle offered to appoint Gov. Gifford Pinchot to the United States Senate in return for political support in the fall election.

Calls Earle Stupid

It came as Mrs. Pinchot's share of the executive family's reply to Earle's speech at Easton last week in which he accused the Pinchots of having "begged" for a berth on the Democratic ticket. Governor Pinchot termed Earle a "fool" and a "liar" in his answer. Mrs. Pinchot in her statement labeled him a "stupid and unscrupulous politician."

Relating that Earle came to the Pinchot country estate on July 22 of this year "at his own suggestion," Mrs. Pinchot stated that after all but two of the guests had left, Earle told her:

"'I believe the people of Pennsylvania owe it to themselves and to Mr. Pinchot to send him to the senate'."

Mrs. Pinchot's statement continued:

"He then half rose and said in substance: 'Now, Mrs. Pinchot, I know something you don't know. I am not at liberty to explain what I mean. You will have to take it on faith. All that I want here is to ask whether Governor Pinchot would object to a Democratic appointment to the United States Senate. If he should entertain it, I would like to offer such an appointment'."

"Not An Auction Block"

In reply the governor's wife said she told Earle her husband was "not on the auction block."

There was no explanation of how Earle would name the governor to the senate but the inference was that Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic senatorial candidate, would resign if elected, thus creating a vacancy to be filled by executive appointment until an election was held.

It was not until later, she added, that she learned such a "proposition" made it impossible for a candidate honestly to take the oath of office required by the constitution which reads in part:

". . . that I have not paid or contributed, or promised to pay or contribute, either directly or indirectly, any money or other valuable thing to procure my nomination or election . . ."

The penalty for false affirmation is disqualification from office in the state.

Identity of the two guests Mrs. Pinchot said were still at Gray Towers when Earle made the statement credited to him were not made public by the executive's wife. The governor had gone to the national guard review at Mt. Gretna. It was recalled in this connection that Earle also declared witnesses were present when he charged the Pinchot's sought a place on the Democratic ticket.

The remainder of Mrs. Pinchot's bristling 1,000-word statement was taken up with a detailed summation of the events leading up to Earle's alleged conversation with her.

She said all day Earle had endeavored to open a conversation which would bring a statement from her that the Pinchot's would support the Democrats but that she had "put him off." Just before the governor left for Mt. Gretna, she said he told her:

"'Earle has been trying all afternoon to maneuver me off into a corner with him. I have been careful not to give him any opportunity for private conversation. Watch your step'."

Denial By Earle.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 11.—Flatly denying charges by Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of the governor, that he ever offered a senatorial appointment in return for support in the presnt campaign, George H. Earle, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, classed the charges as "fantastic" when he arrived here today.

Earle said the first lady's statement "is as ridiculous and fantastic as Governor Pinchot's present support of the Mellon-Grundy candidates, Senator Reed and Mr. Schnader, when you remember Governor Pinchot's colorful description of Senator Reed's qualifications during the primary campaign."

He added:

"Such an offer would be an impossibility."

"He pointed out there will be no senatorial vacancies during his term.

In Praise of Beer.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

KING ALEXANDER of Jugo-Slavia, landing at Marseilles, beginning a "good will" tour of France, was killed by an assassin. Louis Barthou, foreign minister of France, who has gone to Marseilles to meet the King, was shot, down at the same moment and died later from loss of blood. Their car was "spattered with bullets."

Louis Barthou, 72 years old, one of the ablest of French statesmen, had looked forward to the visit of the Jugo-Slavian King as the beginning of an era of peace in Europe.

AS A RESULT of the King's assassination on foreign soil, it might have been feared that another war would be precipitated. The great war started with the murder of the Austrian archduke. Vienna published rumors that the Jugo-Slav government had ordered mobilization of its army on the Italian and Hungarian frontiers.

It happens, however, that the murderer in this case is a certain Petrus Kalemen, 35-year-old Jugo-Slav, one of King Alexander's own subjects, so that no international complication is suggested.

Kalemen, captured after firing the shots which killed Barthou and Alexander, attempted suicide by shooting himself in the mouth, but was cut down by police sabers and died from the deep gashes inflicted and police bullet wounds.

NEWS COLUMNS will give you all details of one of the gravest crimes in Europe since the assassination of President Doumer in 1932.

The King was assassinated in a city, gaily decorated in his honor, to which he had traveled on a warship, convoyed by a fleet of French naval vessels.

Fortunately, King Alexander's young Queen Marie, in delicate health, had made the journey to Marseilles by train.

THIS CRIME again emphasizes the debt that organized society and our "civilization," such as it is, owe to the instinct of self-preservation, the fear of death among human beings.

Men smother their hatreds and restrain their murderous impulses because their strongest emotion is fear of death for themselves. The most dangerous wild beast in the world is the man with murderous inclinations sufficiently strong to overcome fear of death.

Instances of this desire to kill, regardless of consequences, are seen in the "running amuck," or more correctly, "amok," common among Malays. With them it is not unusual for an individual who feels that he has been ill-treated, is maddened by jealousy or gambling losses, or for other reasons weary of life, seize a knife and run through crowds slashing and killing until he is killed.

Such desperate crimes have been known in other countries among the Rajputs of India, for instance. The eldest son of the Rajah of Jodhpur, in the court of Shah Jahan, failing in an attempt to kill the Emperor, killed five of his assistants in his fit of rage.

Fortunately, for the peace of the world and the success of men's plan for government, the emotions of hatred and envy are overcome by "self-preservation." Killings for political reasons rarely escape immediate punishment and are fortunately rare.

The assassination of the Jugo-Slavian King and the Jugo-Slav rumor of mobilization recall a recent speech by Premier Mussolini in which he warned Jugo-Slavia and the newspapers of Jugo-Slavia to cease their attacks on Italy, particularly offensive attacks accusing Italian soldiers of cowardice in the great war. It will be a satisfaction to know that no Italian was concerned in the deadly attack on King Alexander.

OTHER NEWS of the days is unimportant compared with the startling news from France.

John D. Rockefeller, not delaying this year, has started for Florida accompanied by his son, John D., Jr.

There is longer life in sunshine. Some day swift air transportation will make it possible for millions of old men and women and young children that now fight cold and colds, in the northern winter, to spend that winter somewhere in the United States' sun that stretches from Florida on the east, west along the Gulf Coast and north along the Pacific Ocean.

MR. LA GUARDIA, mayor of New York, apparently not fearing hostility of sincere, embattled prohibitionists, tells the brewers what Thomas Jefferson had told them long ago, that they and their product are true friends of temperance.

Thomas Jefferson, you will remember, wrote to the legislature of Virginia, recommending an English brewer, because he believed that beer was the greatest enemy of drunkenness.

Mayor La Guardia promises to "end the wild cocktail parties" in New York's property, the Central Park Casino, if the courts will let him.

IN COMPARING news importance an exception, of course, must be made for the baseball series, now part of history. Mr. "Dizzy" Dean was said early in the day to be suffering from a "deep cold", but it was not deep enough to reach the end of his good right arm.

The score was eleven to nothing, accompanied by some rioting and throwing of bottles. One gentleman spiked another at third. America takes its baseball seriously.

AT McKEES ROCKS, PA., five men spent the night outside relief headquarters announcing their intention to stay until relief should come.

One of the five, Joseph Dudack, said:

"I have had to keep my kids out of school for three weeks, and I'm going to stay here until I get some clothes for them."

His four companions announce the same intention. The five fathers have seventeen children among them. The chief of police said:

"I know these men. They are all honest citizens. They work whenever they can get work."

TROUBLE CONTINUES in Spain, with troops guarding the parliament and inconceivably savage outrages reported in the war against religion.

A priest and two civil guards are said to have been burned alive and a Catholic orphanage dynamited. In an outburst of terrorism and religious hatred in Northern Spain, the Associated Press reports many churches burned, fifty-two soldiers killed when a military truck was blown up.

And, worst of all, Nuns are said to have been killed. The extraordinary thing is that the most savage outbreaks against religion and religious institutions in modern times should occur in the most deeply religious countries, Russia, formerly perhaps the most religious of all countries, in Spain and in Mexico.

THE FORMER King of Spain, Alfonso, now in Rome, is said not to expect any immediate restoration of the Spanish monarchy. The news is not calculated to make him eager for it.

With his son, Don Jaime, he has been inspecting houses in Italy, with the idea of living there. The Associated Press quotes him as giving "vehement expressions to his staunch Catholicism."

The government now in control of the Spanish law-making machinery, under Senor Robles, a practical dictator although holding no office, is concerned not so much with the restoration of the monarchy as with overcoming radicalism, that aims at estates and church property, preventing religious observances by Catholics and hampering education by church authorities.

No More Piles
Doctor's Prescription Guaranteed

This is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give lasting relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.
Your itching, bleeding or protruding Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Eckerd's Cut Rate and New Castle Drug Co. invite every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if not joyfully satisfied with the help one bottle gives.

Thousands of thin, pale, rundown folks—and even "Naturally Skinny" men and women—are amazed at this—new easy way to put on healthy needed pounds quickly. Gains of 15 to 20 lbs.—in one month—5 lbs. in a week—are reported regularly.
Kelp-a-Malt, the new mineral concentrate from the sea—gets right down to the cause of thin, underweight conditions and adds weight, through a "2 ways in one" natural process.
First, its rich supply of easily assimilable minerals nourish the digestive glands which produce the juices that alone enable you to digest the fats and starches in your daily diet . . . the weight-making elements in food. Second, Kelp-a-Malt's natural FOOD IODINE regulates and nourishes the internal glands which control assimilation—the process of converting digested food into firm flesh, new strength and energy. Three Kelp-a-Malt tablets contain more iron and copper than a pound of spinach or 7½ pounds of fresh tomatoes; more calcium than 6 eggs; more phosphorus than 1½ lbs. carrots; more FOOD IODINE than 1600 lbs. of beef.
Try Kelp-a-Malt for a single week and notice the difference—how much better you feel. Contains no yeast, doesn't cause bloating. If you don't gain at least 5 lbs. of good, firm flesh in 1 week the trial is free. 100 jumbo size tablets 4 to 5 times the size of ordinary tablets cost but little and can be had at

Governor's Wife Makes Statement

Says Democratic Candidate Made Offer To Appoint Pinchot To Senate

TELLS OF VISIT TO MILFORD HOME

(International News Service)
By G. EVERETT DOYING
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Oct. 11.—Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot's version of the political happenings at Milford last summer portrays George H. Earle, Democratic candidate for governor, in a role which she declared today renders him ineligible to take office if elected.

The charge was predicated upon the first lady's assertion that Earle offered to appoint Gov. Gifford Pinchot to the United States Senate in return for political support in the fall election.

Calls Earle Stupid

It came as Mrs. Pinchot's share of the executive family's reply to Earle's speech at Easton last week in which he accused the Pinchots of having "begged" for a berth on the Democratic ticket. Governor Pinchot termed Earle a "fool" and a "liar" in his answer. Mrs. Pinchot in her statement labeled him a "stupid and unscrupulous politician."

Relating that Earle came to the Pinchot country estate on July 22 of this year "at his own suggestion," Mrs. Pinchot stated that after all but two of the guests had left, Earle told her:

"'I believe the people of Pennsylvania owe it to themselves and to Mr. Pinchot to send him to the senate'."

Mrs. Pinchot's statement continued:

"He then half rose and said in substance: 'Now, Mrs. Pinchot, I know something you don't know. I am not at liberty to explain what I mean. You will have to take it on faith. All that I want here is to ask whether Governor Pinchot would object to a Democratic appointment to the United States Senate. If he should entertain it, I would like to offer such an appointment'."

"Not An Auction Block"

In reply the governor's wife said she told Earle her husband was "not on the auction block."

There was no explanation of how Earle would name the governor to the senate but the inference was that Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic senatorial candidate, would resign if elected, thus creating a vacancy to be filled by executive appointment until an election was held.

It was not until later, she added, that she learned such a "proposition" made it impossible for a candidate honestly to take the oath of office required by the constitution which reads in part:

". . . that I have not paid or contributed, or promised to pay or contribute, either directly or indirectly, any money or other valuable thing to procure my nomination or election . . ."

The penalty for false affirmation is disqualification from office in the state.

Identity of the two guests Mrs. Pinchot said were still at Gray Towers when Earle made the statement credited to him were not made public by the executive's wife. The governor had gone to the national guard review at Mt. Gretna. It was recalled in this connection that Earle also declared witnesses were present when he charged the Pinchot's sought a place on the Democratic ticket.

The remainder of Mrs. Pinchot's bristling 1,000-word statement was taken up with a detailed summation of the events leading up to Earle's alleged conversation with her.

She said all day Earle had endeavored to open a conversation which would bring a statement from her that the Pinchot's would support the Democrats but that she had "put him off." Just before the governor left for Mt. Gretna, she said he told her:

"'Earle has been trying all afternoon to maneuver me off into a corner with him. I have been careful not to give him any opportunity for private conversation. Watch your step'."

Denial By Earle.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 11.—Flatly denying charges by Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of the governor, that he ever offered a senatorial appointment in return for support in the presnt campaign, George H. Earle, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, classed the charges as "fantastic" when he arrived here today.

Earle said the first lady's statement "is as ridiculous and fantastic as Governor Pinchot's present support of the Mellon-Grundy candidates, Senator Reed and Mr. Schnader, when you remember Governor Pinchot's colorful description of Senator Reed's qualifications during the primary campaign."

He added:

"Such an offer would be an impossibility."

"He pointed out there will be no senatorial vacancies during his term.

KING ALEXANDER of Jugo-Slavia, landing at Marseilles, beginning a "good will" tour of France, was killed by an assassin. Louis Barthou, foreign minister of France, who has gone to Marseilles to meet the King, was shot, down at the same moment and died later from loss of blood. Their car was "spattered with bullets."

Louis Barthou, 72 years old, one of the ablest of French statesmen, had looked forward to the visit of the Jugo-Slavian King as the beginning of an era of peace in Europe.

AS A RESULT of the King's assassination on foreign soil, it might have been feared that another war would be precipitated. The great war started with the murder of the Austrian archduke. Vienna published rumors that the Jugo-Slav government had ordered mobilization of its army on the Italian and Hungarian frontiers.

It happens, however, that the murderer in this case is a certain Petrus Kalemen, 35-year-old Jugo-Slav, one of King Alexander's own subjects, so that no international complication is suggested.

Kalemen, captured after firing the shots which killed Barthou and Alexander, attempted suicide by shooting himself in the mouth, but was cut down by police sabers and died from the deep gashes inflicted and police bullet wounds.

NEWS COLUMNS will give you all details of one of the gravest crimes in Europe since the assassination of President Doumer in 1932.

The King was assassinated in a city, gaily decorated in his honor, to which he had traveled on a warship, convoyed by a fleet of French naval vessels.

Fortunately, King Alexander's young Queen Marie, in delicate health, had made the journey to Marseilles by train.

THIS CRIME again emphasizes the debt that organized society and our "civilization," such as it is, owe to the instinct of self-preservation, the fear of death among human beings.

Men smother their hatreds and restrain their murderous impulses because their strongest emotion is fear of death for themselves. The most dangerous wild beast in the world is the man with murderous inclinations sufficiently strong to overcome fear of death.

Instances of this desire to kill, regardless of consequences, are seen in the "running amuck," or more correctly, "amok," common among Malays. With them it is not unusual for an individual who feels that he has been ill-treated, is maddened by jealousy or gambling losses, or for other reasons weary of life, seize a knife and run through crowds slashing and killing until he is killed.

Such desperate crimes have been known in other countries among the Rajputs of India, for instance. The eldest son of the Rajah of Jodhpur, in the court of Shah Jahan, failing in an attempt to kill the Emperor, killed five of his assistants in his fit of rage.

Fortunately, for the peace of the world and the success of men's plan for government, the emotions of hatred and envy are overcome by "self-preservation." Killings for political reasons rarely escape immediate punishment and are fortunately rare.

The assassination of the Jugo-Slavian King and the Jugo-Slav rumor of mobilization recall a recent speech by Premier Mussolini in which he warned Jugo-Slavia and the newspapers of Jugo-Slavia to cease their attacks on Italy, particularly offensive attacks accusing Italian soldiers of cowardice in the great war. It will be a satisfaction to know that no Italian was concerned in the deadly attack on King Alexander.

OTHER NEWS of the days is unimportant compared with the startling news from France.

John D. Rockefeller, not delaying this year, has started for Florida accompanied by his son, John D., Jr.

There is longer life in sunshine. Some day swift air transportation will make it possible for millions of old men and women and young children that now fight cold and colds, in the northern winter, to spend that winter somewhere in the United States' sun that stretches from Florida on the east, west along the Gulf Coast and north along the Pacific Ocean.

MR. LA GUARDIA, mayor of New York, apparently not fearing hostility of sincere, embattled prohibitionists, tells the brewers what Thomas Jefferson had told them long ago, that they and their product are true friends of temperance.

Thomas Jefferson, you will remember, wrote to the legislature of Virginia, recommending an English brewer, because he believed that beer was the greatest enemy of drunkenness.

Mayor La Guardia promises to "end the wild cocktail parties" in New York's property, the Central Park Casino, if the courts will let him.

IN COMPARING news importance an exception, of course, must be made for the baseball series, now part of history. Mr. "Dizzy" Dean was said early in the day to be suffering from a "deep cold", but it was not deep enough to reach the end of his good right arm.

The score was eleven to nothing, accompanied by some rioting and throwing of bottles. One gentleman spiked another at third. America takes its baseball seriously.

AT McKEES ROCKS, PA., five men spent the night outside relief headquarters announcing their intention to stay until relief should come.

One of the five, Joseph Dudack, said:

"I have had to keep my kids out of school for three weeks, and I'm going to stay here until I get some clothes for them."

His four companions announce the same intention. The five fathers have seventeen children among them. The chief of police said:

"I know these men. They are all honest citizens. They work whenever they can get work."

TROUBLE CONTINUES in Spain, with troops guarding the parliament and inconceivably savage outrages reported in the war against religion.

A priest and two civil guards are said to have been burned alive and a Catholic orphanage dynamited. In an outburst of terrorism and religious hatred in Northern Spain, the Associated Press reports many churches burned, fifty-two soldiers killed when a military truck was blown up.

And, worst of all, Nuns are said to have been killed. The extraordinary thing is that the most savage outbreaks against religion and religious institutions in modern times should occur in the most deeply religious countries, Russia, formerly perhaps the most religious of all countries, in Spain and in Mexico.

THE FORMER King of Spain, Alfonso, now in Rome, is said not to expect any immediate restoration of the Spanish monarchy. The news is not calculated to make him eager for it.

With his son, Don Jaime, he has been inspecting houses in Italy, with the idea of living there. The Associated Press quotes him as giving "vehement expressions to his staunch Catholicism."

The government now in control of the Spanish law-making machinery, under Senor Robles, a practical dictator although holding no office, is concerned not so much with the restoration of the monarchy as with overcoming radicalism, that aims at estates and church property, preventing religious observances by Catholics and hampering education by church authorities.

I WAS "NATURALLY SKINNY"...YET I JUST GAINED 5LBS. IN 1 WEEK!

Kelp-a-Malt new mineral concentrate from the sea, quickly adds firm, solid flesh on rundown men and women where all else fails.

Thousands of thin, pale, rundown folks—and even "Naturally Skinny" men and women—are amazed at this—new easy way to put on healthy needed pounds quickly. Gains of 15 to 20 lbs.—in one month—5 lbs. in a week—are reported regularly.

Kelp-a-Malt, the new mineral concentrate from the sea—gets right down to the cause of thin, underweight conditions and adds weight, through a "2 ways in one" natural process.

First, its rich supply of easily assimilable minerals nourish the digestive glands which produce the juices that alone enable you to digest the fats and starches in your daily diet . . . the weight-making elements in food. Second, Kelp-a-Malt's natural FOOD IODINE regulates and nourishes the internal glands which control assimilation—the process of converting digested food into firm flesh, new strength and energy. Three Kelp-a-Malt tablets contain more iron and copper than a pound of spinach or 7½ pounds of fresh tomatoes; more calcium than 6 eggs; more phosphorus than 1½ lbs. carrots; more FOOD IODINE than 1600 lbs. of beef.

Try Kelp-a-Malt for a single week and notice the difference—how much better you feel. Contains no yeast, doesn't cause bloating. If you don't gain at least 5 lbs. of good, firm flesh in 1 week the trial is free. 100 jumbo size tablets 4 to 5 times the size of ordinary tablets cost but little and can be had at

TAX PROBLEM TO BE GIVEN PEOPLE

Last night's meeting of the New Castle school board was one of the busiest held in some time, a great variety of matters coming up for discussion. The meeting lasted into the wee small hours of the morning, one of the longest in some time.

A comparison of tax payments brought up a discussion of the matter and the board was of the opinion that unless tax payments come in better that an increase in the millage will have to be made. It was proposed that a public meeting be held, when the seriousness of the situation will be presented to the citizens of New Castle.

New Castle Last

A comparison of property tax collections for 1933-34 of second-class school districts, as of June 1, 1934, showed New Castle at the bottom of the list, with 59 per cent of the school property tax collected. Easton led all second-class districts with 90 per cent of her tax collected.

When the exoneration list of School Tax Collector L. W. McClung for 1933 was presented the matter was precipitated anew. Exonerations asked for totaled $5,945. The board in scanning the list found the names of some very prominent citizens who had not paid their personal school tax, and Mr. McClung stated that there was just no way that these particular persons could be collected from.

Request of the Transylvania Saxon Junior Association for use of the Ben Franklin gym, of Mrs. Mary Guy for use of a room in the Mahoning school for Girl Scout work, and from a delegation representing the CWA for use of the schools as meeting places, were laid on the table until the next meeting.

Repairs to the floor and stage of the auditorium in the Mahoning school was ordered, and the school ground was ordered fenced in with a cyclone fence to eliminate an obnoxious condition which has become embarrassing to teachers and pupils of the Mahoning school. Other school grounds are to be similarly fenced, it was intimated.

A request which had been made to the State Department of Health for vaccine with which to vaccinate students unable to pay was refused, the state replying that they could not even buy the vaccine, and were without authority to furnish the same.

To Purchase Truck

Under the law, students are not permitted to enter school until successfully vaccinated without a doctor's certificate. Complaint has been made by the parents of many children that they are unable to pay for the vaccination, being on relief.

The school district was ordered by the city, through Solicitor White, to replace 25 feet of curbing on Grant street which was removed when the property was leased to Boyles & Milsom.

The board, in discussing the matter, recalled that this had been removed by the tenant after they had been given permission through the city engineer's office, and the matter was referred back to the tenant.

The board decided to advertise for bids for a one-and-a-half-ton truck with dump body, to be used by the school district, one of the present trucks being in need of replacement.

HILLTOP PASSING

HARRISBURG, Oct. 11.—Motorists who persist in passing other vehicles on the crest of a hill or on a turn are finding state highway patrolmen active in suppressing this dangerous practice. In August, 361 arrests were made on this charge, increasing to 2601 the total for eight months.

RECOVER AUTOS

HARRISBURG, Oct. 11.—State highway patrolmen recovered 69 motor vehicles, valued at $27,930, in August. In eight months, they have recovered 518 cars, valued at $171,756.

Award Contract For School Coal

ORDER MATERIAL FOR FIRE ALARM

Two contracts were awarded by the New Castle School Board at their meeting last evening, the one for the annual coal supply, which went to Maxwell and Gibson, and the other for supplies for the fire alarm system to be installed in the schools. This latter contract was split between the Keps Electric company of Pittsburgh for all supplies except the horns, which will be furnished by the Graybar Electric company of Youngstown, O., whose bid for this particular item was lowest.

The bid of Maxwell and Gibson was $4.02½ per ton for slack, $4.67½ for inch and an eighth lump, $4.77½ for two-inch lump, and $4.27½ for nut coal, from the Enterprise mine in the Pittsburgh district.

Recommendation that this coal be purchased from Maxwell and Gibson was made after a study and visit to some of the mines, it was stated. The coal contract amounts to approximately 3,900 tons for the year, entailing an expenditure of $17,-315.50.

Protest of the coal award to Maxwell and Gibson was made by a representative of the Jefferson mine, in behalf of C. J. Streib, whose aggregate bid for a different brand of coal was lower.

The board stated that the bid had already been let, and felt that the matter was a closed incident.

Fire Alarm System Bids

The bid of the Keps Electric company for the supplies needed for the fire alarm system totaled $613.79, with a discount of two per cent for payment within ten days of invoice on some of the items, and five per cent on others. The price for the warning horns of the Graybar electric company totaled $101.16, which was the lowest price for this particular item, the bids having been presented on a per item and also lump sum basis.

There were five bidders, whose totals were as follows:

Keps Electric company, $613.79; J. P. Merrilees, $674.35; Marvin Electric company, $655.52; Graybar Electric company, $641.68, and Chambers and Cline, $629.98.

Buy RWD Supplies

Bids were also opened for cement, sand and gravel to be used in RWD projects, the contract for furnishing the cement going to Mahoning Supply company at their bid of $2.42 per barrel, less a discount of ten cents a barrel if paid within 15 days of the date of invoice. Contract for furnishing sand was given the J. Clyde Gilfillan Lumber company, at their bid of $1.75 per ton; and for gravel, to the Fombelle Coal company at their bid of $1.60 per ton.

The prices of all bidders for these materials was practically the same, some offering a little better discount than the others.

ANTI-ITALIAN OUTBREAKS IN YUGO-SLAVIA

By D. R. GELEJI
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BELGRADE, Oct. 11.—While the Yugoslavian government officially passed into the hands of a royal regency council, violent anti-Italian demonstrations broke out today in Zagreb, Sarajevo and Ljubljana.

Hostility to Italy was growing hourly at various points throughout the nation.

The capital, however, evidenced its loyalty to the new regime and to Prince Paul, who will head the regency during the minority of the boy King Peter II.

Ceremonies handing governmental power over to Prince Paul and two political appointees of the late King Alexander were held in parliament.

The parliamentary building was heavily guarded, and all persons entering were searched for arms.

MRS. PINCHOT SAYS EARLE STUPID POLITICIAN

Governor's Wife Makes Statement

Says Democratic Candidate Made Offer To Appoint Pinchot To Senate

TELLS OF VISIT TO MILFORD HOME

(International News Service)
By G. EVERETT DOYING
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 11.—Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot's version of the political happenings at Milford last summer portrays George H. Earle, Democratic candidate for governor, in a role which she declared today renders him ineligible to take office if elected.

The charge was predicated upon the first lady's assertion that Earle offered to appoint Gov. Gifford Pinchot to the United States Senate in return for political support in the fall election.

Calls Earle Stupid

It came as Mrs. Pinchot's share of the executive family's reply to Earle's speech at Easton last week in which he accused the Pinchots of having "begged" for a berth on the Democratic ticket. Governor Pinchot termed Earle a "fool" and a "liar" in his answer. Mrs. Pinchot in her statement labeled him a "stupid and unscrupulous politician."

Relating that Earle came to the Pinchot country estate on July 22 of this year "at his own suggestion," Mrs. Pinchot stated that after all but two of the guests had left, Earle told her:

"'I believe the people of Pennsylvania owe it to themselves and to Mr. Pinchot to send him to the senate'."

Mrs. Pinchot's statement continued:

"He then half rose and said in substance: 'Now, Mrs. Pinchot, I know something you don't know. I am not at liberty to explain what I mean. You will have to take it on faith. All that I want here is to ask whether Governor Pinchot would object to a Democratic appointment to the United States Senate. If he should entertain it, I would like to offer such an appointment'."

"Not An Auction Block"

In reply the governor's wife said she told Earle her husband was "not on the auction block."

There was no explanation of how Earle would name the governor to the senate but the inference was that Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic senatorial candidate, would resign if elected, thus creating a vacancy to be filled by executive appointment until an election was held.

It was not until later, she added, that she learned such a "proposition" made it impossible for a candidate honestly to take the oath of office required by the constitution which reads in part:

". . . that I have not paid or contributed, or promised to pay or contribute, either directly or indirectly, any money or other valuable thing to procure my nomination or election . . ."

The penalty for false affirmation is disqualification from office in the state.

Identity of the two guests Mrs. Pinchot said were still at Gray Towers when Earle made the statement credited to him were not made public by the executive's wife. The governor had gone to the national guard review at Mt. Gretna. It was recalled in this connection that Earle also declared witnesses were present when he charged the Pinchot's sought a place on the Democratic ticket.

The remainder of Mrs. Pinchot's bristling 1,000-word statement was taken up with a detailed summation of the events leading up to Earle's alleged conversation with her.

She said all day Earle had endeavored to open a conversation which would bring a statement from her that the Pinchot's would support the Democrats but that she had "put him off." Just before the governor left for Mt. Gretna, she said he told her:

"'Earle has been trying all afternoon to maneuver me off into a corner with him. I have been careful not to give him any opportunity for private conversation. Watch your step'."

Denial By Earle.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 11.—Flatly denying charges by Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of the governor, that he ever offered a senatorial appointment in return for support in the presnt campaign, George H. Earle, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, classed the charges as "fantastic" when he arrived here today.

Earle said the first lady's statement "is as ridiculous and fantastic as Governor Pinchot's present support of the Mellon-Grundy candidates, Senator Reed and Mr. Schnader, when you remember Governor Pinchot's colorful description of Senator Reed's qualifications during the primary campaign."

He added:

"Such an offer would be an impossibility."

"He pointed out there will be no senatorial vacancies during his term.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

KING ALEXANDER of Jugo-Slavia, landing at Marseilles, beginning a "good will" tour of France, was killed by an assassin. Louis Barthou, foreign minister of France, who has gone to Marseilles to meet the King, was shot, down at the same moment and died later from loss of blood. Their car was "spattered with bullets."

Louis Barthou, 72 years old, one of the ablest of French statesmen, had looked forward to the visit of the Jugo-Slavian King as the beginning of an era of peace in Europe.

AS A RESULT of the King's assassination on foreign soil, it might have been feared that another war would be precipitated. The great war started with the murder of the Austrian archduke. Vienna published rumors that the Jugo-Slav government had ordered mobilization of its army on the Italian and Hungarian frontiers.

It happens, however, that the murderer in this case is a certain Petrus Kalemen, 35-year-old Jugo-Slav, one of King Alexander's own subjects, so that no international complication is suggested.

Kalemen, captured after firing the shots which killed Barthou and Alexander, attempted suicide by shooting himself in the mouth, but was cut down by police sabers and died from the deep gashes inflicted and police bullet wounds.

NEWS COLUMNS will give you all details of one of the gravest crimes in Europe since the assassination of President Doumer in 1932.

The King was assassinated in a city, gaily decorated in his honor, to which he had traveled on a warship, convoyed by a fleet of French naval vessels.

Fortunately, King Alexander's young Queen Marie, in delicate health, had made the journey to Marseilles by train.

THIS CRIME again emphasizes the debt that organized society and our "civilization," such as it is, owe to the instinct of self-preservation, the fear of death among human beings.

Men smother their hatreds and restrain their murderous impulses because their strongest emotion is fear of death for themselves. The most dangerous wild beast in the world is the man with murderous inclinations sufficiently strong to overcome fear of death.

Instances of this desire to kill, regardless of consequences, are seen in the "running amuck," or more correctly, "amok," common among Malays. With them it is not unusual for an individual who feels that he has been ill-treated, is maddened by jealousy or gambling losses, or for other reasons weary of life, seize a knife and run through crowds slashing and killing until he is killed.

Such desperate crimes have been known in other countries among the Rajputs of India, for instance. The eldest son of the Rajah of Jodhpur, in the court of Shah Jahan, failing in an attempt to kill the Emperor, killed five of his assistants in his fit of rage.

Fortunately, for the peace of the world and the success of men's plan for government, the emotions of hatred and envy are overcome by "self-preservation." Killings for political reasons rarely escape immediate punishment and are fortunately rare.

The assassination of the Jugo-Slavian King and the Jugo-Slav rumor of mobilization recall a recent speech by Premier Mussolini in which he warned Jugo-Slavia and the newspapers of Jugo-Slavia to cease their attacks on Italy, particularly offensive attacks accusing Italian soldiers of cowardice in the great war. It will be a satisfaction to know that no Italian was concerned in the deadly attack on King Alexander.

OTHER NEWS of the days is unimportant compared with the startling news from France.

John D. Rockefeller, not delaying this year, has started for Florida accompanied by his son, John D., Jr.

There is longer life in sunshine. Some day swift air transportation will make it possible for millions of old men and women and young children that now fight cold and colds, in the northern winter, to spend that winter somewhere in the United States' sun that stretches from Florida on the east, west along the Gulf Coast and north along the Pacific Ocean.

MR. LA GUARDIA, mayor of New York, apparently not fearing hostility of sincere, embattled prohibitionists, tells the brewers what Thomas Jefferson had told them long ago, that they and their product are true friends of temperance.

Thomas Jefferson, you will remember, wrote to the legislature of Virginia, recommending an English brewer, because he believed that beer was the greatest enemy of drunkenness.

Mayor La Guardia promises to "end the wild cocktail parties" in New York's property, the Central Park Casino, if the courts will let him.

IN COMPARING news importance an exception, of course, must be made for the baseball series, now part of history. Mr. "Dizzy" Dean was said early in the day to be suffering from a "deep cold", but it was not deep enough to reach the end of his good right arm.

The score was eleven to nothing, accompanied by some rioting and throwing of bottles. One gentleman spiked another at third. America takes its baseball seriously.

AT McKEES ROCKS, PA., five men spent the night outside relief headquarters announcing their intention to stay until relief should come.

One of the five, Joseph Dudack, said:

"I have had to keep my kids out of school for three weeks, and I'm going to stay here until I get some clothes for them."

His four companions announce the same intention. The five fathers have seventeen children among them. The chief of police said:

"I know these men. They are all honest citizens. They work whenever they can get work."

TROUBLE CONTINUES in Spain, with troops guarding the parliament and inconceivably savage outrages reported in the war against religion.

A priest and two civil guards are said to have been burned alive and a Catholic orphanage dynamited. In an outburst of terrorism and religious hatred in Northern Spain, the Associated Press reports many churches burned, fifty-two soldiers killed when a military truck was blown up.

And, worst of all, Nuns are said to have been killed. The extraordinary thing is that the most savage outbreaks against religion and religious institutions in modern times should occur in the most deeply religious countries, Russia, formerly perhaps the most religious of all countries, in Spain and in Mexico.

THE FORMER King of Spain, Alfonso, now in Rome, is said not to expect any immediate restoration of the Spanish monarchy. The news is not calculated to make him eager for it.

With his son, Don Jaime, he has been inspecting houses in Italy, with the idea of living there. The Associated Press quotes him as giving "vehement expressions to his staunch Catholicism."

The government now in control of the Spanish law-making machinery, under Senor Robles, a practical dictator although holding no office, is concerned not so much with the restoration of the monarchy as with overcoming radicalism, that aims at estates and church property, preventing religious observances by Catholics and hampering education by church authorities.

No Piles

Doctor's Prescription Guaranteed

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

This is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give lasting relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your itching, bleeding or protruding Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, sold by good druggists everywhere succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the affected parts.

So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Eckerd's Cut Rate and New Castle Drug Co. invite every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if not joyfully satisfied with the help one bottle gives.

Parents Believe Baby Is Alive

Pottsville Couple Believe That Baby They Buried Was Not Their Mary

(International News Service)

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 11.—Still convinced that their new-born child is alive despite the denials of hospital officials and the attending physician, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Lopez today refused to attend the burial in potter's field of a tiny body labeled 'Baby Boy Lopez".

The parents insist that the babe born to Mrs. Lopez Sunday was a girl and that the dead child was mistaken for theirs in a mixup at the Pottsville hospital.

Believe Baby Alive.

Admitting a misunderstanding, hospital authorities said the baby was christened "Mary" by a priest before its sex was determined. The error was discovered subsequently by a nurse and the child died eight hours after birth, officials declared.

To substantiate their claim that the dead child belongs to Lopez and his wife, hospital attaches pointed out that there are only two other infants in the hospital, both more than two months old.

Although refusing to accept the body, Lopez agreed to let the child's name go on the burial certificate as "Baby boy—son of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Lopez."

Lopez declared, however, that he and his wife will always believe that their "Mary" is still alive.

"John, I bought some sheets, pillow cases and blankets today. Shall I put them down in my budget as cover charge or overhead?"

Parents Believe Baby Is Alive

Pottsville Couple Believe That Baby They Buried Was Not Their Mary

(International News Service)

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 11.—Still convinced that their new-born child is alive despite the denials of hospital officials and the attending physician, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Lopez today refused to attend the burial in potter's field of a tiny body labeled 'Baby Boy Lopez".

The parents insist that the babe born to Mrs. Lopez Sunday was a girl and that the dead child was mistaken for theirs in a mixup at the Pottsville hospital.

Believe Baby Alive.

Admitting a misunderstanding, hospital authorities said the baby was christened "Mary" by a priest before its sex was determined. The error was discovered subsequently by a nurse and the child died eight hours after birth, officials declared.

To substantiate their claim that the dead child belongs to Lopez and his wife, hospital attaches pointed out that there are only two other infants in the hospital, both more than two months old.

Although refusing to accept the body, Lopez agreed to let the child's name go on the burial certificate as "Baby boy—son of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Lopez."

Lopez declared, however, that he and his wife will always believe that their "Mary" is still alive.

"John, I bought some sheets, pillow cases and blankets today. Shall I put them down in my budget as cover charge or overhead?"

Schoolboy Rowe Will Wed Today

Famous Detroit Tiger Hurler Will Take Edna Skinner As Bride Today

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Oct. 11—Wedding bells will ring today for Lynwood "Schoolboy" Rowe, ace pitcher of the Detroit Tigers, and his El Dorado, Ark., sweetheart, Edna May Skinner.

They were to appear at the license bureau this morning with a special permit, issued by Probate Judge Edward Command, for their license. Michigan laws require a five-day wait between applications for the license and its issuance, but on a petition filed by Miss Skinner, the five-day wait was waived.

"We expect to be married right after we get the license," Edna told reporters. "We had planned a pretty big celebration if the Tigers won the championship, but now it's going to be quiet."

Rowe gave his age as 22 and Edna's as 21. Both said their home was in El Dorado, Ark.

Fish Leaps Into Angler's Boat

Owner Puzzled To Find Big Fish In Boat After Absence

HARRISBURG, Oct. 11.—Perhaps the best fish story of the year to be reported to the Fish Commission has been sent in by Warden Joel Young of Fullerton, Lehigh county. It concerns a 28-inch pickerel that accommodated a fisherman on Pecks Pond, Pike county, in an unusual way.

Young was patrolling the pond and while rowing in the vicinity of Rattlesnake Island, noticed a boat beached on the shore. Investigating, he found the big pickerel lying in the bottom of the boat. A few minutes later the owner of the boat appeared.

Fisherman and warden tried to puzzle it out. The only solution apparent seemed to rest in other evidence garnered from the bottom of the boat. A dead minnow was found with the pickerel, and the fisherman had not been using live bait that morning.

"We then concluded," writes Young, "that while chasing the minnow, the latter in skipping over the water landed in the boat, and the pickerel had so much momentum in pursuing it that it followed the same course with disastrous results."

With a 6-0 victory over Mars still ringing in their ears, the Shenango high eleven will end training this afternoon in preparation for Friday afternoon when the East New Castle gridders battle Mercer high at Mercer.

In toppling the strong Mars combination, Coach Edward Raney's machine looked the part of a smooth working team. Just who will replace Ketzel, Shenango halfback, who was injured last Saturday, is not known as yet.

Penn And Yale Plan For Battle

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11.—All indications today were that quarterback Murray would be in the Penn line-up when the Quakers face Yale this Saturday. Murray, who received an ankle injury ten days ago, was back in uniform as was Paul Stofko, who received his first workout since the Ursinus game.

Cardinals May Trade One Of Dean Brothers

Two Deans On One Team May Not Be So Good, Cardinals May Discover

DEAN BOYS ARE HARD TO HANDLE

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service
Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—In line with writing a little harmless blarney for the papers, all I know about this particular situation is what the eye sees and the ear suspects, the sum total of which is that St. Louis is liable to trade or sell one of the delirious Deans this winter, not necessarily for the league's good but for its own. It's all very simple. One Dean on a ball club is admirable; two Deans mean the thing that causes the average employer to shudder violently and reach briskly for the cyanide, namely, collective bargaining. In the course of time, it might even become intimidation. The Deans are not very well paid.

Hard To Handle

Any time, therefore, that Dizzy, the elder and odder, finds himself engaged in a difference of opinion with the management over the tearing up of a contract or a uniform, he can settle the situation in a few, well chosen words, thus:

"Me and Paul; we're going home."

The uniform, by the way, is a little cheaper, but not much. It is my understanding that Dizzy drew $7,500 for his season's work and Paul $4,500.

In any case, the management would not want the Deans to go home, for then the management would have very little to manage. The Deans won 49 games during the regular season, about half the production of the club in winning the National League pennant. In the World Series just concluded, four games were necessary to carry off the championship. The Deans won four games. Their position, therefore, is practically unassailable. All they have to do is stop pitching and the ball club stops winning and the customers stops coming.

Breadon Confident

I'm aware, of course, that the Deans lost one of these arguments late in the summer when an exhibition date slipped Dizzy's mind, or maybe I have that wrong. Maybe it was the mind that slipped. Anyhow, they were fined $100 and had to say they'd be very good hereafter. But, after what happened at the close of the season and in the series, I fear that sort of thing will now run for E. Pluribus Sweeney, although I see where Mr. Sam Breadon, the owner, doesn't agree with me.

He expressed perfect confidence, in fact, in being able to sign the Deans for next year without the slightest trouble.

"Just a breeze," said he.

But so is a strike out.

INTRODUCING BO McMILLIN

By JACK SORDS

BO McMILLIN, Indiana's new coach, began his colorful football career at North high school, Fort Worth, Texas. He then attended Centre college, Danville, Ky., and so distinguished himself in football that for two years he was named on Walter Camp's all-American elevens.

Bo's career at Centre reads like a Chip Collins story in that he performed great feats of athletic prowess on several occasions. After his arrival at Centre the little school began to defeat its ancient rivals by top-heavy scores. The climax of his playing career came when he led the Centre team to a 6 to 0 victory over Harvard, a school then at the very top in football. Bo made the winning touchdown by spectacularly reversing his field and eluding Crimson tackler after tackler.

McMillin played his last at Centre in 1921. Shortly after, he became head coach at Centenary college, Shreveport, La. From there he went to Geneva college, where as a coach, he again defeated Harvard.

From Geneva he went to Kansas State, smallest school in the Big Six, where his teams made an excellent showing.

McMillin is an easy-mannered man as well as a football coach, frequently lecturing his men on preparing themselves for later life.

Bo uses his soft southern droll, timely witticisms and, occasionally, firey speech to put his ideas over to his listeners. He is in great demand as a speaker and has his spare time filled weeks ahead with engagements.

Tech To Battle Michigan State

(Special To The News)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 11.—Because Carnegie Tech's game with Michigan State at East Lansing, Mich., next Saturday has assumed vastly more importance than it held before the Spartans' 16 to 0 triumph over Michigan, the Tartan athletic authorities have made a change in their original traveling plans. At first it was planned to take the squad to Lansing on Friday evening, arriving only a few hours before game time. Now, however, the start west will be made on Thursday evening, and the Skibo squad will stay in a small city near Lansing until Saturday morning.

Coach Howard Harpster realizes that the Michigan State game is the crucial one of his season. A defeat for Carnegie, and the young players may not be able to rally to face the rest of the imposing schedule, which includes Notre Dame, Purdue, Temple, New York, Duquesne and Pittsburgh. A victory over the Spartans, who now occupy a place in the national spotlight after their triumph over the Wolverines, will be a tremendous boost for the Plaid morale.

Coach Davey Boyd will take three complete teams to Grove City. The Union squad will leave at noon tomorrow. The game was originally scheduled for Saturday but was changed by the two schools.

George Schaas the veteran Unionite will probably be out of the starting lineup due to a severe leg injury, suffered in the Bridgeville game.

Nonpariel Members To Have Meeting

The first meeting of the year for the members of the Nonpariel Rifle club will be held next Tuesday evening at the West Side garage range at 8 o'clock, according to an announcement by Karl Rohrer today. It is very important that all members of the club attend this meeting.

Plans for the coming winter activities of the club will be talked over and discussed. Matters of importance to every member will be taken up.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Fishermen will agree there is nothing more destructive to fish than snakes, which has resulted in campaign of snake killing being staged in different sections. Sometime ago the Salisbury-Meyersdale Sportsmen's association started a drive, offering 10 cents for each watersnake killed. When the final proofs were submitted they found a total of 3,252 snakes had been killed, according to the Pennsylvania Game News. It is also reported that rattlesnakes and copperheads were more abundant this year than in the past. In some places, however, blacksnakes are reported to have almost disappeared.

The city has a dog catcher who rounds up the tagless canines. There has been no campaign to rid the city of cats which are tax free. In a recent issue of the Pennsylvania News, it says that John W. Sprenkle, editor of the Perksaie Central News provided a photograph of a cat killing a full grown rabbit. The cat was shot by Howard Loughride of Sellersville, Bucks county.

It may be that Frank Tambarini, Butler avenue, expert shot on crows will read that it is estimated by misguided enthusiasts, according to this publication that a crow "will eat 18 bushels of worms and insects in a season.' But these are mere appetizers for him and for a "square meal" he raids the corn fields, orchards and hen roosts, besides driving away the smaller insectivorous birds that live entirely on insects and in the aggiegate would destroy far more of them than the crow. And switching to hawks, the writer saw one in the vicinity of the Volant road, Sunday. The hawk followed something which was on the ground, darted down prabably struck then soared upward. The hawk was so distant it was impossible for the writer to see what the hawk had caught.

There are, some nice squirrels in different sections of hereabout. They are protected at both Cunningham and Gaston Parks. Some can also be seen running across Highland avenue. A few days ago one of them was injured and some kind hearted person telephoned the police department. The sergeant dispatched a cruiser car for the purpose of having the officer get the squirrel and place it in the woodlands.

Pennsylvania hunters can help reduce accidents in the woods by wearing red and while it is true the hunting season is yet some time away it is not a bad idea for the hunters to obtain some red cloth and sew it on their hat and coat. Red is a color that can be seen at a distance and the timely tip of "Sew Red On Now" is appropriate.

During the past week or more persons have travelled in different sections in quest of nuts, which causes one to remark that they should be careful with matches, pipe, cigar and cigarette. The leaves are dry on the ground and a blaze can start quickly. There is no question but that a burning forest is a burning shame.

Duck Season To Open Next Week

Federal Tax Must Be Paid By All Duck Hunters This Year

Duck season opens in Pennsylvania, October 18 and lasts until December 22, but before Pennsylvania hunters will be permitted to hunt ducks, even though possessing a Pennsylvania hunters license he must also have a Federal stamp affixed to his license tag.

The Federal stamp is secured at the local post office at a cost of $1.

There are quite a few hunters in Lawrence county who are enthusiastic duck hunters, who are looking forward to the opening of the season.

Football Loop Is Organized

Alec Samuels Elected President Of Fifth Independent Grid League

FOUR TEAMS ARE NOW IN FIELD

With four teams eager to take out franchises, the fifth annual Independent football league was organized at the Sporting Goods store last night with Alec Samuels, energetic south side sportsman, elected as president.

Fred Marcella was elected as secretary of the league and Charles "Bugs" Walther was named as vice president. It is hoped that two more teams can be secured to make it a fast six-team league. The commissioners named were: Charles "Horse" Gillium, Doc Garnett and Pete Capitola.

The league plans to start operation on Sunday afternoon, October 20, and continue through until the last of November. The Williams team won the championship last year and were also champs in 1932. All of the teams this year will be strong. Many former college and high school stars will be on the different teams.

Four Strong Teams

The following teams were present last night with representatives: Croton A. C., "Hop" Colaluca; Audias, Tip Richards; Williams, Norman Nocera; DeHarts, Tom Farrow. The next meeting will be held at the Sporting Goods store next Monday evening for the purpose of taking in any new teams and to make out a schedule of games for the league. All player lists must be turned into the secretary by next Monday, also a list of available fields.

Any of the following teams can enter the league by calling Secretary Marcella at 9062: Oakland, Mahoning, Union high alumni or Highland.

Alec Samuels is enjoying his third straight year as president of the grid league. The teams will all be strong. The Audias, formerly the Marcella A. C., 1930 champions, will feature Nick DeCarbo, former Duquesne university line star, and a young man capable of filling All-American shoes. The DeHarts will feature Freddy Lane, the brilliant colored former high school star. The DeHarts won the title in 1931. The Croton team, 1929 champions, will have a strong lineup.

Sutherland Has Eleven On Edge For Trojan Game

Only Doubtful Starting Posts Will Be Quarterback And Left Halfback

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 11.—With the eyes of a football world trained on their approaching game with Southern California, Pittsburgh university gridders today were completing practice sessions for the highly important sectional game Saturday.

Coach Jock Sutherland was prebared to put his charges through a lengthy scrimmage this afternoon, and plans to taper off the week's activities with signal drills.

The visiting Trojans are expected to arrive in Pittsburgh tomorrow afternoon. They will hold signal drills at Shadyside Academy, which has been selected as their headquarters while they are here.

Two Positions Open.

Having seen his squad in action in two victories this season, Coach Sutherland is not contemplating making any major changes in his regular lineup. Two positions, quarterback and left halfback, have not been filled to the entire satisfaction of the Panthers' coach, and if any changes are made, they will probably be there.

During the week of intensive practice the Pittsburgh mentor concentrated on his forward wall, with especial attention on the two tackles. At the conclusion of a lengthy drill last night, he declared that his team was "about ready" for the Trojan invasion.

Sutherland feels that if his tackles and ends hold up against the hard-driving attack of the visitors, the Panthers will have a good chance of defeating the Californians. With this thought in mind, he concentrated the week's training activities largely on his linemen.

Geneva To Play Salem Tonight

Coach Dyke Beede Will Shakeup Geneva Lineup For Game Tonight With Salem

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Oct. 11.—Coach Dike Beede is shaking up his starting lineup for the game with Salem college tonight in a frantic effort to bring the Genevans out of the slump which they displayed against Thiel here last Friday night. Although the boys worked hard, it was quite evident that Thiel had the jump on them at every stage of the game. With this fact in mind, Beede is taking a long shot on his starting lineup, hoping that it will click.

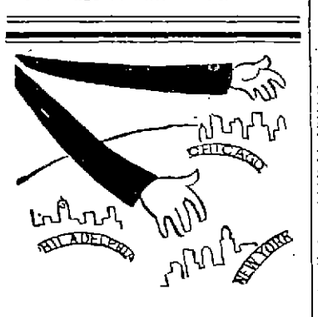

The injured list still includes two of Geneva's most dependable men. Clyde Johnson, who tore a ligament in his right leg last Friday night, is definitely out of this contest, while Joe Paris, sturdy guard, will view the game from the sidelines because his leg is not responding to treatment in a satisfactory manner.

Begolly and Bache will start at their familiar terminal positions for the third game of the season. Jess Fleck by nature of his work in the Tech game will be returned to a tackle, pairing with lanky Ellis Nave. Rainey, stubby freshman, and Jack Weichel, are the guard selections and Joe Hlista the starting center.

With his sparkplug, Clyde Johnson, out of commission Beede is attempting to build his backfield around Dick Jones, whom he has shifted to quarterback. Bruce Wilson, although inexperienced, has shown more defensive ability than any of the newer men and will open at half with Perricelli, freshman speedster. Gobulich performed well under fire last week and is deserving of the fullback post.

Homer Gray Trains For Future Bouts

Homer Gray colored, middleweight who has staged many thrilling encounters here, has hopped into training for whatever bouts the promoters in this section offer. Homer's last fight was with Jack Redman of Akron. It was a good bout. He is one of the best looking prospects in this section.

Schoolboy Rowe Will Wed Today

Famous Detroit Tiger Hurler Will Take Edna Skinner As Bride Today

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Oct. 11—Wedding bells will ring today for Lynwood "Schoolboy" Rowe, ace pitcher of the Detroit Tigers, and his El Dorado, Ark., sweetheart, Edna May Skinner.

They were to appear at the license bureau this morning with a special permit, issued by Probate Judge Edward Command, for their license. Michigan laws require a five-day wait between applications for the license and its issuance, but on a petition filed by Miss Skinner, the five-day wait was waived.

"We expect to be married right after we get the license," Edna told reporters. "We had planned a pretty big celebration if the Tigers won the championship, but now it's going to be quiet."

Rowe gave his age as 22 and Edna's as 21. Both said their home was in El Dorado, Ark.

Fish Leaps Into Angler's Boat

Owner Puzzled To Find Big Fish In Boat After Absence

HARRISBURG, Oct. 11.—Perhaps the best fish story of the year to be reported to the Fish Commission has been sent in by Warden Joel Young of Fullerton, Lehigh county. It concerns a 28-inch pickerel that accommodated a fisherman on Pecks Pond, Pike county, in an unusual way.

Young was patrolling the pond and while rowing in the vicinity of Rattlesnake Island, noticed a boat beached on the shore. Investigating, he found the big pickerel lying in the bottom of the boat. A few minutes later the owner of the boat appeared.

Fisherman and warden tried to puzzle it out. The only solution apparent seemed to rest in other evidence garnered from the bottom of the boat. A dead minnow was found with the pickerel, and the fisherman had not been using live bait that morning.

"We then concluded," writes Young, "that while chasing the minnow, the latter in skipping over the water landed in the boat, and the pickerel had so much momentum in pursuing it that it followed the same course with disastrous results."

Shenango Ready For For Mercer High

Shenango Hopes To Conquer Fast Mercer High Eleven Friday Afternoon

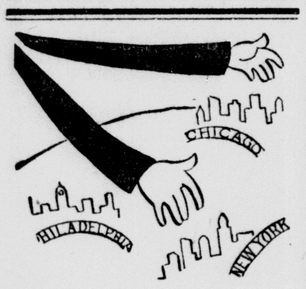

With a 6-0 victory over Mars still ringing in their ears, the Shenango high eleven will end training this afternoon in preparation for Friday afternoon when the East New Castle gridders battle Mercer high at Mercer.

In toppling the strong Mars combination, Coach Edward Raney's machine looked the part of a smooth working team. Just who will replace Ketzel, Shenango halfback, who was injured last Saturday, is not known as yet.

Penn And Yale Plan For Battle

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11.—All indications today were that quarterback Murray would be in the Penn line-up when the Quakers face Yale this Saturday. Murray, who received an ankle injury ten days ago, was back in uniform as was Paul Stofko, who received his first workout since the Ursinus game.

It took long arms to gather these Fall Shirts together.

The tails of three style centers represented here . . . shirts from New York, Chicago, Philadelphia.

The result is that here is variety that few men in cities twice the size of New Castle ever see. We've found that if you surprise a man in patterns, he'll reciprocate in patronage. If you come in to buy one shirt . . . don't be alarmed if you end up by owning three.

Cardinals May Trade One Of Dean Brothers

Two Deans On One Team May Not Be So Good, Cardinals May Discover

DEAN BOYS ARE HARD TO HANDLE

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service
Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—In line with writing a little harmless blarney for the papers, all I know about this particular situation is what the eye sees and the ear suspects, the sum total of which is that St. Louis is liable to trade or sell one of the delirious Deans this winter, not necessarily for the league's good but for its own. It's all very simple. One Dean on a ball club is admirable; two Deans mean the thing that causes the average employer to shudder violently and reach briskly for the cyanide, namely, collective bargaining. In the course of time, it might even become intimidation. The Deans are not very well paid.

Hard To Handle

Any time, therefore, that Dizzy, the elder and odder, finds himself engaged in a difference of opinion with the management over the tearing up of a contract or a uniform, he can settle the situation in a few, well chosen words, thus:

"Me and Paul; we're going home."

The uniform, by the way, is a little cheaper, but not much. It is my understanding that Dizzy drew $7,500 for his season's work and Paul $4,500.

In any case, the management would not want the Deans to go home, for then the management would have very little to manage. The Deans won 49 games during the regular season, about half the production of the club in winning the National League pennant. In the World Series just concluded, four games were necessary to carry off the championship. The Deans won four games. Their position, therefore, is practically unassailable. All they have to do is stop pitching and the ball club stops winning and the customers stops coming.

Breadon Confident

I'm aware, of course, that the Deans lost one of these arguments late in the summer when an exhibition date slipped Dizzy's mind, or maybe I have that wrong. Maybe it was the mind that slipped. Anyhow, they were fined $100 and had to say they'd be very good hereafter. But, after what happened at the close of the season and in the series, I fear that sort of thing will now run for E. Pluribus Sweeney, although I see where Mr. Sam Breadon, the owner, doesn't agree with me.

He expressed perfect confidence, in fact, in being able to sign the Deans for next year without the slightest trouble.

"Just a breeze," said he.

But so is a strike out.

Notre Dame And Purdue To Clash

(International News Service)

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Oct. 11.—Turning from strenuous workouts on fundamentals, Elmer Layden today ordered a combination dummy scrimmage and signal drill to smooth out the Notre Dame offense for Saturday's battle with Purdue. Three changes still held on the varsity, the line-up showing Jack Robinson at center, Bill Smith at right guard and Don Elser at fullback.

INTRODUCING
BO McMILLIN
By JACK SORDS

BO McMILLIN, Indiana's new coach, began his colorful football career at North high school, Fort Worth, Texas. He then attended Centre college, Danville, Ky., and so distinguished himself in football that for two years he was named on Walter Camp's all-American elevens.

Bo's career at Centre reads like a Chip Collins story in that he performed great feats of athletic prowess on several occasions. After his arrival at Centre the little school began to defeat its ancient rivals by top-heavy scores. The climax of his playing career came when he led the Centre team to a 6 to 0 victory over Harvard, a school then at the very top in football. Bo made the winning touchdown by spectacularly reversing his field and eluding Crimson tackler after tackler.

McMillin played his last at Centre in 1921. Shortly after, he became head coach at Centenary college, Shreveport, La. From there he went to Geneva college, where as a coach, he again defeated Harvard.

From Geneva he went to Kansas State, smallest school in the Big Six, where his teams made an excellent showing.

McMillin is an easy-mannered man as well as a football coach, frequently lecturing his men on preparing themselves for later life.

Bo uses his soft southern droll, timely witticisms and, occasionally, firey speech to put his ideas over to his listeners. He is in great demand as a speaker and has his spare time filled weeks ahead with engagements.

Tech To Battle Michigan State

(Special To The News)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 11.—Because Carnegie Tech's game with Michigan State at East Lansing, Mich., next Saturday has assumed vastly more importance than it held before the Spartans' 16 to 0 triumph over Michigan, the Tartan athletic authorities have made a change in their original traveling plans. At first it was planned to take the squad to Lansing on Friday evening, arriving only a few hours before game time. Now, however, the start west will be made on Thursday evening, and the Skibo squad will stay in a small city near Lansing until Saturday morning.

Coach Howard Harpster realizes that the Michigan State game is the crucial one of his season. A defeat for Carnegie, and the young players may not be able to rally to face the rest of the imposing schedule, which includes Notre Dame, Purdue, Temple, New York, Duquesne and Pittsburgh. A victory over the Spartans, who now occupy a place in the national spotlight after their triumph over the Wolverines, will be a tremendous boost for the Plaid morale.

Jean Bauer Beats Kansas City Star

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11.—Jean Bauer, Providence, R. I., defeated Mrs. Opal Hill, Kansas City, 5 and 4 to enter the quarter finals in golf play for the Berthellyn trophy here Wednesday. Deborah Verry, Worcester, won from Mrs. Clarence Vanderbeck 1 up and Edith Quier beat Mrs. Leon Solomon by the same score.

Union High To Play Grovers

Head Coach Boyd Prepares Union For Battle At Grove City High Friday

Coach Davey Boyd will take three complete teams to Grove City. The Union squad will leave at noon tomorrow. The game was originally scheduled for Saturday but was changed by the two schools.

George Schaas the veteran Unionite will probably be out of the starting lineup due to a severe leg injury, suffered in the Bridgeville game.

Nonpariel Members To Have Meeting

The first meeting of the year for the members of the Nonpariel Rifle club will be held next Tuesday evening at the West Side garage range at 8 o'clock, according to an announcement by Karl Rohrer today. It is very important that all members of the club attend this meeting.

Plans for the coming winter activities of the club will be talked over and discussed. Matters of importance to every member will be taken up.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Fishermen will agree there is nothing more destructive to fish than snakes, which has resulted in campaign of snake killing being staged in different sections. Sometime ago the Salisbury-Meyersdale Sportsmen's association started a drive, offering 10 cents for each watersnake killed. When the final proofs were submitted they found a total of 3,252 snakes had been killed, according to the Pennsylvania Game News. It is also reported that rattlesnakes and copperheads were more abundant this year than in the past. In some places, however, blacksnakes are reported to have almost disappeared.

The city has a dog catcher who rounds up the tagless canines. There has been no campaign to rid the city of cats which are tax free. In a recent issue of the Pennsylvania News, it says that John W. Sprenkle, editor of the Perksaie Central News provided a photograph of a cat killing a full grown rabbit. The cat was shot by Howard Loughride of Sellersville, Bucks county.

It may be that Frank Tamburini, Butler avenue, expert shot on crows will read that it is estimated by misguided enthusiasts, according to this publication that a crow "will eat 18 bushels of worms and insects in a season.' But these are mere appetizers for him and for a "square meal" he raids the corn fields, orchards and hen roosts, besides driving away the smaller insectivorous birds that live entirely on insects and in the aggiegate would destroy far more of them than the crow. And switching to hawks, the writer saw one in the vicinity of the Volant road, Sunday. The hawk followed something which was on the ground, darted down prabably struck then soared upward. The hawk was so distant it was impossible for the writer to see what the hawk had caught.

There are some nice squirrels in different sections of hereabout. They are protected at both Cunningham and Gaston Parks. Some can also be seen running across Highland avenue. A few days ago one of them was injured and some kind hearted person telephoned the police department. The sergeant dispatched a cruiser car for the purpose of having the officer get the squirrel and place it in the woodlands.

Pennsylvania hunters can help reduce accidents in the woods by wearing red and while it is true the hunting season is yet some time away it is not a bad idea for the hunters to obtain some red cloth and sew it on their hat and coat. Red is a color that can be seen at a distance and the timely tip of "Sew Red On Now" is appropriate.

During the past week or more persons have travelled in different sections in quest of nuts, which causes one to remark that they should be careful with matches, pipe, cigar and cigarette. The leaves are dry on the ground and a blaze can start quickly. There is no question but that a burning forest is a burning shame.

Duck Season To Open Next Week

Federal Tax Must Be Paid By All Duck Hunters This Year

Duck season opens in Pennsylvania, October 18 and lasts until December 22, but before Pennsylvania hunters will be permitted to hunt ducks, even though possessing a Pennsylvania hunters license he must also have a Federal stamp affixed to his license tag.

The Federal stamp is secured at the local post office at a cost of $1.

There are quite a few hunters in Lawrence county who are enthusiastic duck hunters, who are looking forward to the opening of the season.

Football Loop Is Organized

Alec Samuels Elected President Of Fifth Independent Grid League

FOUR TEAMS ARE NOW IN FIELD

With four teams eager to take out franchises, the fifth annual Independent football league was organized at the Sporting Goods store last night with Alec Samuels, energetic south side sportsman, elected as president.

Fred Marcella was elected as secretary of the league and Charles "Bugs" Walther was named as vice president. It is hoped that two more teams can be secured to make it a fast six-team league. The commissioners named were: Charles "Horse" Gillium, Doc Garnett and Pete Capitola.

The league plans to start operation on Sunday afternoon, October 20, and continue through until the last of November. The Williams team won the championship last year and were also champs in 1932. All of the teams this year will be strong. Many former college and high school stars will be on the different teams.

Four Strong Teams

The following teams were present last night with representatives: Croton A. C., "Hop" Colaluca; Audias, Tip Richards; Williams, Norman Nocera; DeHarts, Tom Farrow. The next meeting will be held at the Sporting Goods store next Monday evening for the purpose of taking in any new teams and to make out a schedule of games for the league. All player lists must be turned into the secretary by next Monday, also a list of available fields.

Any of the following teams can enter the league by calling Secretary Marcella at 9062: Oakland, Mahoning, Union high alumni or Highland.

Alec Samuels is enjoying his third straight year as president of the grid league. The teams will all be strong. The Audias, formerly the Marcella A. C., 1930 champions, will feature Nick DeCarbo, former Duquesne university line star, and a young man capable of filling All-American shoes. The DeHarts will feature Freddy Lane, the brilliant colored former high school star. The DeHarts won the title in 1931. The Croton team, 1929 champions, will have a strong lineup.

Sutherland Has Eleven On Edge For Trojan Game

Only Doubtful Starting Posts Will Be Quarterback And Left Halfback

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 11.—With the eyes of a football world trained on their approaching game with Southern California, Pittsburgh university gridders today were completing practice sessions for the highly important sectional game Saturday.

Coach Jock Sutherland was prebared to put his charges through a lengthy scrimmage this afternoon, and plans to taper off the week's activities with signal drills.

The visiting Trojans are expected to arrive in Pittsburgh tomorrow afternoon. They will hold signal drills at Shadyside Academy, which has been selected as their headquarters while they are here.

Two Positions Open.

Having seen his squad in action in two victories this season, Coach Sutherland is not contemplating making any major changes in his regular lineup. Two positions, quarterback and left halfback, have not been filled to the entire satisfaction of the Panthers' coach, and if any changes are made, they will probably be there.

During the week of intensive practice the Pittsburgh mentor concentrated on his forward wall, with especial attention on the two tackles. At the conclusion of a lengthy drill last night, he declared that his team was "about ready" for the Trojan invasion.

Sutherland feels that if his tackles and ends hold up against the hard-driving attack of the visitors, the Panthers will have a good chance of defeating the Californians. With this thought in mind, he concentrated the week's training activities largely on his linemen.

Geneva To Play Salem Tonight

Coach Dyke Beede Will Shakeup Geneva Lineup For Game Tonight With Salem

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Oct. 11.—Coach Dike Beede is shaking up his starting lineup for the game with Salem college tonight in a frantic effort to bring the Genevans out of the slump which they displayed against Thiel here last Friday night. Although the boys worked hard, it was quite evident that Thiel had the jump on them at every stage of the game. With this fact in mind, Beede is taking a long shot on his starting lineup, hoping that it will click.

The injured list still includes two of Geneva's most dependable men. Clyde Johnson, who tore a ligament in his right leg last Friday night, is definitely out of this contest, while Joe Paris, sturdy guard, will view the game from the sidelines because his leg is not responding to treatment in a satisfactory manner.

Begolly and Bache will start at their familiar terminal positions for the third game of the season. Jess Fieck by nature of his work in the Tech game will be returned to a tackle, pairing with lanky Ellis Nave. Rainey, stubby freshman, and Jack Weichel, are the guard selections and Joe Hlista the starting center.

With his sparkplug, Clyde Johnson, out of commission Beede is attempting to build his backfield around Dick Jones, whom he has shifted to quarterback. Bruce Wilson, although inexperienced, has shown more defensive ability than any of the newer men and will open at half with Perricelli, freshman speedster. Gobulich performed well under fire last week and is deserving of the fullback post.

Homer Gray Trains For Future Bouts

Homer Gray colored, middleweight who has staged many thrilling encounters here, has hopped into training for whatever bouts the promotorers in this section offier Homer's last fight was with Jack Redman of Akron. It was a good bout. He is one of the best looking prospects in this section.

Parents Believe Baby Is Alive

Pottsville Couple Believe That Baby They Buried Was Not Their Mary

(International News Service)

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 11.—Still convinced that their new-born child is alive despite the denials of hospital officials and the attending physician, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Lopez today refused to attend the burial in potter's field of a tiny body labeled "Baby Boy Lopez".

The parents insist that the babe born to Mrs. Lopez Sunday was a girl and that the dead child was mistaken for theirs in a mixup at the Pottsville hospital.

Believe Baby Alive.

Admitting a misunderstanding, hospital authorities said the baby was christened "Mary" by a priest before its sex was determined. The error was discovered subsequently by a nurse and the child died eight hours after birth, officials declared.

To substantiate their claim that the dead child belongs to Lopez and his wife, hospital attaches pointed out that there are only two other infants in the hospital, both more than two months old.

Although refusing to accept the body, Lopez agreed to let the child's name go on the burial certificate as "Baby boy—son of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Lopez."

Lopez declared, however, that he and his wife will always believe that their "Mary" is still alive.

"John, I bought some sheets, pillow cases and blankets today. Shall I put them down in my budget as cover charge or overhead?"

Not disheartened by the defeat administered by Johnstown high last Saturday, the New Castle high football team is hard at work at Taggart field this week in preparation for their coming class AA game at Washington, Pa., Saturday.

New Castle defeated Charleroi in the first conference game at New Castle two weeks ago and will try hard to take the measure of the heretofore undefeated Washington high team.

QUICK KICKS

The defeat at the hands of Michigan State last Saturday was the first one suffered by Michigan since 1931 when Ohio State turned the trick. It was also the first intra-state classic between the two schools that the Spartans won since 1915. . . . Joe Zanin, Temple university end, is helping to pay his way through college by giving blood transfusions. . . . Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania was a guard during his college days at Yale. . . . Ursinus' victory over Penn last Saturday was their second in 24 years over the Quaker outfit. . . . Jay Berwanger, Chicago university's star back, concentrated on forward passing during spring practice under the tutelage of Marchy Schwartz, backfield coach on the Midway. . . . Woodrow Wilson coached the Princeton university football team of 1890. . . . When Allegheny defeated Clarion Teachers last Saturday, it marked their first win since 1932.

Ted Rosequist, a star lineman at Ohio State last year, earned his board and keep by digging graves. . . . Charley Berry, Philadelphia Athletics' catcher, was an all-American end from Lafayette on Walter Camp's last honor team. . . . Pat O'Dea, famous football star of Wisconsin, who recently identified himself after about 30 years of living under an assumed name, coached at Notre Dame in 1901 and 1902. . . . Alonzo Stagg, veteran coach, was an all-American end from Yale in 1899. . . . Josiah McCracken, Jr., the lad who scored Penn's touchdown against Ursinus, is the son of a Shanghai missionary who was an all-American guard at Penn in 1899. . . . The post-season play-off between the Chicago Bears and New York Giants last fall drew $21,138.52 less the government tax. . . . When Rice defeated Purdue, 14-0, it was the first time in 49 games that the Boilermakers were held scoreless.

The Yale-Columbia game of last Saturday was the first in 29 years between the two schools. . . . Although there is an old saying to the effect that a smart quarterback will make an ordinary football team look good, Carl Brumbaugh, field general of the Chicago Bears believes the reverse to be true. "The Bears would make any quarterback look good," he claims. . . . Last Saturday's defeat Ohio State handed Indiana, 33-0, was the worst suffered by the Hoosiers at the hands of Ohio since 1916 when the Buckeyes won, 47-7. . . . Bob Zuppke says Jack Buckler, 165 pound Army star, is the hardest-running back he ever saw. . . . Ozzie Nelson, orchestra leader, was a four-letter man at Rutgers where he starred in football, swimming, boxing, and lacrosse. . . . Dick Crayne and Oze Simmons accounted for more than 200 of the 233 yards gained on the ground by Iowa against Northwestern last Saturday. Keep your eye on Simmons, the Negro sophomore from Texas; he's developing rapidly.

Abe Mickal, Louisiana State backfield ace, kicked 14 consecutive extra points last season. . . . Northwestern football opponents haven't seen the last of the Gonyas. There's another this year, Bud, who is a quarterback candidate. Bob was a tackle on the 1932 eleven. . . Jim Musick, former Southern California fullback, withdrew from school in his freshman year because his fraternity brothers insisted he wear a dress suit. Special dispensation had to be made before he would return to college. . . . Jock Sutherland, Pitt coach, used to be a policeman. . . . Due to mine labor troubles in Indiana the Sullivan and Clinton high school game last year was governed by military rule. . . In 1930 Ted Beckett, guard on the California football team, caught one of the longest passes on record. It was a 285 yard pass thrown from the top of the Campanile at Berkeley, Cal., by Coach Bill Ingram. Seven other players failed to make the catch.

W. & J. To Play Detroit Eleven

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 11—W. & J Grid Athletes, 30 strong, will board a train here tonight for their intersectional battle tomorrow night with University of Detroit's Titans at Detroit. Coach Hank Day and his staff have bent every effort in developing W. and J's defense to stop a powerful overhead attack that is expected to greet them at Detroit.

But why stop with legalized gambling? Aren't there other vices that would bring in a lot of revenue?

Pitt Expects Tough Battle

Southern California Will Try Hard To Upset Panthers In Own Lair

PITTSBURGH, Octo. 11.—All hopes of Pitt catching an over-confident Southern California eleven napping and registering an upset went by the boards when Washington State won over the Trojans on Saturday, and now the Panthers will have to prepare for a team that is coming here eager for revenge.

Catching an eleven on the rebound is always bad, and it is going to be particularly so this week, for the Trojans without this added incentive would have been bad enough.

Bill Kern, Pitt's scout, dropped back into town last Sunday, and has been in a huddle with Jock Sutherland ever since. He reports that the Southern Californians, having learned their lesson, will be bad medicine on Saturday, if for no other reason than that of their manpower.

Line Averages 220

It will be the biggest college eleven to set foot on the Pitt stadium turf, the line averaging around 220 pounds, and the backfield being of average weight.

Just what changes in the lineup Howard Jones will have to make after Saturday's game remains to be seen, but no matter what he does, the new men in the lineup will be just as big and just as fast as the men that they are replacing.

Here at Pitt, Jock Sutherland does not anticipate any startling shifts. He's still worried about his left halfback, and he could do with a couple of extra tackles and ends, but he is just about decided to use the same eleven that has gone to the front in the first two games.

This means that Pitt will have Rooker and Baxter at the ends, Hoel and Detzel at the tackles, Hartwig and Ormiston at the guards, Shotwell at center, Munjas at quarterback, Nicksick and LaRue at the halves and Weinstock at full.

Plans were made to award cash prizes to winners this year. Next Wednesday night another meeting will be held in Alderman Cooper's office at 8 o'clock.

W. & J. To Play Detroit Eleven

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 11—W. & J Grid Athletes, 30 strong, will board a train here tonight for their intersectional battle tomorrow night with University of Detroit's Titans at Detroit. Coach Hank Day and his staff have bent every effort in developing W. and J's defense to stop a powerful overhead attack that is expected to greet them at Detroit.

But why stop with legalized gambling? Aren't there other vices that would bring in a lot of revenue?

Pitt Expects Tough Battle

Southern California Will Try Hard To Upset Panthers In Own Lair

PITTSBURGH, Octo. 11.—All hopes of Pitt catching an over-confident Southern California eleven napping and registering an upset went by the boards when Washington State won over the Trojans on Saturday, and now the Panthers will have to prepare for a team that is coming here eager for revenge.

Catching an eleven on the rebound is always bad, and it is going to be particularly so this week, for the Trojans without this added incentive would have been bad enough.

Bill Kern, Pitt's scout, dropped back into town last Sunday, and has been in a huddle with Jock Sutherland ever since. He reports that the Southern Californians, having learned their lesson, will be bad medicine on Saturday, if for no other reason than that of their manpower.

Line Averages 220

It will be the biggest college eleven to set foot on the Pitt stadium turf, the line averaging around 220 pounds, and the backfield being of average weight.

Just what changes in the lineup Howard Jones will have to make after Saturday's game remains to be seen, but no matter what he does, the new men in the lineup will be just as big and just as fast as the men that they are replacing.

Here at Pitt, Jock Sutherland does not anticipate any startling shifts. He's still worried about his left halfback, and he could do with a couple of extra tackles and ends, but he is just about decided to use the same eleven that has gone to the front in the first two games.

This means that Pitt will have Rooker and Baxter at the ends, Hoel and Detzel at the tackles, Hartwig and Ormiston at the guards, Shotwell at center, Munjas at quarterback, Nicksick and LaRue at the halves and Weinstock at full.

Schoolboy Rowe Will Wed Today

Famous Detroit Tiger Hurler Will Take Edna Skinner As Bride Today

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Oct. 11—Wedding bells will ring today for Lynwood "Schoolboy" Rowe, ace pitcher of the Detroit Tigers, and his El Dorado, Ark., sweetheart, Edna May Skinner.

They were to appear at the license bureau this morning with a special permit, issued by Probate Judge Edward Command, for their license. Michigan laws require a five-day wait between applications for the license and its issuance, but on a petition filed by Miss Skinner, the five-day wait was waived.

"We expect to be married right after we get the license," Edna told reporters. "We had planned a pretty big celebration if the Tigers won the championship, but now it's going to be quiet."

Rowe gave his age as 22 and Edna's as 21. Both said their home was in El Dorado, Ark.

Fish Leaps Into Angler's Boat

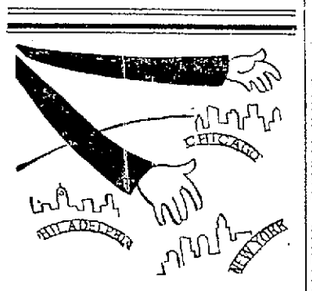

Owner Puzzled To Find Big Fish In Boat After Absence

HARRISBURG, Oct. 11.—Perhaps the best fish story of the year to be reported to the Fish Commission has been sent in by Warden Joel Young of Fullerton, Lehigh county. It concerns a 28-inch pickerel that accommodated a fisherman on Pecks Pond, Pike county, in an unusual way.

Young was patrolling the pond and while rowing in the vicinity of Rattlesnake Island, noticed a boat beached on the shore. Investigating, he found the big pickerel lying in the bottom of the boat. A few minutes later the owner of the boat appeared.

Fisherman and warden tried to puzzle it out. The only solution apparent seemed to rest in other evidence garnered from the bottom of the boat. A dead minnow was found with the pickerel, and the fisherman had not been using live bait that morning.

"We then concluded," writes Young, "that while chasing the minnow, the latter in skipping over the water landed in the boat, and the pickerel had so much momentum in pursuing it that it followed the same course with disastrous results."

It took long arms to gather these Fall Shirts together.

The tails of three style centers represented here . . . shirts from New York, Chicago, Philadelphia.

The result is that here is variety that few men in cities twice the size of New Castle ever see. We've found that if you surprise a man in patterns, he'll reciprocate in patronage. If you come in to buy one shirt . . . don't be alarmed if you end up by owning three.

Cardinals May Trade One Of Dean Brothers

Two Deans On One Team May Not Be So Good, Cardinals May Discover

DEAN BOYS ARE HARD TO HANDLE

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service
Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—In line with writing a little harmless blarney for the papers, all I know about this particular situation is what the eye sees and the ear suspects, the sum total of which is that St. Louis is liable to trade or sell one of the delirious Deans this winter, not necessarily for the league's good but for its own. It's all very simple. One Dean on a ball club is admirable; two Deans mean the thing that causes the average employer to shudder violently and reach briskly for the cyanide, namely, collective bargaining. In the course of time, it might even become intimidation. The Deans are not very well paid.

Hard To Handle

Any time, therefore, that Dizzy, the elder and odder, finds himself engaged in a difference of opinion with the management over the tearing up of a contract or a uniform, he can settle the situation in a few, well chosen words, thus:

"Me and Paul; we're going home."

The uniform, by the way, is a little cheaper, but not much. It is my understanding that Dizzy drew $7,500 for his season's work and Paul $4,500.

In any case, the management would not want the Deans to go home, for then the management would have very little to manage. The Deans won 49 games during the regular season, about half the production of the club in winning the National League pennant. In the World Series just concluded, four games were necessary to carry off the championship. The Deans won four games. Their position, therefore, is practically unassailable. All they have to do is stop pitching and the ball club stops winning and the customers stops coming.

Breadon Confident

I'm aware, of course, that the Deans lost one of these arguments late in the summer when an exhibition date slipped Dizzy's mind, or maybe I have that wrong. Maybe it was the mind that slipped. Anyhow, they were fined $100 and had to say they'd be very good hereafter. But, after that happened at the close of the season and in the series, I fear that sort of thing will now run for E. Pluribus Sweeney, although I see where Mr. Sam Breadon, the owner, doesn't agree with me.

He expressed perfect confidence, in fact, in being able to sign the Deans for next year without the slightest trouble.

"Just a breeze," said he.

But so is a strike out.

St. Andrews Men To Meet Friday

INTRODUCING
BO McMILLIN
By JACK SORDS

BO McMILLIN, Indiana's new coach, began his colorful football career at North high school, Fort Worth, Texas. He then attended Centre college, Danville, Ky., and so distinguished himself in football that for two years he was named on Walter Camp's all-American elevens.

Bo's career at Centre reads like a Chip Collins story in that he performed great feats of athletic prowess on several occasions. After his arrival at Centre the little school began to defeat its ancient rivals by top-heavy scores. The climax of his playing career came when he led the Centre team to a 6 to 0 victory over Harvard, a school then at the very top in football. Bo made the winning touchdown by spectacularly reversing his field and eluding Crimson tackler after tackler.

McMillin played his last at Centre in 1921. Shortly after, he became head coach at Centenary college, Shreveport, La. From there he went to Geneva college, where as a coach, he again defeated Harvard.

From Geneva he went to Kansas State, smallest school in the Big Six, where his teams made an excellent showing.

McMillin is an easy-mannered man as well as a football coach, frequently lecturing his men on preparing themselves for later life.

Bo uses his soft southern droll, timely witticisms and, occasionally, firey speech to put his ideas over to his listeners. He is in great demand as a speaker and has his spare time filled weeks ahead with engagements.

Tech To Battle Michigan State

(Special To The News)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 11.—Because Carnegie Tech's game with Michigan State at East Lansing, Mich., next Saturday has assumed vastly more importance than it held before the Spartans' 16 to 0 triumph over Michigan, the Tartan athletic authorities have made a change in their original traveling plans. At first it was planned to take the squad to Lansing on Friday evening, arriving only a few hours before game time. Now, however, the start west will be made on Thursday evening, and the Skibo squad will stay in a small city near Lansing until Saturday morning.

Coach Howard Harpster realizes that the Michigan State game is the crucial one of his season. A defeat for Carnegie, and the young players may not be able to rally to face the rest of the imposing schedule, which includes Notre Dame, Purdue, Temple, New York, Duquesne and Pittsburgh. A victory over the Spartans, who now occupy a place in the national spotlight after their triumph over the Wolverines, will be a tremendous boost for the Plaid morale.

Jean Bauer Beats Kansas City Star

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11.—Jean Bauer, Providence, R. I., defeated Mrs. Opal Hill, Kansas City, 5 and 4 to enter the quarter finals in golf play for the Berthellyn trophy here Wednesday. Deborah Verry, Worcester, won from Mrs. Clarence Vanderbeck 1 up and Edith Quier beat Mrs. Leon Solomon by the same score.

Union High To Play Grovers

Head Coach Boyd Prepares Union For Battle At Grove City High Friday

Union high school football team is hard at work at the new Union athletic field for their coming battle Friday afternoon with the Grove City High eleven at Grove City. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

Coach Davey Boyd will take three complete teams to Grove City. The Union squad will leave at noon tomorrow. The game was originally scheduled for Saturday but was changed by the two schools.

George Schaas the veteran Unionite will probably be out of the starting lineup due to a severe leg injury, suffered in the Bridgeville game.

Nonpariel Members To Have Meeting

The first meeting of the year for the members of the Nonpariel Rifle club will be held next Tuesday evening at the West Side garage range at 8 o'clock, according to an announcement by Karl Rohrer today. It is very important that all members of the club attend this meeting.

Plans for the coming winter activities of the club will be talked over and discussed. Matters of importance to every member will be taken up.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Fishermen will agree there is nothing more destructive to fish than snakes, which has resulted in campaign of snake killing being staged in different sections. Sometime ago the Salisbury-Meyersdale Sportsmen's association started a drive, offering 10 cents for each watersnake killed. When the final proofs were submitted they found a total of 3,252 snakes had been killed, according to the Pennsylvania Game News. It is also reported that rattlesnakes and copperheads were more abundant this year than in the past. In some places, however, blacksnakes are reported to have almost disappeared.

The city has a dog catcher who rounds up the tagless canines. There has been no campaign to rid the city of cats which are tax free. In a recent issue of the Pennsylvania News, it says that John W. Sprenkle, editor of the Perksaie Central News provided a photograph of a cat killing a full grown rabbit. The cat was shot by Howard Loughride of Sellersville, Bucks county.

It may be that Frank Tamburini, Butler avenue, expert shot on crows will read that it is estimated by misguided enthusiasts, according to this publication that a crow "will eat 18 bushels of worms and insects in a season.' But these are mere appetizers for him and for a "square meal" he raids the corn fields, orchards and hen roosts, besides driving away the smaller insectivorous birds that live entirely on insects and in the aggregate would destroy far more of them than the crow. And switching to hawks, the writer saw one in the vicinity of the Volant road, Sunday. The hawk followed something which was on the ground, darted down prabably struck then soared upward. The hawk was so distant it was impossible for the writer to see what the hawk had caught.

There are, some nice squirrels in different sections of hereabout. They are protected at both Cunningham and Gaston Parks. Some can also be seen running across Highland avenue. A few days ago one of them was injured and some kind hearted person telephoned the police department. The sergeant dispatched a cruiser car for the purpose of having the officer get the squirrel and place it in the woodlands.

Pennsylvania hunters can help reduce accidents in the woods by wearing red and while it is true the hunting season is yet some time away it is not a bad idea for the hunters to obtain some red cloth and sew it on their hat and coat. Red is a color that can be seen at a distance and the timely tip of "Sew Red On Now" is appropriate.

During the past week or more persons have travelled in different sections in quest of nuts, which causes one to remark that they should be careful with matches, pipe, cigar and cigarette. The leaves are dry on the ground and a blaze can start quickly. There is no question but that a burning forest is a burning shame.

Duck Season To Open Next Week

Federal Tax Must Be Paid By All Duck Hunters This Year

Duck season opens in Pennsylvania, October 18 and lasts until December 22, but before Pennsylvania hunters will be permitted to hunt ducks, even though possessing a Pennsylvania hunters license he must also have a Federal stamp affixed to his license tag.

The Federal stamp is secured at the local post office at a cost of $1.

There are quite a few hunters in Lawrence county who are enthusiastic duck hunters, who are looking forward to the opening of the season.

Football Loop Is Organized

Alec Samuels Elected President Of Fifth Independent Grid League

FOUR TEAMS ARE NOW IN FIELD

With four teams eager to take out franchises, the fifth annual Independent football league was organized at the Sporting Goods store last night with Alec Samuels, energetic south side sportsman, elected as president.

Fred Marcella was elected as secretary of the league and Charles "Bugs" Walther was named as vice president. It is hoped that two more teams can be secured to make it a fast six-team league. The commissioners named were: Charles "Horse" Gillium, Doc Garnett and Pete Capitola.

The league plans to start operation on Sunday afternoon, October 20, and continue through until the last of November. The Williams team won the championship last year and were also champs in 1932. All of the teams this year will be strong. Many former college and high school stars will be on the different teams.

Four Strong Teams

The following teams were present last night with representatives: Croton A. C., "Hop" Colaluca; Audias, Tip Richards; Williams, Norman Nocera; DeHarts, Tom Farrow. The next meeting will be held at the Sporting Goods store next Monday evening for the purpose of taking in any new teams and to make out a schedule of games for the league. All player lists must be turned into the secretary by next Monday, also a list of available fields.

Any of the following teams can enter the league by calling Secretary Marcella at 9062: Oakland, Mahoning, Union high alumni or Highland.

Alec Samuels is enjoying his third straight year as president of the grid league. The teams will all be strong. The Audias, formerly the Marcella A. C., 1930 champions, will feature Nick DeCarbo, former Duquesne university line star, and a young man capable of filling All-American shoes. The DeHarts will feature Freddy Lane, the brilliant colored former high school star. The DeHarts won the title in 1931. The Croton team, 1929 champions, will have a strong lineup.

Jimmy Foxx Is Somewhat Better

(International News Service)

WINNEPEG, Man., Oct. 11.—Jimmie Foxx, Philadelphia Athletics star first baseman, will spend another day or two in the hospital before rejoining the American league all-star team on the Pacific coast. He was hit on the head by a pitched ball during an exhibition game here three days ago, but his condition has shown steady improvement.

Linda Stout Wins In Straight Heats

WAYNESBURG, Oct. 10—Linda Stout took the 2:23 space in straight heats in 2:11 1-4, Calumet Dell did likewise in the second division of the 2:23 pace in the same time and Wanda Guy turned in three firsts in the 2:17 trot in 2:09 1-4 at Waynesburg yesterday. In the 5-8 running event Crossed Wires won in the 3-4 running event Broomoney won.

Sutherland Has Eleven On Edge For Trojan Game

Only Doubtful Starting Posts Will Be Quarterback And Left Halfback

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 11.—With the eyes of a football world trained on their approaching game with Southern California, Pittsburgh university gridders today were completing practice sessions for the highly important sectional game Saturday.

Coach Jock Sutherland was prepared to put his charges through a lengthy scrimmage this afternoon, and plans to taper off the week's activities with signal drills.

The visiting Trojans are expected to arrive in Pittsburgh tomorrow afternoon. They will hold signal drills at Shadyside Academy, which has been selected as their headquarters while they are here.

Two Positions Open.

Having seen his squad in action in two victories this season, Coach Sutherland is not contemplating making any major changes in his regular lineup. Two positions, quarterback and left halfback, have not been filled to the entire satisfaction of the Panthers' coach, and if any changes are made, they will probably be there.

During the week of intensive practice the Pittsburgh mentor concentrated on his forward wall, with especial attention on the two tackles. At the conclusion of a lengthy drill last night, he declared that his team was "about ready" for the Trojan invasion.

Sutherland feels that if his tackles and ends hold up against the hard-driving attack of the visitors, the Panthers will have a good chance of defeating the Californians. With this thought in mind, he concentrated the week's training activities largely on his linemen.

Geneva To Play Salem Tonight

Coach Dyke Beede Will Shakeup Geneva Lineup For Game Tonight With Salem

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Oct. 11.—Coach Dike Beede is shaking up his starting lineup for the game with Salem college tonight in a frantic effort to bring the Genevans out of the slump which they displayed against Thiel here last Friday night. Although the boys worked hard, it was quite evident that Thiel had the jump on them at every stage of the game. With this fact in mind, Beede is taking a long shot on his starting lineup, hoping that it will click.

The injured list still includes two of Geneva's most dependable men. Clyde Johnson, who tore a ligament in his right leg last Friday night, is definitely out of this contest, while Joe Paris, sturdy guard, will view the game from the sidelines because his leg is not responding to treatment in a satisfactory manner.

Begolly and Bache will start at their familiar terminal positions for the third game of the season. Jess Fleck by nature of his work in the Tech game will be returned to a tackle, pairing with lanky Ellis Nave. Rainey, stubby freshman, and Jack Weichel, are the guard selections and Joe Hlista the starting center.

With his sparkplug, Clyde Johnson, out of commission Beede is attempting to build his backfield around Dick Jones, whom he has shifted to quarterback. Bruce Wilson, although inexperienced, has shown more defensive ability than any of the newer men and will open at half with Perricelli, freshman speedster. Gobulich performed well under fire last week and is deserving of the fullback post.

Homer Gray Trains For Future Bouts

Homer Gray colored, middleweight who has staged many thrilling encounters here, has hopped into training for whatever bouts the promoterers in this section offer. Homer's last fight was with Jack Redman of Akron. It was a good bout. He is one of the best looking prospects in this section.

Second Class AA Battle Saturday For High Team

Washington High Will Be Met In Washington, Pa., Locals Hard At Work

Not disheartened by the defeat administered by Johnstown high last Saturday, the New Castle high football team is hard at work at Taggart field this week in preparation for their coming class AA game at Washington, Pa., Saturday.

New Castle defeated Charleroi in the first conference game at New Castle two weeks ago and will try hard to take the measure of the heretofore undefeated Washington high team.

Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh hopes to have his two cripples, Captain Walter Raskowski and Charles Fleming, in shape for the battle this week. There will not likely be any changes in the New Castle starting lineup, it was announced today, unless Raskowski and Fleming are unable to start for the red and black eleven.

QUICK KICKS

The defeat at the hands of Michigan State last Saturday was the first one suffered by Michigan since 1931 when Ohio State turned the trick. It was also the first intrastate classic between the two schools that the Spartans won since 1915. . . . Joe Zanin, Temple university end, is helping to pay his way through college by giving blood transfusions. . . . Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania was a guard during his college days at Yale. . . . Ursinus' victory over Penn last Saturday was their second in 24 years over the Quaker outfit. . . . Jay Berwanger, Chicago university's star back, concentrated on forward passing during spring practice under the tutelage of Marchy Schwartz, backfield coach on the Midway. . . . Woodrow Wilson coached the Princeton university football team of 1890. . . . When Allegheny defeated Clarion Teachers last Saturday, it marked their first win since 1932.

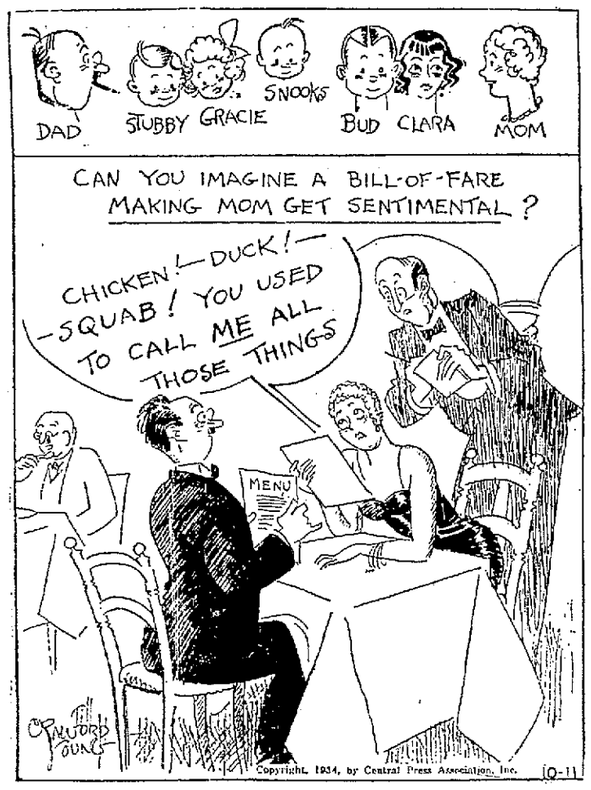

Ted Rosequist, a star lineman at Ohio State last year, earned his board and keep by digging graves. . . . Charley Berry, Philadelphia Athletics' catcher, was an all-American end from Lafayette on Walter Camp's last honor team. . . . Pat O'Dea, famous football star of Wisconsin, who recently identified himself after about 30 years of living under an assumed name, coached at Notre Dame in 1901 and 1902. . . . Alonzo Stagg, veteran coach, was an all-American end from Yale in 1899. . . . Josiah McCracken, Jr., the lad who scored Penn's touchdown against Ursinus, is the son of a Shanghai missionary who was an all-American guard at Penn in 1899. . . . The post-season play-off between the Chicago Bears and New York Giants last fall drew $21,138.52 less the government tax. . . . When Rice defeated Purdue, 14-0, it was the first time in 49 games that the Boilermakers were held scoreless.

The Yale-Columbia game of last Saturday was the first in 29 years between the two schools. . . . Although there is an old saying to the effect that a smart quarterback will make an ordinary football team look good, Carl Brumbaugh, field general of the Chicago Bears believes the reverse to be true. "The Bears would make any quarterback look good," he claims. . . . Last Saturday's defeat Ohio State handed Indiana, 33-0, was the worst suffered by the Hoosiers at the hands of Ohio since 1916 when the Buckeyes won, 47-7. . . . Bob Zuppke says Jack Buckler, 165 pound Army star, is the hardest-running back he ever saw. . . . Ozzie Nelson, orchestra leader, was a four-letter man at Rutgers where he starred in football, swimming, boxing, and lacrosse. . . . Dick Crayne and Oze Simmons accounted for more than 200 of the 233 yards gained on the ground by Iowa against Northwestern last Saturday. Keep your eye on Simmons, the Negro sophomore from Texas; he's developing rapidly.

Abe Mickal, Louisiana State backfield ace, kicked 14 consecutive extra points last season. . . . Northwestern football opponents haven't seen the last of the Gonyas. There's another this year, Bud, who is a quarterback candidate. Bob was a tackle on the 1932 eleven. . . Jim Musick, former Southern California fullback, withdrew from school in his freshman year because his fraternity brothers insisted he wear a dress suit. Special dispensation had to be made before he would return to college. . . . Jock Sutherland, Pitt coach, used to be a policeman. . . . Due to mine labor troubles in Indiana the Sullivan and Clinton high school game last year was governed by military rule. . . In 1930 Ted Beckett, guard on the California football team, caught one of the longest passes on record. It was a 285 yard pass thrown from the top of the Campanile at Berkeley, Cal., by Coach Bill Ingram. Seven other players failed to make the catch.

The total chicken population of the country is approximately 400,000,000.

W. & J. To Play Detroit Eleven

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 11—W. & J Grid Athletes, 30 strong, will board a train here tonight for their intersectional battle tomorrow night with University of Detroit's Titans at Detroit. Coach Hank Day and his staff have bent every effort in developing W. and J's defense to stop a powerful overhead attack that is expected to greet them at Detroit.

But why stop with legalized gambling? Aren't there other vices that would bring in a lot of revenue?

Pitt Expects Tough Battle

Southern California Will Try Hard To Upset Panthers In Own Lair

PITTSBURGH, Octo. 11.—All hopes of Pitt catching an over-confident Southern California eleven napping and registering an upset went by the boards when Washington State won over the Trojans on Saturday, and now the Panthers will have to prepare for a team that is coming here eager for revenge.

Catching an eleven on the rebound is always bad, and it is going to be particularly so this week, for the Trojans without this added incentive would have been bad enough.

Bill Kern, Pitt's scout, dropped back into town last Sunday, and has been in a huddle with Jock Sutherland ever since. He reports that the Southern Californians, having learned their lesson, will be bad medicine on Saturday, if for no other reason than that of their manpower.

Line Averages 220

It will be the biggest college eleven to set foot on the Pitt stadium turf, the line averaging around 220 pounds, and the backfield being of average weight.

Just what changes in the lineup Howard Jones will have to make after Saturday's game remains to be seen, but no matter what he does, the new men in the lineup will be just as big and just as fast as the men that they are replacing.

Here at Pitt, Jock Sutherland does not anticipate any startling shifts. He's still worried about his left halfback, and he could do with a couple of extra tackles and ends, but he is just about decided to use the same eleven that has gone to the front in the first two games.

This means that Pitt will have Rooker and Baxter at the ends, Hoel and Detzel at the tackles, Hartwig and Ormiston at the guards, Shotwell at center, Munjas at quarterback, Nicksick and LaRue at the halves and Weinstock at full.

Stock Market Moves Forward

Gains Run To More Than Point In Many Of Leading Issues

MARKET IS MOST ACTIVE OF MONTH

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The stock market moved ahead again today with gains running to more than a point. All sections of the list shared in today's upturn with volume picking up sharply.

Strength was apparent at the opening which was the most active in weeks. Blocks of 1,000 to 2,500 shares were not uncommon at the start.

Strength in the commodity markets where wheat rose above the $1 a bushel level and corn jumped more than a cent a bushel on the bullish crop report stimulated traders for the advance to fresh activity.

Railroad shares were in good demand under the leadership of Atchison which went fractionally higher to a new top on the current movement. Southern Pacific, Lackawanna, New York Central and Southern Railway also were strong.

United States Steel also showed a good tone rising fractionally to its best price in several weeks. Other industrial shares were aided by the buoyancy in steel and rose moderately.

Chrysler set the pace in the motors with a gain of about a point. General Motors, Auburn and Nash were strong and fractionally higher.

Consolidated Gas was the leader of the utilities with a gain of nearly a point. Oils, liquors and specialties moved in unison with the rest of the list.

Farmer Near McKees Rocks Held For Shooting Of Lineman

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 11.—Accused of firing a shotgun point blank at a light company linesman after becoming enraged by youths crossing his farm with hunting dogs, Adam Amzie, 56, Kennedy township, was held in McKees Rocks police station today.

Frank C. Kitner, 43, Carrick, died instantly when Amzie discharged the weapon only a few inches from his side. Detectives also reported they were holding Amzie's wife as a material witness.

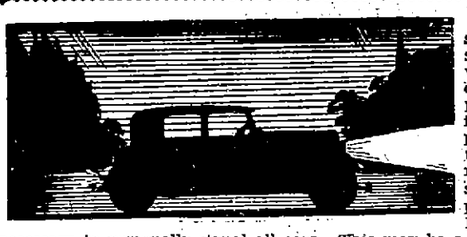

SLIGHT ACCIDENT

J. C. Blevens, 913 Warren avenue was driving his car east on East Washington street, at 4:40 p. m. yesterday and stopped for the East and East Washington street traffic light. He reported to police that a car driven by J. B. Johnson, Pennsylvania license number 18744 struck his car.

Stopping At Night

If it is necessary to come to a stop on the highway at night, drive off the pavement or road if the surface permits. It is up to you to prevent rear-end collisions with approaching vehicles even if it is necessary to personally signal all cars. This may be a matter of life or death to other drivers who may not understand that your car is standing still. Avoid obstructing head or tail lights as you work on the car.

BABY BOVINES COME SIX AT A TIME TO OHIO FARM

Here we have sextuplets, if you please. Perhaps the three cows on the farm of Joseph Baker, near Delaware, O., read newspaper stories of the Dionne quintuplets and organized to beat that record. Each of the three gave birth to twins at the same time. All the twins were marketed.

FIND ANCIENT INDIAN CANOE IN MISSISSIPPI BANK

Indian braves once rode in this canoe, recently dug out of the bank of the Mississippi river, near Rock Island, Ill., by Urban H. Johnson of Rock Island. Students of Indian lore say the canoe was hewn out of the trunk of a large oak tree either by the Sac or Fox tribes in the seventeenth century or the Kaskaskias tribe at a much earlier date. It bears the marks of having been chopped out with a tomahawk or stone ax. Smoothness of the interior was obtained by burning off the sharp edges of wood. Young relatives of Johnson are shown playing in the canoe.

Stock Market Moves Forward

Gains Run To More Than Point In Many Of Leading Issues

MARKET IS MOST ACTIVE OF MONTH

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The stock market moved ahead again today with gains running to more than a point. All sections of the list shared in today's upturn with volume picking up sharply.

Strength was apparent at the opening which was the most active in weeks. Blocks of 1,000 to 2,500 shares were not uncommon at the start.

Strength in the commodity markets where wheat rose above the $1 a bushel level and corn jumped more than a cent a bushel on the bullish crop report stimulated traders for the advance to fresh activity.

Railroad shares were in good demand under the leadership of Atchison which went fractionally higher to a new top on the current movement. Southern Pacific, Lackawanna, New York Central and Southern Railway also were strong.

United States Steel also showed a good tone rising fractionally to its best price in several weeks. Other industrial shares were aided by the buoyancy in steel and rose moderately.

Chrysler set the pace in the motors with a gain of about a point. General Motors, Auburn and Nash were strong and fractionally higher.

Consolidated Gas was the leader of the utilities with a gain of nearly a point. Oils, liquors and specialties moved in unison with the rest of the list.

Light Company Employee Shot

Farmer Near McKees Rocks Held For Shooting Of Lineman

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 11.—Accused of firing a shotgun point blank at a light company linesman after becoming enraged by youths crossing his farm with hunting dogs, Adam Amzie, 56, Kennedy township, was held in McKees Rocks police station today.

Frank C. Kitner, 43, Carrick, died instantly when Amzie discharged the weapon only a few inches from his side. Taken to jail after the shooting, Amzie told detectives he was trying to scare trespassers who have stolen 130 chickens from his farm in the last two years. Detectives also reported they were holding Amzie's wife as a material witness.

Stopping At Night

If it is necessary to come to a stop on the highway at night, drive off the pavement or road if the surface permits. It is up to you to prevent rear-end collisions with approaching vehicles even if it is necessary to personally signal all cars. This may be a matter of life or death to other drivers who may not understand that your car is standing still. Avoid obstructing head or tail lights as you work on the car.

Police Seek To Learn Identity Of Assassin

Paris Police Have Body Of Slayer But Who He Is Remains Mystery

By WILLIAM PARKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Oct. 11.—With France's entire crime detection resources concentrated on their greatest murder mystery in years, involving highest international politics and possibly governing the fate of the present French cabinet, authorities today expressed confidence that full knowledge of the identity and purpose of the assassin of King Alexander and Foreign Minister Louis Barthou would soon come to light.

Crack sleuths of the surete nationale, France's secret service, had already discovered that "Petrus Kalemen," the killer, had two confederates. He registered with them at a hotel in Aix-en-Provence, near Marseilles. Police tracked the trio to a Paris hotel, where their trail was lost. One had registered as Landis Las Benes, and the other as Nalis Nikomir.

Paradoxically, police had in their hands the body of the assassin, but they did not know who he was; his Czecho-Slovakian passport was definitely proved to have been forged. His name was a fake. Martyr to a grim purpose, he had succeeded in death in covering up his trail. Tattooed intitials found on his body linked him to the dread "Imro," the independent Macedonian revolutionary organization, but detectives thought this, too, might have been a "red herring" to throw police off the trail of his co-conspirators.

In the face of demands that the government be reorganized lest riots like those of last February break out, Premier Gaston Doumergue took the political and diplomatic bull by the horns and himself assumed the portfolio of minister for foreign relations.

He announced immediately that he would go to Rome to see Premier Mussolini, in the hope of still carrying through the Franco-Italian accord for which Barthou had laid the groundwork, and quieting Europe's nerves by smoothing the surface of Italy's relations with Yugoslavia.

Mrs. Roosevelt Is 50 Years Old

Eats Birthday Cake And Acknowledges Greetings In White House Today

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt had a cake today—her 50th birthday anniversary—"just because the children wanted it."

She doesn't care much for birthday cakes and parties because, she said, she personally believes "the more you forget your birthdays as you grow older the younger you stay."

Nevertheless the five children had their way and at tea time today the family will get together in a little birthday party and watch the number one woman of the household and the land, cut and eat her cake and acknowledge greetings.

Residents To Have Last Look At Old Hospital

Purchaser Of Structure Will Permit Visitors To Go Through Building Friday

TO START RAZING WORK NEXT WEEK

To those New Castle residents who love to recall "my operation" when conversation grows dull at bridge or golf, there will be afforded a final chance to see again the room where "my operation" took place—that's if you happened to go under the surgical knife at the old Shenango Valley hospital, high up on the North Beaver street hill.

The three-story hospital is due to be wrecked soon, but the wrecking contractor, J. A. Panella, this city, has decided to give the public a "last look" at the inside of the institution before it falls and so he has set aside tomorrow.

Visitors' Day Friday

Escorts, Mr. Panella said today, will be at the hospital from 1 to 5 Friday afternoon. He invites anyone to look the building over.

The razing job, he announced, will commence sometime next week. He could not say what day.

"You know, lots of people might want a last look at the interior of the old building," Mr. Panella explained, "and this is a good chance. I don't want anyone going through when the wreckers are at work."

The contractor declared that the wrecking job, so far as he could estimate, will require up until July 1, 1935 for completion. He said the contract gives him that much time to tear down the structure.

Closed when the modern Jameson Memorial hospital was opened to the public, the hilltop "house of mercy" has won for itself a firm place in the history of this county. Long will be remembered its contribution to medical history here.

"Many of the doctors," Contractor Panella said, "are interested in the building because of their familiarity with the old building when it was in operation. Many of them are selecting souvenirs for themselves."

One north hill physician has purchased the mantlepiece in the old children's ward, he reported, because he treated about 30 typhoid fever cases there at one time.

The Panella concern has wrecked numerous buildings here within the past three years but the Shenango building will be its largest.

"The wrecking will be done slowly," Panella said.

Castlewood Church Has Gospel Service

Dramatization Of The Prodigal Son Will Mark The Friday Evening Service

The second week of the gospel services that are being held at the Harmony Baptist church on the New Castle-Ellwood City road witnessed a most successful beginning Tuesday evening as the evangelist, Harold L. Davis, and his sister, Miss Edna Mae Davis, launched into the heart of their campaign. The attendance and interest have been steadily increasing nightly and the blessing of an old time revival is much in evidence on every hand.

On Tuesday evening the evangelist delivered a striking and soul stirring message, using as his subject "The Biggest Trouble God Has With You." On Wednesday evening his message was "The Greatest Love Story That Ever Was Written." At this service the evangelists sang "The Meeting in the Air," accompanied by the harp. A beautiful duet entitled "The Fork of the Road" was sung by Helen Houk and Frances Currie of the local choir.

On Thursday evening Rev. Davis will have as his subject "The Meanest Person in Castlewood, Pennsylvania."

A special service is being arranged for Friday evening. The evangelists will give a dramatization of the Prodigal Son. The theme will be "The Drama of Life". This is a great message, giving the story of the Prodigal Son in song, word and music.

On Saturday evening, "The Fence God Built Around Hell to Keep Men Out."

Services commence promptly at 7:45.

Speed Crusade Decreases Crashes

Very Few Reports Of Accident Now Being Made At Police Station

Accidents on city thoroughfares have shown a big decrease since the police commenced a war on speeders and autoists who make left turns in front of other cars and violate other auto regulations. During the past week approximately only half a dozen slight accidents have occurred.

Last year approximately 1,000 accident reports were made at the city police station.

To note the difference in the speed of cars to what it formerly was one can see autoists traveling at a rate of 20 miles an hour, the speed limit, in Highland and Wilmington avenues. Most arrests have been made on North hill and East Side hills. The South Side thoroughfares, it is said, are not adapted for speed. Police now are watching for speeders on paved cross streets in different sections.

Four Given Castor Oil Sentence Today

Mayor Charles B. Mayne received a surprise this morning when he took his seat in police court. Several of those who surprised him received castor oil for shocking him.

It appears that the mayor had the belief that his "C. O." treatment for too frequent defendants on a charge of intoxication had cured certain men of their taste, but evidently it didn't work out.

So, when four of a group of men presented themselves for sentence he gave them an extra sized dose of castor oil. Some of them had to take two gulps to drain the glass of the sticky "beverage," but they managed to perform the task.

They were then given their freedom.

Proclamation For Columbus Day

Under authority of a Public Resolution passed April 30, 1934, President Franklin D. Roosevelt has issued a proclamation setting aside October 12 as Columbus Day and calls upon the citizens, the churches and schools to join in celebrating the anniversary of the day Christopher Columbus discovered America.

The proclamation is attested by the Secretary of State, Cordell Hull and copies of it have been received in New Castle. The day will be celebrated in the schools, with many of them presenting programs in commemoration of the feat of Columbus.

Make Report Of Donation Day

A report from the different committees in charge of the New Castle hospital food drive which started Wednesday morning, showed that the campaign was not very effective.

It is believed that many local residents have not found time to deposit their donations at the different stations. Unless today's drive proves more productive, it is possible that the committeemen may resort to the house to house method during the next few days.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS SELECT OFFICERS

Officers of the Young Republicans have been chosen for the Lawrence County branch of the State wide organization. They are, President, Filmore Campbell of New Wilmington; vice president, Miss Martha Muse of New Castle; secretary, Mrs. J. C. Tinker of Ellwood City, and Treasurer Dr. J. L. Reed of New Castle.

The county is now being organized into precinct branches and the Young Republicans expect to have an active part in the campaign which ends with the election on November 6.

Police Seek To Learn Identity Of Assassin

Paris Police Have Body Of Slayer But Who He Is Remains Mystery

By WILLIAM PARKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Oct. 11.—With France's entire crime detection resources concentrated on their greatest murder mystery in years, involving highest international politics and possibly governing the fate of the present French cabinet, authorities today expressed confidence that full knowledge of the identity and purpose of the assassin of King Alexander and Foreign Minister Louis Barthou would soon come to light.

Crack sleuths of the surete nationale, France's secret service, had already discovered that "Petrus Kalemen," the killer, had two confederates. He registered with them at a hotel in Aix-en-Provence, near Marseilles. Police tracked the trio to a Paris hotel, where their trail was lost. One had registered as Landis Las Benes, and the other as Nalis Nikomir.

Paradoxically, police had in their hands the body of the assassin, but they did not know who he was; his Czecho-Slovakian passport was definitely proved to have been forged. His name was a fake. Martyr to a grim purpose, he had succeeded in death in covering up his trail. Tattooed intitials found on his body linked him to the dread "Imro," the independent Macedonian revolutionary organization, but detectives thought this, too, might have been a "red herring" to throw police off the trail of his co-conspirators.

In the face of demands that the government be reorganized lest riots like those of last February break out, Premier Gaston Doumergue took the political and diplomatic bull by the horns and himself assumed the portfolio of minister for foreign relations.

He announced immediately that he would go to Rome to see Premier Mussolini, in the hope of still carrying through the Franco-Italian accord for which Barthou had laid the groundwork, and quieting Europe's nerves by smoothing the surface of Italy's relations with Yugoslavia.

Mrs. Roosevelt Is 50 Years Old

Eats Birthday Cake And Acknowledges Greetings In White House Today

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt had a cake today—her 50th birthday anniversary—"just because the children wanted it."

She doesn't care much for birthday cakes and parties because, she said, she personally believes "the more you forget your birthdays as you grow older the younger you stay."

Nevertheless the five children had their way and at tea time today the family will get together in a little birthday party and watch the number one woman of the household and the land, cut and eat her cake and acknowledge greetings.

Residents To Have Last Look At Old Hospital

TO START RAZING WORK NEXT WEEK

To those New Castle residents who love to recall "my operation" when conversation grows dull at bridge or golf, there will be afforded a final chance to see again the room where "my operation" took place—that's if you happened to go under the surgical knife at the old Shenango Valley hospital, high up on the North Beaver street hill.

The three-story hospital is due to be wrecked soon, but the wrecking contractor, J. A. Panella, this city, has decided to give the public a "last look" at the inside of the institution before it falls and so he has set aside tomorrow.

Visitors' Day Friday

Escorts, Mr. Panella said today, will be at the hospital from 1 to 5 Friday afternoon. He invites anyone to look the building over.

The razing job, he announced, will commence sometime next week. He could not say what day.

"You know, lots of people might want a last look at the interior of the old building," Mr. Panella explained, "and this is a good chance. I don't want anyone going through when the wreckers are at work."

The contractor declared that the wrecking job, so far as he could estimate, will require up until July 1, 1935 for completion. He said the contract gives him that much time to tear down the structure.

Closed when the modern Jameson Memorial hospital was opened to the public, the hilltop "house of mercy" has won for itself a firm place in the history of this county. Long will be remembered its contribution to medical history here.

'Many of the doctors," Contractor Panella said, "are interested in the building because of their familiarity with the old building when it was in operation. Many of them are selecting souvenirs for themselves."

One north hill physician has purchased the mantlepiece in the old children's ward, he reported, because he treated about 30 typhoid fever cases there at one time.

The Panella concern has wrecked numerous buildings here within the past three years but the Shenango building will be its largest.

"The wrecking will be done slowly," Panella said.

Castlewood Church Has Gospel Service

Dramatization Of The Prodigal Son Will Mark The Friday Evening Service

The second week of the gospel services that are being held at the Harmony Baptist church on the New Castle-Ellwood City road witnessed a most successful beginning Tuesday evening as the evangelist, Harold L. Davis, and his sister, Miss Edna Mae Davis, launched into the heart of their campaign. The attendance and interest have been steadily increasing nightly and the blessing of an old time revival is much in evidence on every hand.

On Tuesday evening the evangelist delivered a striking and soul stirring message, using as his subject "The Biggest Trouble God Has With You." On Wednesday evening his message was "The Greatest Love Story That Ever Was Written." At this service the evangelists sang "The Meeting in the Air," accompanied by the harp. A beautiful duet entitled "The Fork of the Road" was sung by Helen Houk and Frances Currie of the local choir.

On Thursday evening Rev. Davis will have as his subject "The Meanest Person in Castlewood, Pennsylvania."

A special service is being arranged for Friday evening. The evangelists will give a dramatization of the Prodigal Son. The theme will be "The Drama of Life". This is a great message, giving the story of the Prodigal Son in song, word and music.

On Saturday evening, "The Fence God Built Around Hell to Keep Men Out."

Services commence promptly at 7:45.

Speed Crusade Decreases Crashes

Very Few Reports Of Accident Now Being Made At Police Station

Accidents on city thoroughfares have shown a big decrease since the police commenced a war on speeders and autoists who make left turns in front of other cars and violate other auto regulations. During the past week approximately only half a dozen slight accidents have occurred.

Last year approximately 1,000 accident reports were made at the city police station.

To note the difference in the speed of cars to what it formerly was one can see autoists traveling at a rate of 20 miles an hour, the speed limit, in Highland and Wilmington avenues. Most arrests have been made on North hill and East Side hills. The South Side thoroughfares, it is said, are not adapted for speed. Police now are watching for speeders on paved cross streets in different sections.

Four Given Castor Oil Sentence Today

Mayor Charles B. Mayne received a surprise this morning when he took his seat in police court. Several of those who surprised him received castor oil for shocking him.

It appears that the mayor had the belief that his "C. O." treatment for too frequent defendants on a charge of intoxication had cured certain men of their taste, but evidently it didn't work out.

So, when four of a group of men presented themselves for sentence he gave them an extra sized dose of castor oil. Some of them had to take two gulps to drain the glass of the sticky "beverage," but they managed to perform the task.

They were then given their freedom.

Proclamation For Columbus Day

Under authority of a Public Resolution passed April 30, 1934, President Franklin D. Roosevelt has issued a proclamation setting aside October 12 as Columbus Day and calls upon the citizens, the churches and schools to join in celebrating the anniversary of the day Christopher Columbus discovered America.

The proclamation is attested by the Secretary of State, Cordell Hull and copies of it have been received in New Castle. The day will be celebrated in the schools, with many of them presenting programs in commemoration of the feat of Columbus.

Make Report Of Donation Day

A report from the different committees in charge of the New Castle hospital food drive which started Wednesday morning, showed that the campaign was not very effective.

It is believed that many local residents have not found time to deposit their donations at the different stations. Unless today's drive proves more productive, it is possible that the committeemen may resort to the house to house method during the next few days.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS SELECT OFFICERS

They are, President, Filmore Campbell of New Wilmington; vice president, Miss Martha Muse of New Castle; secretary, Mrs. J. C. Tinker of Ellwood City, and Treasurer Dr. J. L. Reed of New Castle.

The county is now being organized into precinct branches and the Young Republicans expect to have an active part in the campaign which ends with the election on November 6.

Stock Market Moves Forward

Gains Run To More Than Point In Many Of Leading Issues

MARKET IS MOST ACTIVE OF MONTH

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The stock market moved ahead again today with gains running to more than a point. All sections of the list shared in today's upturn with volume picking up sharply.

Strength was apparent at the opening which was the most active in weeks. Blocks of 1,000 to 2,500 shares were not uncommon at the start.

Strength in the commodity markets where wheat rose above the $1 a bushel level and corn jumped more than a cent a bushel on the bullish crop report stimulated traders for the advance to fresh activity.

Railroad shares were in good demand under the leadership of Atchison which went fractionally higher to a new top on the current movement. Southern Pacific, Lackawanna, New York Central and Southern Railway also were strong.

United States Steel also showed a good tone rising fractionally to its best price in several weeks. Other industrial shares were aided by the buoyancy in steel and rose moderately.

Chrysler set the pace in the motors with a gain of about a point. General Motors, Auburn and Nash were strong and fractionally higher.

Consolidated Gas was the leader of the utilities with a gain of nearly a point. Oils, liquors and specialties moved in unison with the rest of the list.

Light Company Employee Shot

Farmer Near McKees Rocks Held For Shooting Of Lineman

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 11.—Accused of firing a shotgun point blank at a light company linesman after becoming enraged by youths crossing his farm with hunting dogs, Adam Amzie, 56, Kennedy township, was held in McKees Rocks police station today.

Frank C. Kitner, 43, Carrick, died instantly when Amzie discharged the weapon only a few inches from his side. Taken to jail after the shooting, Amzie told detectives he was trying to scare trespassers who have stolen 130 chickens from his farm in the last two years. Detectives also reported they were holding Amzie's wife as a material witness.

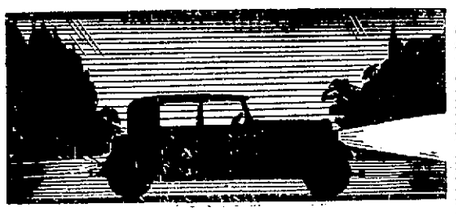

SLIGHT ACCIDENT

J. C. Blevens, 913 Warren avenue was driving his car east on East Washington street, at 4:40 p. m. yesterday and stopped for the East and East Washington street traffic light. He reported to police that a car driven by J. B. Johnson, Pennsylvania license number 18744 struck his car.

BITTEN BY DOG

Mrs. Pearl McMurry, 324 Boyles avenue, reported to police last night a small dog ran from a yard at 238 Hazelcroft avenue and bit her on a leg.

Stopping At Night

If it is necessary to come to a stop on the highway at night, drive off the pavement or road if the surface permits. It is up to you to prevent rear-end collisions with approaching vehicles even if it is necessary to personally signal all cars. This may be a matter of life or death to other drivers who may not understand that your car is standing still. Avoid obstructing head or tail lights as you work on the car.

FIND ANCIENT INDIAN CANOE IN MISSISSIPPI BANK

Indian braves once rode in this canoe, recently dug out of the bank of the Mississippi river, near Rock Island, Ill., by Urban H. Johnson of Rock Island. Students of Indian lore say the canoe was hewn out of the trunk of a large oak tree either by the Sac or Fox tribes in the seventeenth century or the Kaskaskias tribe at a much earlier date. It bears the marks of having been chopped out with a tomahawk or stone ax. Smoothness of the interior was obtained by burning off the sharp edges of wood. Young relatives of Johnson are shown playing in the canoe.

Police Seek To Learn Identity Of Assassin

Paris Police Have Body Of Slayer But Who He Is Remains Mystery

By WILLIAM PARKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Oct. 11.—With France's entire crime detection resources concentrated on their greatest murder mystery in years, involving highest international politics and possibly governing the fate of the present French cabinet, authorities today expressed confidence that full knowledge of the identity and purpose of the assassin of King Alexander and Foreign Minister Louis Barthou would soon come to light.

Crack sleuths of the surete nationale, France's secret service, had already discovered that "Petrus Kalemen," the killer, had two confederates. He registered with them at a hotel in Aix-en-Provence, near Marseilles. Police tracked the trio to a Paris hotel, where their trail was lost. One had registered as Landis Las Benes, and the other as Nalis Nikomir.

Paradoxically, police had in their hands the body of the assassin, but they did not know who he was; his Czecho-Slovakian passport was definitely proved to have been forged. His name was a fake. Martyr to a grim purpose, he had succeeded in death in covering up his trail. Tattooed intitials found on his body linked him to the dread "Imro," the independent Macedonian revolutionary organization, but detectives thought this, too, might have been a "red herring" to throw police off the trail of his co-conspirators.

In the face of demands that the government be reorganized lest riots like those of last February break out, Premier Gaston Doumergue took the political and diplomatic bull by the horns and himself assumed the portfolio of minister for foreign relations.

He announced immediately that he would go to Rome to see Premier Mussolini, in the hope of still carrying through the Franco-Italian accord for which Barthou had laid the groundwork, and quieting Europe's nerves by smoothing the surface of Italy's relations with Yugoslavia.

Mrs. Roosevelt Is 50 Years Old

Eats Birthday Cake And Acknowledges Greetings In White House Today

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt had a cake today—her 50th birthday anniversary—"just because the children wanted it."

She doesn't care much for birthday cakes and parties because, she said, she personally believes "the more you forget your birthdays as you grow older the younger you stay."

Nevertheless the five children had their way and at tea time today the family will get together in a little birthday party and watch the number one woman of the household and the land, cut and eat her cake and acknowledge greetings.

Residents To Have Last Look At Old Hospital

TO START RAZING WORK NEXT WEEK

To those New Castle residents who love to recall "my operation" when conversation grows dull at bridge or golf, there will be afforded a final chance to see again the room where "my operation" took place—that's if you happened to go under the surgical knife at the old Shenango Valley hospital, high up on the North Beaver street hill.

The three-story hospital is due to be wrecked soon, but the wrecking contractor, J. A. Panella, this city, has decided to give the public a "last look" at the inside of the institution before it falls and so he has set aside tomorrow.

Visitors' Day Friday

Escorts, Mr. Panella said today, will be at the hospital from 1 to 5 Friday afternoon. He invites anyone to look the building over.

The razing job, he announced, will commence sometime next week. He could not say what day.

"You know, lots of people might want a last look at the interior of the old building," Mr. Panella explained, "and this is a good chance. I don't want anyone going through when the wreckers are at work."

The contractor declared that the wrecking job, so far as he could estimate, will require up until July 1, 1935 for completion. He said the contract gives him that much time to tear down the structure.

Closed when the modern Jameson Memorial hospital was opened to the public, the hilltop "house of mercy" has won for itself a firm place in the history of this county. Long will be remembered its contribution to medical history here.

"Many of the doctors," Contractor Panella said, "are interested in the building because of their familiarity with the old building when it was in operation. Many of them are selecting souvenirs for themselves."

One north hill physician has purchased the mantlepiece in the old children's ward, he reported, because he treated about 30 typhoid fever cases there at one time.

The Panella concern has wrecked numerous buildings here within the past three years but the Shenango building will be its largest.

"The wrecking will be done slowly," Panella said.

Castlewood Church Has Gospel Service

Dramatization Of The Prodigal Son Will Mark The Friday Evening Service

The second week of the gospel services that are being held at the Harmony Baptist church on the New Castle-Ellwood City road witnessed a most successful beginning Tuesday evening as the evangelist, Harold L. Davis, and his sister, Miss Edna Mae Davis, launched into the heart of their campaign. The attendance and interest have been steadily increasing nightly and the blessing of an old time revival is much in evidence on every hand.

On Tuesday evening the evangelist delivered a striking and soul stirring message, using as his subject "The Biggest Trouble God Has With You." On Wednesday evening his message was "The Greatest Love Story That Ever Was Written." At this service the evangelists sang "The Meeting in the Air," accompanied by the harp. A beautiful duet entitled "The Fork of the Road" was sung by Helen Houk and Frances Currie of the local choir.

On Thursday evening Rev. Davis will have as his subject "The Meanest Person in Castlewood, Pennsylvania."

A special service is being arranged for Friday evening. The evangelists will give a dramatization of the Prodigal Son. The theme will be "The Drama of Life". This is a great message, giving the story of the Prodigal Son in song, word and music.

On Saturday evening, "The Fence God Built Around Hell to Keep Men Out."

Services commence promptly at 7:45.

Speed Crusade Decreases Crashes

Very Few Reports Of Accident Now Being Made At Police Station

Accidents on city thoroughfares have shown a big decrease since the police commenced a war on speeders and autoists who make left turns in front of other cars and violate other auto regulations. During the past week approximately only half a dozen slight accidents have occurred.

Last year approximately 1,000 accident reports were made at the city police station.

To note the difference in the speed of cars to what it formerly was one can see autoists traveling at a rate of 20 miles an hour, the speed limit, in Highland and Wilmington avenues. Most arrests have been made on North hill and East Side hills. The South Side thoroughfares, it is said, are not adapted for speed. Police now are watching for speeders on paved cross streets in different sections.

Four Given Castor Oil Sentence Today

Mayor Charles B. Mayne received a surprise this morning when he took his seat in police court. Several of those who surprised him received castor oil for shocking him.

It appears that the mayor had the belief that his "C. O." treatment for too frequent defendants on a charge of intoxication had cured certain men of their taste, but evidently it didn't work out.

So, when four of a group of men presented themselves for sentence he gave them an extra sized dose of castor oil. Some of them had to take two gulps to drain the glass of the sticky "beverage," but they managed to perform the task.

They were then given their freedom.

Make Report Of Donation Day

A report from the different committees in charge of the New Castle hospital food drive which started Wednesday morning, showed that the campaign was not very effective.

It is believed that many local residents have not found time to deposit their donations at the different stations. Unless today's drive proves more productive, it is possible that the committeemen may resort to the house to house method during the next few days.
